PREFACE 1134266

Early in the year 1876 my mother died, which put an end to the plan my parents had made to visit the Centennial Exposition and attend the Horton Gathering where the Horton Genealogy was to be exploited. Broken in spirit my father went half heartedly, but could take little pleasure in fulfilling the plan alone. He came home before the time arrived for the Gathering, expecting his copy of the book, which never came, nor any notification of it. The search for one never was rewarded, as no copies seemed available. There were not enough to go around.

Five years ago a treasured volume of it came into our possession. At once it was decided to reprint copies for our own immediate families with their records brought down to the present. While gathering the data it developed that many other Hortons were interested. A modest circular letter was sent out and met with overwhelming interest and demand for copies. A plan then was outlined to correct, add to and bring the annals that could be gathered down to the present time.

Much information was needed of the early colonial settlements of the Pilgrims, the Puritans, the Indian, Dutch and French wars and the Revolution, in all of which the Hortons figured. The pioneers to the south and west, the alignment of forces making for free government and equal rights, as also the crises of growth and development, must be taken account of.

Another circular letter setting forth the plans for an account of the Hortons in America, resulted in prompt and cordial aid and encouragement.

We owe much to the inspiration of our many helpers, Mr. C. Horton Porter, and Mrs. Theodore Horton of Albany, N. Y.; Miss Ada Safford, Michigan; Mrs. Helen M. Irwin, De Witt, Iowa; Mrs. John Girvin Horton, Philadelphia, Pa.; Hon. O. E. Horton, Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Emma Horton Moore, North Carolina; Mrs. Marie Horton Evans, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Laura Horton Ryck-man, and Mrs. Jennie Phillippi, Nebraska; Professor Geo. W. Alloway, Saxton, Pa.; Mrs. C. E. Sharp, Montesano, Wn.; Dr. F. E. Caldwell, Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. Edna Horton Radeker, Montrose, Pa.; Mrs. May Horton Hummel of Southold, L. I.; Mr. H. C. Horton, Staten Island, N. Y.; Mr. Frank Horton Billard, New York City; Mr. John Kimble, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Vought, Hornbrook, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Horton, Seattle, Wn., and many others who have loaned books, pictures, clippings and sent records and corrections and have earned our thanks and the gratitude of the Hortons.

While we do not believe that this book is a clearing house for all the Hortons in America we may hope that it is something salvaged that otherwise may vanish from the minds of men. These men and women gone before have lived righteous lives of endeavor, usefulness and honor, and are worthy that their traditions be cherished, their virtues emulated and their memories preserved.

If this work makes us realize that this country is ours, that our race have been permitted to serve to be of the founders of this great republic, that it is our heritage and solemn responsibility, we shall not have done ill.

It is a home book, produced by a home woman for home people. The writer has no difficulty in investing these Horton members with the virtues of her own beloved father, OGDEN HORTON (p. 36; Joseph), who was the best and kindest man she has known. The disability of the oncoming years, together with failing eyesight, may account for some of the errors, shortcomings and imperfections of the work for which the kind indulgence of the reader is asked.

Thanking you for the enjoyment of your interesting and helpful correspondence, I am,

Yours,

Adaline Horton White

HORTON ARMS. DERBYSHIRE.

A stag's head cabossed, silver; attired, gold; and, for distinction, a canton ermine.

Crest, out of the waves of the sea proper, a tilting spear erect, gold; enfiled with a dolphin, silver, finned, gold, and charged with a shell.

[Cabossed means cut off short so as not to show the neck; attired denotes the horns; canton ermine, means the black spots upon the white field in the left-hand corner. In the picture the artist has not given the shell upon the dolphin.]

Motto.—“QUOD VULT, VALDE VULT,”—What he wills, he wills cordially and without stint.

Arms are hereditary, but the mottoes are not, and may be changed to suit the taste or fancy of any family. There are other Arms of the Horton family, varying somewhat from the above. The date of the grant of the arms I have not found—probably many centuries ago.

NOTES ON THE HORTON ARMS—1929

The history of the Horton Arms Derbyshire, England, as set forth in a pedigree obtained in 1928 from the Heralds office, London, England, bears evidence of long antiquity. The first registry records it without a Crest and probably it came down from the time when the Barons, by military or other tenure, were the whole peerage and might carry on government business in lieu of a king. Crests were not in use until the 13th century. Later, a grant of the first device with a division in the upper right corner in silver (argent) was confirmed, and still later the Crest of the Dolphin out of the waves of the sea was added.

In 1823 the Arms were confirmed to Robert John Wilmot, who, by the terms of the will, assumed the name of Horton in addition to that of Wilmot.

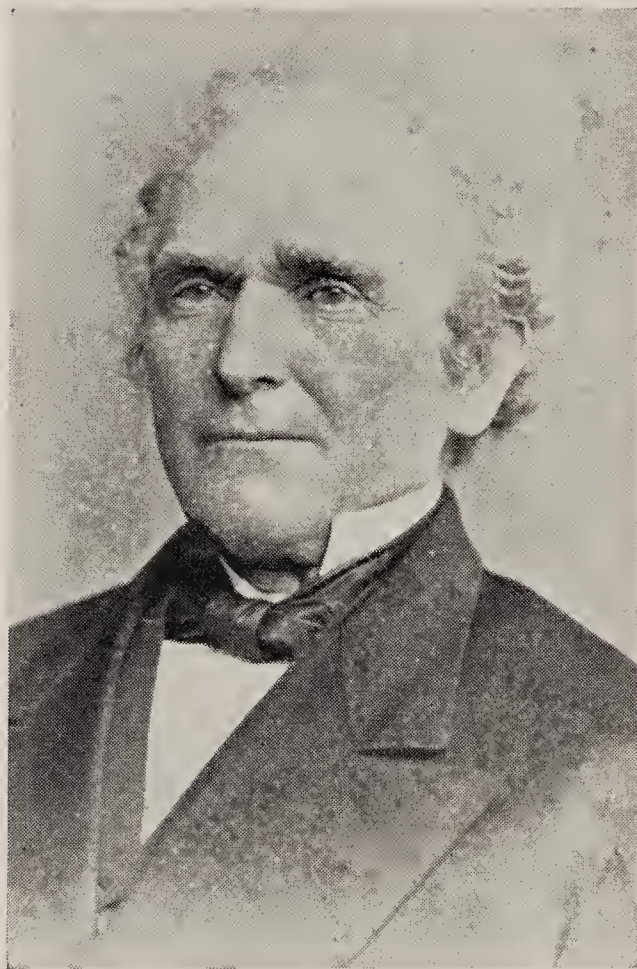

The ermine markings on the pure field of the argent division were added to distinguish it from former grants. We recommend the device as given in this work as the correct one of the Derbyshire family in 1600.

The outline pedigree begins with William Horton in the year 1200, the family was seated at Catton, Derby County, 400 years. There are many branches of them with varying insignia of arms with the rank of Baronet.

The pedigree recites that Roger was the son and heir of William Horton. The son of Roger was William, who married Maud Whiffington. Their son and heir was Christopher, who married Maud Crakall: their son and heir was Walter, who married Jane Chambers: their son and heir was Christopher, who married Parnell Terringham: their son and heir was Walter, who married Dorothy Ferrars: their son and heir was Eusebius, whose daughter the Lady Ann Beatrix, co-heir with Eusebius, married Robert John Wilmot, to whom the arms of the Derbyshire Hortons was confirmed with the addition of the ermine marking for "distinction" in 1823, as stated before.

It is understood that in feudal times that the Arms device was not a grant from the king but was chosen by the shieldbearer himself as his mark, insignia totem, and he no doubt acted to make famous and honorable that particular device on the field of Tourney or battle and in ceremonials attendant on the king. Originally carved or painted on the shield which was part of the equipment of men fighting in armor, it was later richly embroidered on the tunic or surcoat worn over the armor, hence the term "coat of arms". It might be repeated on his horsetrappings, weapons, ornaments, furniture and was, largely, carved on tombs and above doors and gateways of his residences and castles. Once arms insignia served a serious need. They went out of real use when "gunpowder came in."

The Arms once adopted descended from father to son and was considered a distinction of honor and a genealogical symbol and indicated a hereditary title.

DR. GEORGE F. HORTON

Author of Horton Genealogy, 1876

Dr. George Firman Horton, author of the 1876 Genealogy, was the ninth child of the family. Born at Terrytown, Pa., 1806, of parents distinguished in Revolutionary fame, his mother, Deborah Terry, barely escaping with her life from the Fort Forty in the Wyoming Valley massacre, his father a major in the American troops, was eminent in public service, as well as in civil life.

Of Dr. Geo. F. Horton, Appleton's Cyclopædia of Am. Biography says:

"Physician; was educated at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., and the Medical Department of Rutgers College.

"He began practicing medicine in his native town, 1829. Became advocate of temperance cause, 1830. Was a member of the Anti-slavery Society from its formation until the extinction of slavery.

He was for twelve years treasurer and town clerk of his township. From 1830 to 1856 postmaster at Terrytown.

In 1876 he was elected delegate to the Constitutional Convention of Pa.

He was a skillful botanist and entomologist.

Published reports on cases in the Transactions of the Pa. State Medical Society, and on the Geology of Bradford County (Pa.), was the author of the Horton Genealogy, 1876."

Not a man of large wealth or leisure, he made sacrifices without hope of reward, to collect, annotate, compare, revise and arrange for publication the annals of our race.

He traveled at his own expense when traveling was difficult and expensive to the centres of Horton settlements: To Southold, L. I.;

Note.—This portrait was given to Mrs. Edward M. Vought of Towanda, Pa., by John Burleigh Horton, his last surviving son, for this edition. (John Burleigh Horton passed away in 1927 at 86 years of age.)

Orange, Schuyler and Westchester Counties of N. Y.; to New York City, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and many other places, gathering records from cherished old Bibles, old public documents, old newspaper files and visiting the aged members of the race for information, which he carefully and patiently assembled for preservation.

His work has been regarded with confidence and reverence next to Holy Writ amongst us. It was no small achievement and the credit and thanks of this numerous and widely diffused family, as well as of the unborn generations, are due him in large measure.

In his modesty he gave little account of himself.

Mr. Frank B. Homet, a grandson of Dr. Geo. F. Horton, writes: "The most impressive picture I have of my grandfather was seeing him kneeling in family worship, his household also kneeling at their chairs around him—the reading of the Scripture and the singing together of the old hymn, 'Loving Kindness.' I never forget."

Through his untiring effort the old Presbyterian Church at Terrytown was erected and services were held as long as he lived. The church still stands and is in use.

Genial, kindly in disposition, upright, thoroughgoing, a good story teller with a fund of quiet humor, and a large outlook on life, he was socially a favorite and much loved by his patients, neighbors and associates.

"I hate to see the scum on that milk," he said to his little grandson, who followed him to the cellar on the heels of a stringent call on a bitter cold day, for his professional services.

The scum was hastily poured off into a bowl, an apple pie seized and crumbled in, hastily eaten and he was in the saddle and away on a gallop on an errand of life or death.

His wife, in 1886, suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left her helpless. He tenderly cared for her himself until she died. He died soon after in the same year. They sleep side by side in the family plot at Terrytown, Bradford Co., Pa.

In 1878 Dr. Horton published a second edition of the Chronicles, with an addenda of eighty-six pages, containing additional records and hundreds of corrections of errors of the first work. These have been carefully inserted, so that this work has the full benefit of the addenda.

The second edition was published at Towanda, Bradford Co., Pa., 1878.

PREFACE—INTRODUCTION

Dr. Horton, 1876

We give BARNABAS HORTON as the Preface and Introduction to this little volume of Chronicles. He was probably the son of Joseph Horton, of Leicestershire, England, and born in the little hamlet of Mousely of that shire. Of his history before he came to America very little is known. He came over in the ship "Swallow," in 1633-38. He landed at Hampton, N. H. How long he remained at Hampton is not known. But in 1640 we find him with his wife and two children in New Haven, Conn., in company with the Rev. John Youngs, William Welles, Esq., William Hallock, John Tuthill, Richard Terry, Thomas Mapes, Matthias Corwin, Robert Ackerly, Jacob Corey, John Conklin, Isaac Arnold, and John Budd, and on the 21st day of Oct., 1640, assisted by the venerable Rev. John Davenport and Gov. Eaton, they organized themselves into a Congregational Church, and sailed to the east end of Long Island, now Southold. They had all been members of Puritan churches in England, and all had families with them except William Hallock. They doubtless had been on the island previous to this time and looked out their homes. On nearing the shore they cast lots to decide who should first set foot on the land. The lot fell on William Hallock, and the place where he stepped upon the land has ever since been known as Hallock's Landing.

On coming ashore, they all knelt down and engaged in prayer, William Hallock leading, as had been determined by the lot. These were the first persons of any civilized nation that had ever attempted to settle on the east end of Long Island. See Griffin's Journal.

Barnabas Horton was a man of deep-toned piety, and a warm advocate of civil and religious freedom. He was one of the most prominent and influential men of Southold. He was for many years a magistrate, and several times a member of the General Court at New Haven and Hartford. He built the first framed dwelling-house ever erected on the east of Long Island, and that house is still (1875) standing and occupied. It is a shingle-house, that is shingles are used for weather-boards, and the sides have never been reshingled, and the roof but once, according to the statement of Jonathan Goldsmith Horton, the last Horton occupant of the old house.

It is said that Barnabas Horton I. was large in stature, and of a ruddy complexion, and of fine social qualities.

His tombstone is of English blue marble, five feet long and about three feet wide. It is placed horizontally over the grave. The stone was re-lettered about fifty or sixty years ago by Jonathan G. Horton. It is elevated about eighteen inches from the ground, on a good stone base. The original base was of brick, but it had all crumbled down many years ago. The present base was put under the stone at the time it was re-lettered by John G. Horton.

The inscription surrounds the border of the stone, and reads as follows :

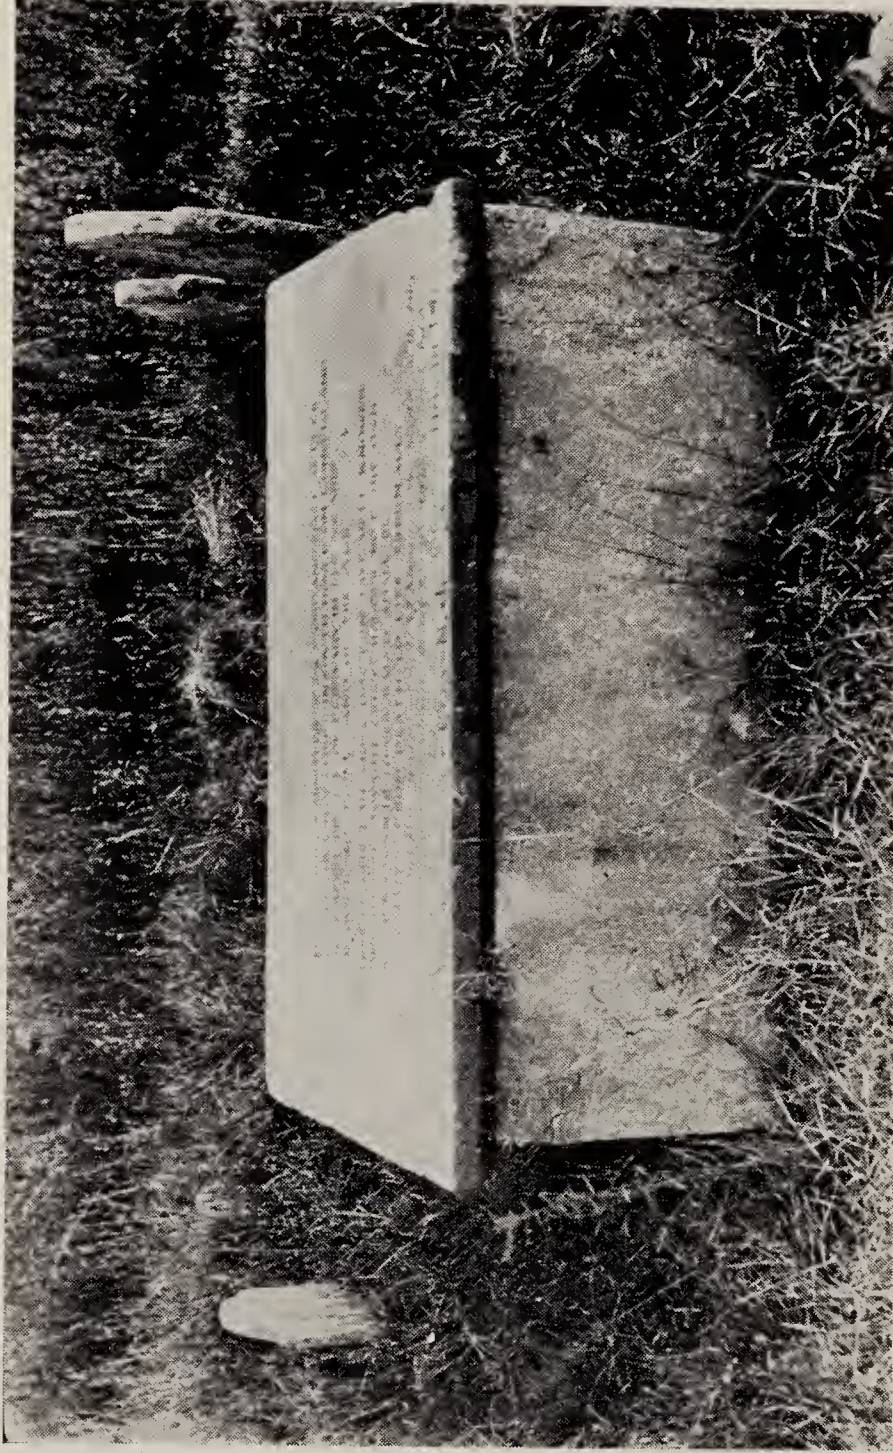

"Here lieth buried the body of MR. BARNABAS HORTON, who was born at Mousely, Leicestershire, Old England, and died at Southold, on the 13th day of July, 1680, aged 80 years."

In the centre of the stone we find the Epitaph, as follows :

"Here lies my body tombed in dust
 'Till Christ shall come to raise it with the just ;
 My soul ascended to the throne of God,
 Where with sweet Jesus now I make abode :
 Then hasten after me, my dearest wife,
 To be partaker of this blessed life ;
 And you, dear children, all follow the Lord,
 Hear and obey His public sacred word ;
 And in your houses call upon His name,
 For oft I have advised you to the same :
 Then God will bless you with your children all,
 And to this blessed place He will you call."

Heb. xi :4.—"He being dead, yet speaketh."

It is said that this epitaph was written by himself, and that it, together with the inscription, date of his death excepted, was all put upon the stone before he died. He was the only one of the original thirteen who brought his tombstone with him, and this fact seems to indicate a commendable desire to see that his name and memory should not perish from the earth.

THE TOMB OF BARNABAS HORTON
Southold, Long Island, 1680

THE OLD TOMB—Additional Notes, 1929

This view and accompanying note is sent by Mrs. Theodore Horton of Albany, N. Y., who has often visited it:

"The old tomb of Barnabas Horton stands in the ancient part of the cemetery lying along the village street in the beautiful old Long Island town of Southold. The old Church, with the Founder's monument, makes it interesting to the last degree. The tomb of Parsons Youngs, first minister and leader of the Colony, stands close beside the historic tomb of Barnabas and is much like it in design.

Both are in a fine state of preservation.

The bayberry grows high about the tombs, so fragrant and reminiscent of the old days, for it grew there when the first settlers came and must have been the first odor that greeted them."

The stone of the slab is, we believe, scarcely a marble, but rather a hard fine slate used in memorials in the part of England from whence our people came, and is commonly seen there to the present day. It is a very enduring material and known as bluestone there.

There is no evidence whatever that Barnabas Horton "brought his tombstone with him," as has been said. It is known that communication with England was not cut off at any time in the lifetime of Barnabas Horton. The Colonists obtained supplies, and a brisk trade with the mother country was kept up. It is reasonable to believe that when they became established and settled and age coming on, the stone was brought over and prepared in his lifetime. The tomb was in view of the old house while it still stood.

MORE ABOUT THE OLD HOUSE

Dr. Horton

It will be seen by the engraving that the old house is double. The western part is that which was built by Barnabas in 1659-60. The east or two-story part was built by Jonathan I., about 1682. The upper room of this part was used for a court-house for nearly twenty years, as we learn from Thompson's History of Long Island, and some of the old benches used when it was a court-house are still preserved. The old "castle," as Jonathan G. Horton, its last Horton occupant, used to call it, is in all probability the oldest wood house in America. I know of no dwelling-house of any kind, stone or brick, now standing, that can date back as far as this venerable old mansion. There were a few huts on the east end of Long Island previous to 1640—two or three it is said on Shelter Island. But these, as well as those built by the Puritans, immediately on their settlement in Southold, soon all passed away. Not a vestige of any of the first generation buildings can be found except this one. It remained for the house that Barnabas built to survive the wreck of ages, and to stand to-day as a noble representative of the dwellings of two hundred and fifteen years ago. But the old house stands to-day not only as peering above all others by its age, but also by its occupancy. It is not very often that we find two generations of the same name, living and dying in the same house—rarely find three. But here we have six generations in succession, all bearing the Horton name, living and dying in the same house, and all born in it except Barnabas I., and his son Jonathan. We may go to the castles and palaces of the old world, and search long and diligently, and fail to find a parallel case.

With a few repairs, the old castle may yet stand for generations far in the future.

It requires some thought and reflection to realize the lapse of time since the old house was built. See the old Puritan himself there twenty years; then his son Jonathan, twenty-eight years; and then Jonathan, Jr., about sixty years; and next Lawrence and his son Jonathan over a half a century; and lastly Jonathan G. Horton, about a half a century; making in all two hundred and thirteen years at the death of Jonathan G. Horton, 2 July, 1873. These six generations all living and dying in the old mansion! Could those old walls reëcho all the words ever spoken there and exhibit anew all the scenes ever witnessed there—the book containing such a record would vastly exceed in volume the size of the old castle. It would bring to light much that is now in darkness, and must forever remain hidden from the generations of the living.

At the death of Jonathan G. Horton, the old homestead became, by will, the property of the Rev. Mrs. Williams, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was the adopted daughter of Jonathan G. Horton, he never having had issue, so that on the 3d of July, 1873, the old homestead went out of the Horton name.

Mrs. Williams proposes to sell it, and if some of the Hortons do not buy it, it will indicate a lack of decent respect for the old castle, if not for the Horton name. It should be bought back into the Horton name, suitably repaired and preserved for the wonder and admiration of generations of Hortons yet unborn. Jonathan G. Horton, the short, thick man, and Stuart T. Terry, are the two men seen in the engraving, in front of the old house.

Mr. Stuart T. Terry, of Southold, L. I., has kindly copied and forwarded to me many interesting facts from the New Haven Colonial Records, some of which are here inserted:

"Concerning some farmers neere Southold, at a place called Hashamamock, aboute whom BARNABAS HORTON, one of ye Constables last yeare, which was 1656, also, Constable in 1659. 29 May, 1661, Barnabas Horton was a Deputy to the New Haven Court—also, 31 May, 1654, the Deputies from Southold, presented to ye court a wrighting from their towne, wherein it is desired that BARNABAS HORTON and JOHN PEAKEN, the two present Deputies of Southold, may be chosen Constables for that plantation; which was done. Barnabas Horton was a Deputy to the Court in New Haven, in 1654-'56-'8-'59 and 1661. In 1655 there was no election, but he wrote a letter to the Court on public affairs. In 1662 he was admitted a Freeman of Connecticut Colony, at Hartford, and in 1663 and 1664 he was a Deputy to the General Court, at Hartford. He was a Magistrate in 1664, and until his death. He is one of the Patentees of the Town of Southold in 1676." Made his will May 10, 1680. Died 13 July, 1680. Will proved. Lib. 2, N. Y., p. 54.—Vide "Moore's Indexes of Southold."

ADDITIONAL NOTES OF THE OLD HOUSE, 1929

From The Christian at Work, Feb., 1879:

The very recent demolition of the venerable structure—which stood near the centre of Southold village on the corner of Main Street and Horton's Lane, one mile and a half south from Horton's Point Lighthouse and about one mile north of where the 13 first settlers landed ————. In the upper rooms of the larger part of the house the Courts for the "East Riding," now Suffolk Co.,

were held for many years. For a long period the Old House was the hospitable home for ministers and others and a gathering place between "meetin's" and on "Sabba' days." Years ago the writer:

"Piled with care our nightly stack
Of wood, against the chimney back—
The oaken logs green, huge and thick,
And on its top the stout back stick,
The knotty forestick laid apart
And filled between with curious art.
The ragged brush, then hovering near
We watched the first red blaze appear.
The mug of cider simmered low
The apples sputtered in a row."

while Old Grandmother chatted with her loving daughters or members of families and friends who dropped in to spend a pleasant hour.

The house, as it now stands, consists of three parts: the oldest, built 1640; the next in 1660 and a wing in 1665. The 1660 was two-story. The rooms, wide fireplaces, rough, unhewn beams in the east wing were the slave quarters with fireplace and huge standing chimney.

1929 NOTES

The last occupant of lineal descent was Jonathan Goldsmith Horton, who willed it to his adopted daughter, he having no children. It went out of the Horton name. It is now, 1929, owned by Geo. S. Terry. A modern home has been erected. A strong sentiment exists among the clans of Hortons to restore it as best may be to its original owners if it can be done.

The kitchen of the homestead is yet in existence, standing strongly with the old timbers "sounder than any that can be obtained at present."

There was a last sad celebration and leavetaking at the old house before it was torn down. We are told that women wept and carried pieces away for souvenirs.

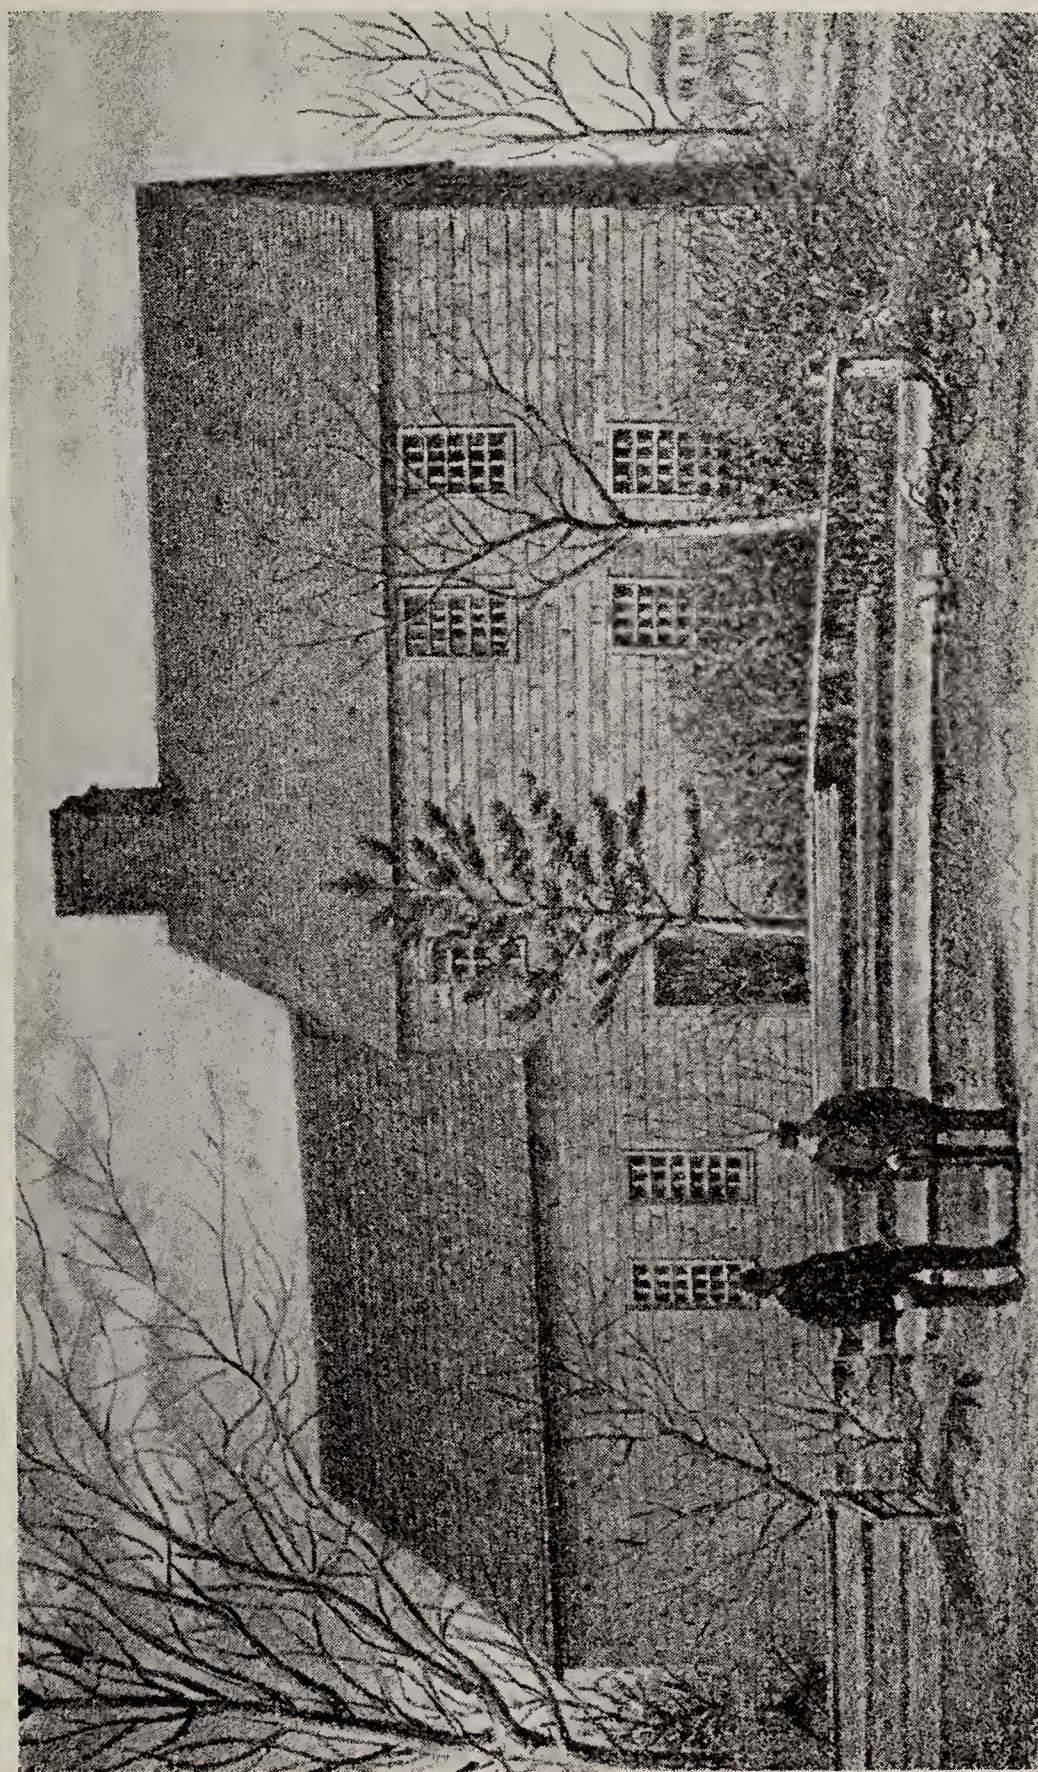

The house is gone, but the sacred soil remains.

The old well of remarkably clear, sparkling water, so excellent that the privilege of taking water therefrom was willed to others than the owners, was filled in. There was discovered a compartment long forgotten where valuables were once secreted in troublous times.

The outline of the well is preserved and marked by the present owner, and the spot filled with flowers.

The Tomb of Barnabas Horton is in plain view from the site of the old house.

Many tourists of Horton blood visit Southold and muse over the memorials and lament the destruction of the old house.

THE OLD HORTON HOUSE—BUILT IN 1659

THE OLD BIBLE

Dr. Horton

Perhaps the most interesting relic left by our good old ancestor, Barnabas, is the OLD BIBLE, which he brought with him from England. It is now in the possession of the Hon. Silas Horton, of Southold. It was taken to the Bible House, New York, some years ago, and carefully repaired, and every torn leaf mended, so that it is now entire, and in a good condition.

We find in it the following record:

"Imprinted at London, by the Deputies of Christian Barker."
Printer to the Queen's (Elizabeth) Most Excellent Majestie, 1599.

CUM PRIVILEGIO.

Then follows in manuscript:

"Barnabas Horton, to his son Jonathan Horton, this BIBLE he did bequeath, in the year of our Lord, 1680."

Then follows:

"Capt. Jonathan Horton his Book. God give him grace. Jonathan Horton, 1683."

In another place, and probably in the handwriting of Jonathan Horton, Jr., we find:

"The Word of the Lord God of Jonathan Horton, 1748-'49."

Again we find:

"Lydia Tuthill, her Book, given her by her mother, as it is said."

And then follows:

"February 8, in the year 1742, then Jonathan Tuthill departed this life—the son of Henry Tuthill and Bethia (Horton) Tuthill. Susanna Tuthill, wife of Jonathan Tuthill, departed this life May 16, in the year 1743, in the 50th year of her age. Henry Tuthill, departed this life the 4th day of January, in the year 1750, aged 84. Bethia Tuthill, wife of Henry Tuthill, departed this life March 16, 1744, in the 73d year of her age."

(1929) ADDITIONAL NOTES ON THE OLD BIBLE

Furnished mostly by Mrs. Adelaide Horton Thorne, who is custodian of it (1929)

It was probably one of the early popular editions sold at popular prices. The "Bishop's Bible," antedating this edition, was sold at £6, about thirty dollars. This was sold for much less, which marked a distinct rise in the number of readers.

It was printed 1599, long before the King James version.

Mrs. Thorne says:

"It is bound in leather without clasps, size about eight by ten inches. The paper is yellow with age and worn with time and use, and bears a convincing appearance of antiquity. It is printed in old English. There is bound with it Choral Melodies, paraphrasing the psalms, selections from 'Sternbold and Hopkins', England."

In Southold celebrations in the religious services the old Bible of Barnabas Horton figures conspicuously. It is kept in a fireproof vault by Mrs. Thorne, at 352 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, New York.

OLD MUSKET, CASK AND WALKING STAFF

Dr. Horton

The old wood hooks are still attached to the big beam of the old house, upon which Barnabas used to hang his OLD MUSKET, which was called "Uncle Barney's quart pot." He brought it with him from England. It is now in the possession of Barnabas B. Horton, of Southold. It is still a long old gun, though not as long as it was once, as it was bursted by overloading one Thanksgiving Day, and about eight or ten inches of the muzzle cut off.

The CASK, in which he packed a portion of his household goods, and brought over with him, is still in existence, and is owned by Gilbert W. Horton, of Bay View, Southold. It is doubly historic from the fact that when the British invaded Long Island it was filled with wheat and buried, thus securing the wheat from the foraging parties of the British army. It is made of solid oak—hoops and all—the hoops are square and about an inch and a quarter thick—only one hoop missing. It is used for a grain cask, and will hold about fifteen bushels. It was formerly called "Uncle Barney's money barrel," as romance had it, that he brought it over full of gold and silver.

His WALKING STAFF is still preserved. It is made of the Yew tree wood, has a fine ivory head with the letters "J. H." and the figures "1617" in apparently golden specks indented into it, from which it would seem that it once belonged to his father, and that J. H. (Joseph Horton) were his initials. It is now owned by Silas R. Horton, of Goshen, N. Y.

Many other mementos of the old Puritan are in existence, some of them in the Long Island Historical Rooms, Brooklyn, N. Y.

ANTIQUITY OF THE HORTON FAMILY

Dr. Horton

The Hortons in England, and their descendants in America, have generally been cultivators of the soil. They are, and always have been, producers rather than consumers, and for industry, integrity, and piety, they will lose nothing in a comparison with the renowned families of either the new or the old world.

The first of the family who emigrated to this country, of whom we have any authentic record, came over from England 1633 to 1638. Thomas, Jeremiah, and Barnabas, were among the early emigrants, and old tradition says they were brothers. Thomas came over in the "Mary and John," in 1633, settled permanently in Springfield, Mass. Jeremiah also settled in Massachusetts. There was a John Horton in New York, in 1645, but no one has been found claiming descent from him. He probably returned to England.

It is not known from what place in England either Thomas or Jeremiah came, nor is there any certain evidence that they were brothers of Barnabas, but the three coming over about the same time would favor the tradition that they were brothers.

The Head Quarters of Cæsar's army was near the present Leicester, the principal town of that county, and the Horton name has been known there to the remotest period of any authentic records. This fact, together with the name itself, favors the idea that the family was of Roman origin.

The antiquity of the Horton Family is established by the fact, that one Robert De Horton, manumitted a bondman to his manor of Horton, long before the time of Henry Larey, Earl of Lincoln, who died in 1310. It is also ascertained that the Hortons had a manor-house in Great Horton, with a mill and certain demesne lands therewith belonging, at a very remote period.

William Horton, Esq., of Frith House, in Barksland, Halifax, descended from the above-mentioned Robert, married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Hanson, Esq., of Toothill, had issue and died about 1640, viz.:

1. William, of Barkisland, or Bark Island Hall, who purchased in the 15th of Charles I., the estate of Howroyde, was born about 1576.

2. Joseph, born about 1578.—Burke's Landed Gentry, vol. 1, p. 345.

It is held that this Joseph settled in Mousely, Leicester Co., and was the father of Barnabas Horton. It is highly probable that Barnabas was not the oldest son, and not inheriting real estate, may have been one reason for his emigrating to America.

It is known that Capt. Jeremy Horton, 18 Aug., 1626, was the master and owner of the ship "Swallow," of Barnstable, and that he made voyages to New England, in 1633 and 1638, and in a subsequent voyage he was shipwrecked and several lives lost—the crew and master came to Boston, but the vessel was lost.

Capt. Roger Horton, about this time, had a prisoner delivered to him, from the White Line Prison, to be transported into parts beyond the seas, to serve in the wars of his majesty's plantations.

Tradition says that Barnabas Horton and family came over in the "Swallow," in 1638, or perhaps earlier, but I have not found his name on any of the lists of emigrants. The Hortons of Howroyde are given account of in a summary furnished by Mrs. Chas. E. Rowe of Washington, D. C., 1928, taken from a small volume of about twenty pages by Edward F. Linton, 1911, a descendant. The book is in the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C. The summary follows:

This book is composed of three distinct chapters, about 20 pages, namely: (1) The Horton Family, (2) Lintons of Freiston and Stirtloe, (3) Richardson.

Edward F. Linton, in his preface, writes:

"Of the Horton family there is a genealogical account in Joseph Foster's 'The Royal Lineage' of our noble and gentle families (1887), owing to the fact of Thomas Horton of Chadderton being descended, through his mother, Mary Gregge, from Joan of Arce, daughter of Edward I. (For the numerous issue of the marriage between Susannah Horton and George Lloyd, of Hulme Hall, omitted from this work, Foster's account may be consulted.)

"In a supplementary table the descent of Edward I. has been followed back through the Norman and Saxon lines."

Edward F. Linton further states on a different page:

"The Hortons of Howroyde start with Joshua Horton of Sowerby, J. P., born 1619. The third son of William Horton bought Howroyde, a few miles from Halifax in the West Riding, married Martha, daughter of Thomas Binns of Rushworth. Their son, Joshua, born 22 January, 1657, bought Chadderton in Lancashire and married Mary Gregge, through whom their son Thomas Horton was descended from Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford and his wife, Joan of Arce, daughter of Edward I."

One page is devoted to descendants of Jane Horton, married to John Parr; one page is devoted to The Trollopes of Thornley and Casewick; another page is filled with the descendants of William Richardson of St. Bees.

ORIGINAL NAME OF SOUTHOLD

Dr. Horton

“The Indians called Southhold,* ‘Yennycok.’ Mr. John Youngs, who had been a minister at Hingham, England, came over with a considerable part of his church, and here fixed his residence. He gathered his church anew on the 21 Oct., 1640, and the planters united themselves with New Haven. However, they soon departed from the rule of appointing none to office, or of admitting none to be freemen, but members of the church. New Haven insisted on this as a fundamental article of the constitution. They were, therefore, for a number of years, obliged to conform to the law of jurisdiction. Some of the principal men were: Rev. Mr. Youngs, Mr. William Wells, Mr. Barnabas Horton, Thomas Mapes, John Tuthill, and Matthias Corwin.”—Trumbull's History of Connecticut.

*Southold (Southwold) is the name of an old town in England, from which several of the original thirteen Puritans came, when they emigrated to America.

NOTE

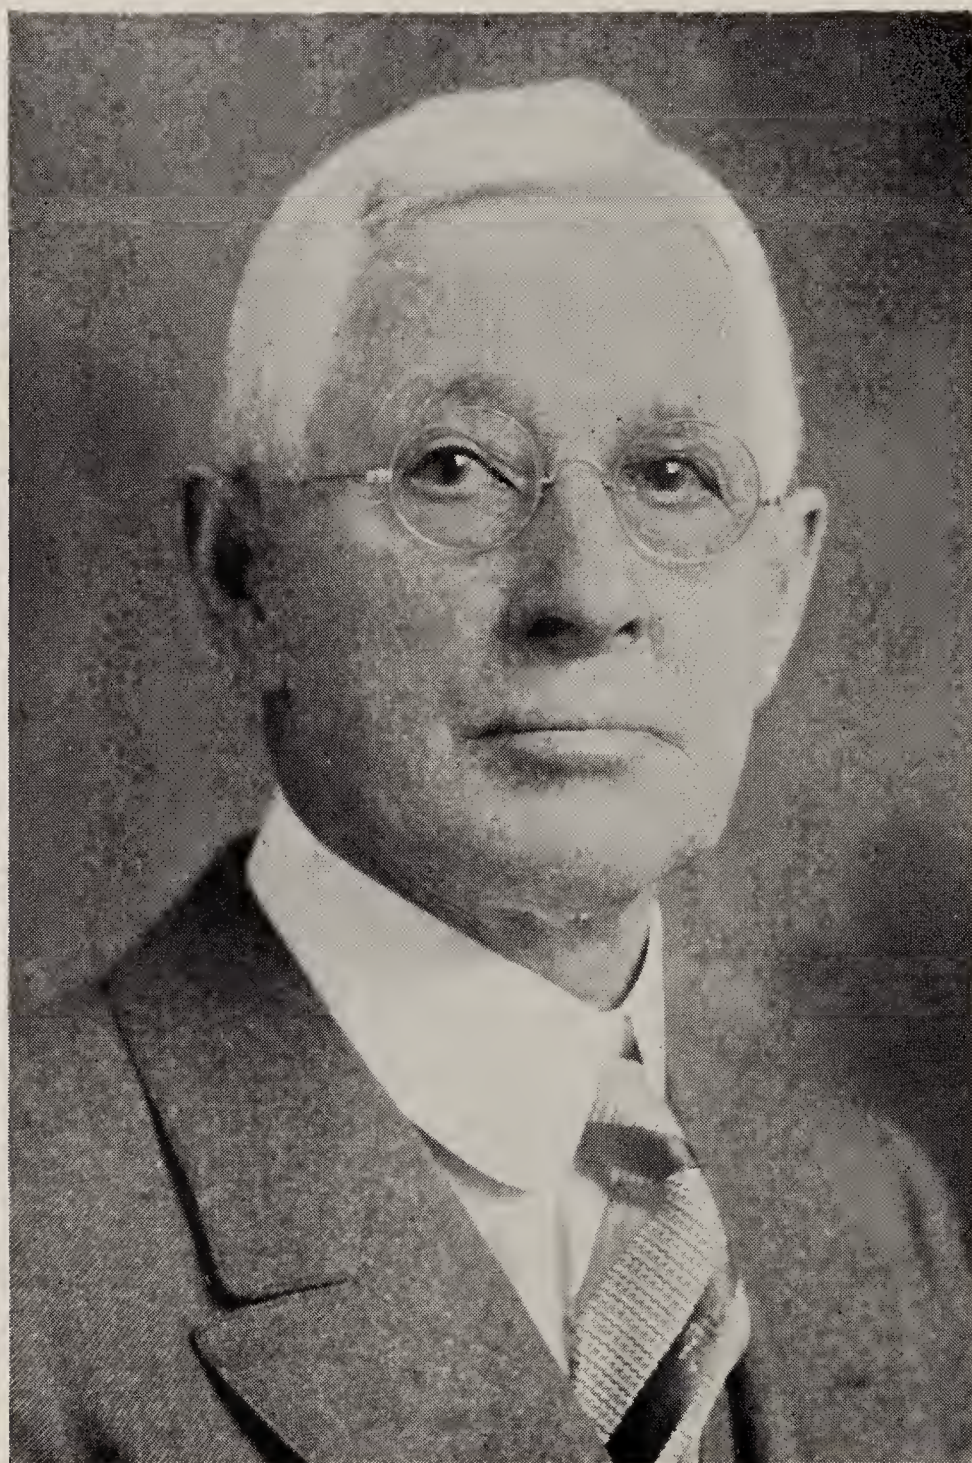

Dr. Horton

The reader will see at a glance the plan of this book. We commence with the Christian name. Then follows the parentage, genealogical data, &c., and then the Christian names of the children and order of births. In many of the early families the exact order of births cannot be ascertained; but it has been approximated as nearly as possible. The lineage is given in connection with the first member of the family. The Roman numerals indicate the order of births. The book contains much repetition, but none too much to make it plain and easy to study.

This little book contains the chronicles of only about one-half of the Horton families looked up. Those whose genealogical data are given only in a small part, and those whose correct lineage has not been satisfactorily ascertained, are not included in this book.

This book is mainly what those who have kindly furnished records and sketches have made it. The whole has been carefully compiled. But genealogical works, almost of necessity, contain many errors. Doubtless this small work has its full share. But when errors are discovered, notice thereof should be given, so that a second edition may be made entirely truthful. Thankful to all who have generously given their assistance, this work is sent out as a small contribution to the genealogical literature of the day, and in the hope that a more full and extensive book of Horton chronicles may be issued at no very distant day.

THE HORTONS IN AMERICA

Anticipating by a few years only, the three hundredth anniversary of our coming to America, this memorial volume is offered to our people.

It contains the "Chronicles" of the posterity of Barnabas Horton by Dr. Geo. F. Horton, corrected where possible and with additional records, bringing us to the thirteenth generation in a few instances.

The history and some lines of posterity of Thomas Horton of Springfield, Mass., is added, and also an account of Levi Horton, all three of which, it appears, emigrated at about the same time. Much has been written heretofore of these Hortons and their place in the national life.

One writer—not a Horton—says that their history equals any to be traced anywhere, in the sterling qualities of their descendants and the mark they have made upon the early history of our country. In the founding of the nation, no family has, perhaps, borne a greater part in the peopleing and subduing the wilderness, organizing and establishing a great government:

Soldiers in every conflict, ministers in the churches, educators in school and colleges, farmers and land owners, physicians, lawyers, judges, magistrates, legislators, mechanics, builders, ship and mill owners, financiers, business men, writers, artists, diplomats, architects, scientists, dramatists, founders of towns and cities, sturdy, independent, industrious, known for piety, probity, law abidingness.

Caring not much for heaped up wealth after a competency is gained, it is characteristic of them that they own their homes: a bit of earth more or less. They are long lived and adhere to the puritan principles of the fathers of old: patriotic, temperate, reverent, earnest, frugal in these seeming hectic days of jazz, irreligion and unthrift.

Civilization in America began with strenuous, patient, purposeful labor, various and persistent. Our people have shouldered it. It is the creed of the pioneer. By it he has succeeded in discovering and charting new territory, clearing forests, establishing homes, farms, churches, schools and institutions of learning; has opened roads, bridged rivers, discovered and opened mines, built railroads, towns, cities and carved out counties and states; protecting them by adequate measures of government, and has stayed by them against many obstacles, upheld and fought for them and made them strong and operative.

It is our pride that we have contributed our share in strengthening the state, adding to the resources, enlarging the territory by our individual exertions, endurance and self-sacrifice.

In a survey of the subject the story of the American Hortons should begin with an account of them in England.

Since the Conquest of Britain by the Romans in the first century of the Christian era, the name has been known.

Horton, from the Latin word hortus, meaning a garden, may have been ethnographically applied to us.

Our characteristic love of the land and of nature and our success in agricultural pursuits bears out the assumption that we were originally of the skilled gardeners established, according to the Roman practice in their conquered provinces, to teach the arts of peace by agriculture, where savagery and wilderness prevailed.

Tenacious of racial habits, our name, no doubt, derived from our occupation.

But we were fighting men also, as shown by the many devices displayed on defensive arms registered in the heraldic office at London, England. More than twenty families of Hortons of armorial days with allied identifying symbols are there.

Many towns and family seats of the name are in Kent, York, Buckingham, Gloucester, Dorset, Derby, Northampton, Leicester, Hartford, etc. Many people of the name yet are found among the populations. About Oxford they are numerous.

Sudbrooke Park, Petersham, is one seat of the family, the home of Sir Robert Horton, knighted in 1830, Governor of Ceylon. It was of his wife, the Lady Ann Beatrix, who was the subject of Byron's lines, 'She walks in beauty,' says Eleanor Lexington, a noted genealogical writer.

Horton is the name of a hamlet in Buckinghamshire in an ideally rural beauty spot of old England where is located the old Horton church, which once, tradition says, belonged to the demesne lands of one of our name. The picture is given elsewhere.

Coming to America 13 or so years after the Mayflower, Thomas, Barnabas and Levi Horton are the subjects of this research.

Thomas Horton settled at Springfield, Massachusetts. A search of the historical documents establishes this without question. His allotment of land is minutely described. He was signer and witness of the Indian deed and various other records follow. He lived but a short time. His records are carried on in his genealogy. There were three sons of Thomas Horton: Jeremiah, Thomas and John.

There is reason to believe that Levi Horton, whose posterity is given in the last section of this book is descended from Jeremy Horton, the sea captain, with whom Barnabas sailed for America, 1632 or 1635, instead of Jeremiah, as mentioned in Dr. Horton's work.

Barnabas Horton, whose early records have been better kept, occupies the largest space in the annals of the Hortons of America. He was born in 1600 in the forty-second year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth and came to America during the Protectorate of Oliver Cromwell, and died in the year 1680 in the thirtieth year of the reign of Charles II. of England.

We may dwell on that first migration in the good ship "Swallow," our own Captain Jeremy Horton, master and owner, making its way across the waste of waters, our revered first ancestor in America on board, with his good wife Mary and two small sons.

To minds discerning of spiritual values these may have been convoyed by legions of spirits of the unborn generations. They made their way to Hampton, where land was allotted, or purchased by *Barnabas, and sojourned there three or perhaps five years.

The next migration, 1640, they are setting out by whaleboat, in a duly organized civil and religious body with leader and minister and twelve other heads of families with wives and children with them.

By what instinct of selection the thirteen were brought together is lost to us.

Perhaps they were neighbors and friends in England with similarity of tastes and ideals and with mutual interests.

The fact remains that they lived in more or less harmonious relations and peace for generations.

Of the ten sons and daughters of Barnabas, there were eight alliances by marriage with sons and daughters of that congregation. Their posterity intermarried. Their early records have been kept. The story of one is practically the story of all in general aspects.

A strong, virile foundational stock, with well defined mutual purposes was produced.

Their history is the history of the United States.

*Dows History of Hampton of New Hampshire states that Barnabas Horton was owner of a house lot here in June, 1640.

We are reminded of the promise to Abraham, "Thy seed shall be like the sands of the sea for number. He will command his household after him and they shall walk in the way of the Lord and do justice and judgment."

Court and prison records have had little to do with the name. "Neither have we seen him begging his bread."

The remark that the old American stock and ideals have died out is made by the thoughtless and unobserving.

The thin fringe along the Atlantic before the Revolution thickened, strengthened and expanded by natural increase and accretions from Holland, France, Sweden, Germany, but mostly from Great Britain. But "basically English we are," says Charles and Mary Beard in their History of Civilization, "with English ideals of government, religion, language, art and intelligence," and the Puritan principles for free government, equality and righteousness have prevailed over all in America.

The pen falters at the task of giving instances of the migrations of the pioneers to parts of the United States. There are so many, so interesting, so vital, so far reaching in importance, so difficult to choose among them.

Being profoundly moved because of unrecorded names of so many heroic pioneers by whose thought and labor we have profited, Edward Everett Hale wrote:

What was his name? I do not know his name;
I only know he heard God's voice and came,
Brought all he loved across the sea,
And came to work for God and me;
Felled the ungracious oak,
Dragged from the soil
With horrid toil
The thrice-gnarled root and stubborn rock,
With plenty piled the mountain side,
And then, at length, without memorial died.
No pealing trumpet thunders forth his fame;
He lived; he died; I do not know his name.

A record of our Horton pioneers would fill many volumes. We have had devoted helpers collecting and verifying records, but there are many more that are constantly heard of that we have no means of getting information of than are contained in this volume.

Settlements and families are heard of where the stock persists in numbers more than the other inhabitants, and of cemeteries, mostly of Hortons dead and gone, whose descendants have gone out to people the country. In Canada, in the South, in the counties of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, their memorials are found in such numbers that we say, "All that walk the earth are but a handful to the tribes that slumber in its bosom."

One great family we are, with a certain fine family affection following the thin stream of consanguinity. Consult telephone and city directories and county records for Horton names; inquiries develop the fact that their traditions generally point to a relationship featuring either Barnabas or Thomas Horton.

Only two instances have been found of a later migration, one in 1812, another 1856.

Thirty-five towns and settlements in the United States are credited to our name: Horton, Hortonville, Hortontown, Horton Landing, etc. At Southold the name persists: Horton's Lane, Horton's Point Lighthouse, Horton's Pond and Horton's Plains.

A few typical instances of Horton settlements follow:

Joseph

In a beautifully printed volume published in 1912 by Byron Barnes Horton, "The Ancestors and Descendants of Isaac Horton of Liberty, N. Y.," is given an account of the lineage of the subject, registered on page 22 of Dr. Horton's work; and on pages 6 and 12 in the generations of Joseph in this edition. Isaac Horton was of the 6th Generation (Hon. William, Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.). He was born 1788; married Prudence Knapp, their early life centering in Westchester County, N. Y. There were born to them ten children: Homer, Ray, James, Charles, Esther, Clarissa, Ovid, Annis, Webb and Emily, who all reached maturity, married and had children, whose posterity is given in Dr. Horton's work up to 1876 and completely in the Ancestors and Descendants of Isaac Horton. They are an outstanding line in vigor, intelligence and enterprise.

The book was published in 1912 and contains about fifty pages.

This branch (of Joseph 1st) has an association with officers and committees and holds enjoyable reunions.

They mostly inhabit the Eastern States and are found among people in various branches of business and occupations and have contributed much to the national life.

Mr. Horton thinks it not best to repeat the generations in his work on account of errors in it.

He is preparing a new and corrected genealogy of the branch of Joseph 1st.

His forthcoming work is looked forward to with much interest.

Joseph

A settlement of Hortons of the Joseph line in Bradford County, Pa., beginning with Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, is given in

C. W. Heverly's "Sheshequin." Although there are some repetition of the generations in the 1876 work, it is appended. Pages 122-139, Heverly's "Sheshequin":

ELIJAH HORTON, son of Richard and Jemima (Wright) Horton, was born in Peekskill, N. Y., 1739. About 1762 he married Jemima Currie. Being desirous of giving his aid in the struggle for independence, he enlisted, February 22, 1778, in Captain Fox's Company of Henley's regiment. He served until November 24, 1778, when he was invalidated.

About 1780 he removed from Peekskill to Stroudsburg, Monroe Co., Pa., where he purchased a farm. Owing to the depreciation of Continental money (of which he had enough to pay for his land), he was compelled to give up his farm and removed to Middle Smithfield, Pa., where he lived for a time. From the latter place, about the year 1790, he came to Sheshequin and settled near the river on lands now owned by Frank Brigham. Here he continued to reside till the close of his life. In 1816, when he was 77 years of age, the following note appeared in the Bradford Gazette:

"There is now living in the township of Ulster (which then embraced Sheshequin), this county, Mr. Elijah Horton and Jemima, his wife, who have now living twelve children, 74 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren, amounting in all to 109.

"Mr. Horton and his wife are in good health. He takes care of his stock of horses, cattle, etc., breaks his own colts and cuts his wood. His wife performs the household business without necessity of assistance from younger persons. They, therefore, have no person in their family but themselves.

"The eldest of their children has living nine children and 12 grandchildren; the other 11 of their children have all been married and have children. Mr. and Mrs. Horton are faithful members of the Baptist Church."

He died 1821, aged 82 years. His wife, Jemima, born 1744, died 1825, aged 81 years. Both are buried in the Hornbrook Cemetery. Unto Elijah and Jemima Horton were born seven sons and five daughters:

Elizabeth.
Richard.
Elijah M.
Jemima.

Fanny.
Isaac.
Joshua.
Esther.

Phoebe.
Gilbert.
Stephen.
William.

ELIZABETH, born at Peekskill, N. Y., 1764; married BENJAMIN BRINK, a soldier of the Revolution, came to Sheshequin with her husband and died there, 1830.

RICHARD, born at Peekskill, N. Y., 1776; married TABITHA, daughter of Isaac and ANNA (Latemore) JAYNE. After his marriage he settled at Middle Smithfield, Pa., where he remained till 1792, when he removed to Sheshequin, settling on what is known as the Towner place, which he purchased of Arnold Franklin. Here as early as 1808 he opened a house of public entertainment (tavern), the first in Lower Sheshequin, and continued as an innkeeper for a number of years. In his old age he lived with his son David, where he died, 1834. Both he and his wife are buried at Hornbrook.

The children of Richard and Tabitha Horton were:

David.	Jemima.	Richard.
Isaac J.	Tabitha 2nd.	Josephine.
Anna.	Betsey.	Jane.
Tabitha 1st.	Diana.	Lorinda.

DAVID, born 1788, came to Sheshequin with his father's family. He married HANNAH NEWELL. He was a man of much enterprise. In 1812 he settled on the George L. Horton place, where he died, 1875. His wife died 1875. The children of David and Hannah Horton, all of whom were born at Sheshequin, were:

Richard N.	Eliza A. ; died at 16.
Nancy S. (Mrs. James DeMoney.	Adaline (Mrs. Charles Chaffee).
Rhoda B. (Mrs. Richard T. Horton).	David. Benjamin. William P.
Daniel J.	Hannah (Mrs. C. D. H. Cole).
Tabitha (Mrs. Moses Canfield).	Joseph E. George L.

Isaac Jayne married Ruth N. Ferguson; removed to Coles Co., Ill. Anna married Caleb Shores of Wysox and reared a large family. Tabitha 1st died young. Jemima married John Lyons. Tabitha 2nd married Nathaniel Shores. Betsy married George Vibbert. Diana married Stephen Shores. Richard married Eliza, daughter of James Shores of Sheshequin. Their children were:

James.	Tabitha A. (Mrs. Philip Seebich).
Elizabeth (Mrs. Abel Barner).

Josephine married Daniel Culver of Sheshequin. Jane married Aaron Shores and went West. Lorinda married Orrin Smith.

Elijah M., born in Peekskill, N. Y., 1768, married Pamela Ogden, who was of the old Dutch patroon stock, 1791, and the following year came to Sheshequin. He settled on the farm now owned by E. H. Brigham, where he died 1835. Mrs. Horton died 1804, aged 40 years.

Mr. Horton subsequently married Abigail Bullard, who bore him William B. and Lucinda. She died 1845, aged 65 years. All are buried in the Hornbrook Cemetery.

Of the children: Isaac Snyder married Hannah Elliott, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Snyder) Elliott of Sheshequin. He took up land in a dense wilderness several miles from any inhabitant, cleared it up and then bought several other farms and assisted in clearing those. He was not only a farmer, but a hunter as well, frequently taking his rifle and going into the woods not far from his house, he would knock down a deer or two and return by breakfast time. One morning in June, some seventy years ago, he took his gun and went out into the woods about half a mile from his home, when a fine buck appeared before him and down he went. While reloading his gun, he heard a wolf howl and, going a little farther, he brought him down also. On returning to the place where he had shot the deer, behold a huge panther had taken possession of the buck and was regaling himself by licking up the blood and preparing to feast upon the carcass. He stood still for some minutes, thinking it cruel to kill him before he had a chance to take his fill of his much coveted food. But at length the panther saw him and showed signs of fight, and he then put a ball through his brain. On going home for his team, he found that he had been absent only a little over an hour.

Mr. Horton was a man of strong constitution and lived to a good old age, dying at the homestead about two miles from Ghent. The children of Isaac and Hannah Horton were:

Sylvester.	George.
Emily (Mrs. Reuben Young).	Elizabeth (Mrs. W. C. Ransom).
John E.	James.
Joseph.	Snyder.
Lydia (Mrs. Edward Vought).	Hannah (Mrs. B. H. White).
Elijah.	Isaac R.

Charles, second son of Elijah M. and Pamela Ogden Horton, married Sally Brink of Sheshequin. Their children were:

Perley	Burton
Myron	Benjamin
Orrin	Charles
Jefferson

John, third son, married Margaret Rote and moved West. Lydia married Rev. David Blackman. Mary married Smith Horton; second, Rufus Cooley. Betsey married King Shores. Elijah married Elizabeth Ferguson. Their children were:

Rockwell. Stephen. Ogden. Curtis. Jemima.

Jemima married Joseph Elliott. William Bullard married, first, Malinda Blackman, daughter of Col. Franklin Blackman of Sheshequin. Their children were:

Harry L. (the New York City banker and Wall Street financier).
 Horace.
 Elizabeth (Mrs. Perley Hutchins Kinney).
 Amazilla (Mrs. Henry C. Kinney).
 Mary E. (Mrs. William M. Shores).

Mr. Horton married, second, Saloma J., daughter of Jeremiah Kilmer of Sheshequin. Unto them were born:

Miles E., and Rowena H. (Mrs. T. G. Smith).

Lucinda married John B. Smith of Sheshequin. Jemima, daughter of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Peekskill, N. Y., 1770, married Eliphalet Gustin, 1787, at Stroudsburg, Pa. She came to Sheshequin with her husband in 1792. Later removed to Burlington, where she died on the Gustin homestead, 1822.

Fanny, daughter of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, married Seely Hayes, who lived at Hornbrook and taught school for a time. Later they removed to Illinois.

Isaac, son of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Peekskill, N. Y., 1772, came to Sheshequin with his father. He settled on the Frank Brigham place. He was twice married, first to Sally Smith; second to Laura Stephens. He died, 1861, without issue. All are buried at Hornbrook.

Joshua, son of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Peekskill, N. Y., 1774, came to Sheshequin with his father. He married Lucy Thompson and settled on the place recently occupied by A. Chapman. Their children, who married as follows, were:

Elsie to Abraham Dunham.
Lucy to Lemuel Lomdrus.
Sallie to Francis Forbes.

Joshua to Betsy Brink.
William to Sally Shores.
Richard T. to Rhoda Horton.

After the death of his first wife, 1814, Mr. Horton married Lucinda Ellis. Their children were:

Ithiel married Polly Brink.
Lucinda married Ethan Tuttle.
Esther married Jackson Blackman.
Ulyssus
Fanny

Eleazer married Harriet Chaffe.
Lewis married Sallie M. Chaffe.
Luman P., married Phoebe Horton.
Nelson married Lucy Bullis.

Joshua Horton died, 1863, and, with his wives, is buried in the Hornbrook Cemetery.

Gilbert, son of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Stroudsburg, Pa., 1784, came to Sheshequin with his father's family. He married Mary Beardsley and settled on the place of now Charles J. Horton. Their children were:

Freeman, who died at 18.
Clarissa married Leonard Shaw.

Reuben married Polly Pierce.
David, who went West.

Mr. Horton removed to the West and died there, 1850.

Stephen, son of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Stroudsburg, Pa., about 1786, came to Sheshequin with his father's family. He married Susan Mayhew of Lycoming County, resided at different places and spent the last years of his life at North Towanda, where he died 1868. His wife, born 1788, died 1873. The children of Stephen Horton and Susan Mayhew were:

Elijah H., married Mary Foster and lived in North Towanda.
 Hiram married Hannah Hovey and resided at Lawrenceville, Pa.
 Shepard married Harriet Acla and lived at Painted Post, N. Y.
 Mayhew married Elizababeth Lyons and resided at Blossburg, Pa.
 Mary married Benjamin Lyons.
 Catherine married Hiram Goff of Monroe.
 Elizabeth married George Williams.
 Anna married Rosin Fox of Liberty Corners, Pa.

William, son of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, born at Stroudsburg, 1789, was brought to Sheshequin when an infant by the family. He married Esther Cowell; in 1811 he settled on the place now occupied by his son, Isaac J. Horton, where he died, 1858. His wife, born in Kingswood, N. J., 1789, died, 1880, having attained the age of 91 years. Both are buried in the Hornbrook Cemetery.

The children of William and Esther Horton were:

Eliza.	Lucinda.	Rachel A.
Delight.	William.	Isaac J.
Richard C.	Esther J.	Lucy A.

Eliza married Joseph Tuttle of Sheshequin. Delight married Albert Tuttle of Sheshequin, who, with his family, moved to Minnesota and was several times elected to the Legislature.

Children:

Richard C. married Elizabeth Smith of Sheshequin.
 Lucinda married Guy Smith.
 William married Polly Rundell and removed to Iowa.
 Esther J. married John Vought of Standing Stone.
 Rachell A. married George Chaffee of Sheshequin.
 Isaac J. married Jane Rogers and occupies the homestead.
 Lucy A. married Joseph F. Blackman of Hornbrook.

Phoebe, daughter of Elijah Horton and Jemima Currie, married John Smith of North Towanda. He was frozen to death while hunting. Their children were:

Mercy. Fanny. Phoebe. Isaac. John.

Mrs. Smith married for her second husband Lemuel Landrus, with whom she removed West about 1825.

Joseph

One of the pioneers, descendants of Joseph 1st, David (fifth generation), emigrating with his wife, Ann ———, to Wake County, South Carolina, established his family, which has increased and multiplied in the Carolinas, Virginia, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Texas and elsewhere.

The account of one only of David's posterity is found in the collection of records furnished by Honorable Oze E. Horton of Atlanta, Georgia.

Caleb

The account of another branch of the posterity of Caleb is given in an interesting and well arranged volume, "Ancestry of Horace Ebenezer and Emma Babcock Horton," published by his son, George Terry Horton, continuing from David, in the fifth generation, who was born 1735 and married Mehetabel Terry.

Their children were:

Joseph. Jerry. David. Luther.
Five daughters, whose names are not given.

LUTHER, son of David Horton and Mehetabel Terry, born at Riverhead, Long Island, N. Y., 1777; married, at Norway, N. Y., 1805, to CLARISSA, daughter of William and Martha (Giles) FORTSYTH, born, 1778, at Williamstown, Mass.

Children:

Minerva, born 1806; married David Sherman.
Harriet, born 1808; married Jeremiah Petrie.
Hiram Terry, born 1811; married Mary Hurd.
Elvira, born 1814; married Alvin Chapin.
Henrietta, born 1816; married Dr. Anthony Barney.
Henry, born 1819; married Ann Hadley.
Lewis Freeman, born 1821; married Zindiana Beechey.
Jonathan Giles, born 1822; married Lovina Mary Wood.
Martha Ann, born 1825; married Levant Anthony Barney.
Maria Adelia, born 1831; married Darwin Erasmus Barney.

Seventh Generation

HIRAM TERRY HORTON, born in Herkimer Co., N. Y., 1811; married MARY HURD, Norway, N. Y., 1822. They lived 4 years in Painesville, Ohio; 4 years at Byron, Ill.; 17 years Herkimer Co., N. Y., and 42 years at Rochester, Minn, the last 6 years at Chicago, with his son, Horace Ebenezer Horton.

He lived to the age of 91 years. He was a soldier of the War of 1812.

Children:

Mary Elizabeth, born 1837; married Edwin Coon.
Horace Ebenezer, born 1843.

Eighth Generation

HORACE EBENEZER, son of Hiram Terry Horton and Mary Hurd, born 1843; married EMMA BABCOCK, daughter of George and Emily Brown Babcock, at Waupun, Wisconsin.

Children:

George Terry, born 1873; married Hazel Hamilton Heath.
 Susie May, born 1876; married Robert H. Murray.
 Jessie Margaret, born 1879; married Dr. K. Koessler.
 Helen, born 1881; died in infancy.
 Horace Babcock, born 1885; married Marjorie Mason.
 Hiram T., born 1888; married Violetta Lee.

The book, "Ancestry of Horace Ebenezer Horton and Emma Babcock," gives further the history and genealogy of families allied by marriage to their lines.

Among the names are (Samuel) Adams, Babcock, Bishop Beardsley Bourne, (Gov.) Bradford, Brown, Chittenden Cogswell, Cutter, Forsyth, Fuller, Giles, Gardner, Graves, Green, Hall (John), Hall (Henry), Hallock, Hazard, Helme, Hodge, Hurd, Hyde, Knickerbocker, Lane, Lawton, Leete, (Gov.) Marshall, Meigs, Perry, Pickett, Raymond, Richards, Smith, Spalding, Starr, Stevens, Stone, Tucker, Van der Bogart, Wilcox, Williams, Waldo. The Knickerbocker and Van der Bogart of the Knickerbocker family—an entry contains data connecting to the Roosevelt family, by Lysbet, whose sister (name unknown) was an ancestress of Theodore Roosevelt. The volume contains about 100 pages. Five pages, beginning the history, are devoted to the ancestry of Horace Ebenezer Horton (going back to Barnabas 1st) and giving his descendants.

Thirteen other pages are occupied by the records of the other children of Luther and Clarissa Forsythe Horton, namely, Minerva, Harriet, Elvira, Henrietta, Henry, Lewis Freeman, Jonathan Giles, Martha Ann and Adelia.

The line of Hortons in this branch are Barnabas 1st, Caleb, David, David, David, Luther, Hiram Terry, Horace Ebenezer, George Terry.

The balance of the pages are devoted to the very interesting history and records of the allied families given in the list.

Caleb

Another branch of the posterity of Caleb is given by Mrs. Mary Emma Horton Moore, daughter, of Hon. William Horton and Nancy Rebecca Blair (Phineas, Nathan, Nathan, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.).

This includes the 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th generations of Colonel Nathan Horton and his brother, Zephaniah, who emigrated to the Watauga country, N. C., after the Revolutionary War.

These descendants have been settlers in all the southern states. Their part in the national life has been no small one. They have given strength, character and solidarity to that part of the Union. Allied to prominent families of renown, they have carried righteousness, industry and enterprise wherever they are found. Their records are among the generations of the lineage of Caleb Horton 1st in this volume.

Joshua

We have the account of Joshua Horton, called the "Explorer," from Mrs. Lucy Henderson Horton's family history.

In the year 1766 Colonel James Smith of Pennsylvania, who later was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, with a party consisting of Uriah Stone, Wm. Baker, Joshua Horton and a negro servant belonging to him, having heard from the Indians of great bodies of rich land in what is now known as Tennessee, between the Ohio and Cherokee Rivers, and lately ceded to the King of Great Britain, the party proceeded to the Holston River. They explored and roughly charted the hinterland and named Stone River for Uriah Stone, and the Cumberland River and Mountains for the Duke of Cumberland, who had married Anne Horton, an heiress and a person of note in England.

When they reached the place where Nashville now is, the party turned back and retraced their steps to the Watauga country, where Joshua Horton remained. He was the first patentee of land in Tennessee. He removed with his family before the Revolutionary War, making settlement and being the founder of a large and important branch of the Hortons in North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

One residence of Joshua Horton, the Explorer, was "Green Hill" near Camden, S. C. His descendants are found in nearly all of the southern states.

Governor Henry H. Horton is of Tennessee, sprung from lineage of Joshua Horton, the Explorer, and will be found in the records of Joshua, the fourth son of Barnabas Horton 1st.

SOUTHOLD OF THE PRESENT (1929)

Southold, the cradle of our race, lies in the eastern end of Long Island.

It is one of the charmingly pleasant villages of fifteen hundred inhabitants of that long seagirt strip of earth often called the lungs of New York City. Hotels, resorts, polo fields, golfing greens, racing tracks and bathing beaches abound.

Oyster Bay, Coney Island, Rockaway Beach, Montauk Point are known nationally.

The Island, ninety miles in length, affords delightful motoring facilities in the way of good roads, invigorating sea air and changing view.

The earliest picture of the Island was written by the Dutch Commissioner, Tienhoven, to his home government, 1644.

"It is the levellest soil in the Niew Netherlands, very well adapted for agriculture and the rearing of all sort of cattle. It is furnished with beautiful valleys, navigable harbors, rivers and bays, a considerable inland sea wherein are other fair and fertile islands inhabited by Indians. The greatest part of the wampum, for which furs are traded, is made there.

"The English have two villages, Southold, with 30 houses, and Southampton, with about 12."

He urged boundary line redoubt and garrison "to keep the English from further settlement." He goes on, "Much timbered land, good for houses, ship building and firewood. There are trees of chestnut, fir, cedar, beech, walnut, oak, pine. Berries, fruits, grapes, both white and blue.

"There are eagles, wild turkeys, ducks, salmon, blackfish, shell fish, conch shells (for wampum), oysters, mussels and furs of beaver.

"But also there were difficulties of travel, down timber, matted vines, swamps, Indian trails easy of ambush."

Not any part of Long Island, like ancient Greece, is distant from the seas. Eminent and wealthy people have their country seats there. Historians, artists, musicians and literary folk delight in the quaint landmarks and memorials and its homelike villages.

The Shinnecock Hills, loved of painters, are a fine point of interest. The home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," a modest, time-beaten cottage, is at Easthampton.

On the north shore is Oyster Bay, the home and seat of the Roosevelts, and also the tomb of Theodore Roosevelt.

The historic importance of the island is high for the nearly three hundred years of its occupancy by white men. First it was in the Earl Stirling grant and was known as Connecticut. Later the pretensions of the Dutch, who called it the "Crown of their province," were withstood and down the generations it has creditably borne its part in the national advance. About Southold the names of the first settlers are woven into the fabric of its population. Horton and Corwin and Terry, Wells, Hallock, Conklin, Booth, Youngs, Tuthill, are scattered over the pages of its weekly paper, the "Long Island Traveler." It is a highly interesting town, with tree-lined streets. The old First Church and Founders' Monument give a note of character. There are two banks, a public library, stores and business houses, four churches, a town hall; a soldiers' monument; two or three parks. The Memorial Gateway, built of native rocks gathered in the fields about, is fittingly placed at the point on the beach at the spot where the founders landed. It commands a delightful view of the Bay and is the entrance therefrom to "Founders' Park," and will, no doubt, stand for ages, its granite tablets setting forth in lasting material its historical object.

Southold is not a "deserted village," not decrepit, but vigorous, rich in memories and tradition. It lies in beauty, an important place.

Her people are progressive. They cherish their traditions and achievements. They have the courage and enterprise in celebrating in song and story and dramatic pageantry the deeds of her people and periods of her founding and progress.

In 1890 the 250th anniversary; in 1915 the 275th was observed. Artists and orators, musicians and dramatists of high rank were delighted to contribute. The episodes of her history from the first day were presented in much beauty and fitness. The sea setting, the venerable trees, the old church, the tombs, old landmarks and ancient homes and memorials were a great part of it. The fine feeling among the inhabitants and their cooperation was remarkable.

The sons and daughters bred here in this typical American environment have gone out to found new settlements and have carried the characteristic principles and sterling qualities of their ancestors to the remote parts of the United States, and there planted them with as much hardship and endeavor as the first ones displayed. By horseback and on foot journey into the unexplored hinterland: the covered wagon, the packet boat and raft on streams; the overland stage, the ox team, far from home and protection of government, into deserts, among savage Indians and wild beasts, they have carried civilization, planted homes, strengthened the nation and upheld the government. States, cities, towns, colleges and universities have risen.

Many of these sons and daughters of Southold have been famous. Many instances could be given.

* * * "The town retains the just, faithful and free spirit of primeval Puritanism, when men knew what they were building and purposely laid solid foundation for many ages of equity, freedom, prosperity and virtue."

Most of them have proved their adherence to the old Puritan standards wherever they have gone. They are diligent in business, reverent in spirit, frugal, honest, courageous, progressive, patriotic.

Their roots have struck deep into the land.

Much information for the Southold notes has, by the kind permission of Mrs. Ella B. Hallock, been taken from her book, "Southold Celebration, 1640-1915."

SOUTHOLD OF THE PAST

Called Yennicott by the Indians

Calls up visions of the white-winged boat coming to shore, as told in Metta Horton Cook's fascinating story, "Yennicott Folks," historical of the first settlement in the eastern end of Long Island.

"Coming with prayer and song, the rich voice of Barnabas Horton leading:

*Ye people all with one accord
Clap hands and eke rejoice,
Be glad and sing unto the Lord
With sweet and pleasant voyce.

"It was a picture ever to be remembered, the green, sloping bluff, the tall oaks and cedars, the wigwams here and there making fitting background for the Indians on the beach in their fantastic costumes of deerskin and feathers.

William Hallock, who had been there before and had made friends with them, steps on shore; others crowded around him; they kneel reverently, he leading them in prayer.

As they rise from their knees, the Sachem approaches them, showing a cup given him by Mr. Hallock on the former visit. An Indian peace pipe is shown by Mr. Hallock, which had been given him by the Sachem. Some words of the Algonquin language were spoken. Food was offered them and the good will of the Indians is thus assured. Signs are made by the settlers that they wish to buy land and later the Indians give them a dressed deerskin with lines and scratches, showing that land had been allotted to them where they might build their homes. Later for the original purchase of the lands in Southold, including Riverhead, the inhabitants obtained, in 1665, the appended Indian deed comprising the purchase., and here they were after the long sojourning, in possession of great natural resources with kindly greetings from the natives, far from religious persecution. They were as the patriarchs of old, "who by faith obtained their hearts' desire and should possess the land."

*Text and melody are still in preservation in the old Bible that Barnabas Horton brought with him and is reproduced in this volume.

The future was full of possibilities. Allotments were made where each might build shelter. Trees were cut down, huts were built, awaiting more substantial structures.

Minister Youngs was the leader, moderator, minister, friend.

A "meeting" house in the real sense was soon built.

It served not only as a temple of worship, but a tower of defense. Here they were to come at the sound of the drum of the watchman with the loaded guns with powder and shot, should unfriendly Indians or other dangers threaten. Here the men were to gather to consider the welfare of the colony.

When Sabbath came faithful men with the Bible in one hand, the musket, of necessity, in the other; devout women, maidens, young men and children come and take their places for prayer and inspiration for praise and companionship. Along the front wall was a plank with notches cut to rest the butts of the guns.

A town was soon laid out. The Indian trail was widened for a street. The houses were built closely together for protection.

The rich, arable lands which had once been an Indian village were divided in portions, as was also the woodland and salt meadows. Drawings were made by lot, as they had agreed. Further necessary measures were taken for government. Barnabas Horton was a magistrate and member of the court at New Haven for many years. He with his sons were the wealthiest men of the colony.

He was a standby to the leader and minister, John Youngs, both as a friend in life and in death, he closed his eyes in the last long sleep. Of the other men of the first thirteen, William Wells was considered highly as legal authority. Mr. Terry was recorder. They, with John Budd, Barnabas Horton, Mathias Corwin, were elected by the whole body of freemen to order town affairs.

Meetings were to begin at 8 o'clock in the morning and were held every three months in the meeting house. A fine of twenty shillings was imposed for nonattendance.

It was ordered at one of these meetings that

"Everie such person as inhabiteth amongst us as shall bee found as a common tale bearer, carriere, tattler, or busie-body in idle matter, forger or coyner of reports, untruths or leyes, or freequently provoking rude unsavorie words tenderinge to disturbe the peace, shall forfeit and pay for everie default ten shillings."

They gave the name Southold, after their native place, Southwold in Old England, and the name of their native county, Suffolk, to the eastern county that includes more than half of Long Island territory.

The Colony was drawn into the struggle in the Indian and French wars and rejoiced when Canada became subject to Great Britain.

The Island settlements, mostly of English people, had been established, some French Huguenots adding strength and character. The Dutch settlers brought thrift, order and stability.

The overlapping grant by the Crown to the Duke of "Yorke" (hence the name of New York), whose oppression and the exactions of his deputies, the hated Nichols and Lovelace and the notoriously wicked Andros, were, one by one, sent to enforce his patent, and for seventy years these oppressions went on. Much was borne: calamity, struggle, burdens making the people inherently strong, purifying, tutoring and hardening the necks for the coming crisis of the Revolution.

Under a liberal charter, the people were contented, industrious, progressive, happy and prosperous. Want and crime were rare.

The people were deluded with promises of civic liberty, but it was a poor sort of liberty that could be got from a Stuart king.

It is recorded that Southold held out against the deputies as far as possible, finally agreeing to pay or give one fat lamb, as a quit rent fee. There is a curious citation from an old documentary history of New York for certain years to Barnabas Horton and John Mulford, deputies of Southold, as "to breach of laws in not appointing a constable (tax gatherer)", adding that the "law doth enjoyne election of constable and four overseers for the yeare ensuing in your towne. Otherwise I shall declare against you as dissenters therein and disturbers of the peace, mutinous contemnners of the established laws and shall, with God's assistance, proceed against you everie one.

(Signed Your Lo. (Loving)

FRIEND GOV'NOR R'C'H'D NICHOLS,

Fort James, N. Y.

To Barnabas Horton, high Sheriff, and Captain John Mulford, April 14, 1660."

The promised right of assembly was withheld and evaded. Protests were received with contempt.

The people assembled in spite of the restrictions and every assembly resisted more strongly the exactions of the governors, each one being worse than the last.

Enormous revenues were collected. Old titles, given 50 years ago, were annulled. Old holders of land were compelled to pay for new deeds. The resources were exhausted.

Heavy debts incurred by military operations against the French in Canada by the English, which invariably ended in failure and disgrace, were saddled on to the Colonists.

Trade and industries languished. Colonization was slow, notwithstanding the central position of the New York colony. The Revolution came on. The news of Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill fired every heart. New York Province in assembly, April, 1775, adopted the "Pledge for Independence" three months in advance of the Declaration.

It is given in full below, and was spread over the country for signers in the New York Province:

City of New York, April 29, 1775.

PLEDGE FOR INDEPENDENCE

The Freemen, Freeholders and Inhabitants in association adopted the Pledge for Independence.

Persuaded that the salvation of the rights and liberties of America depend, under God, on the firm union of its inhabitants in a rigorous prosecution of the measures necessary for its safety, and convinced of the necessity of preventing anarchy and confusion which attend the dissolution of the powers of government, we, the freemen, freeholders and inhabitants of _____, being greatly alarmed at the avowed design of the Ministry to raise a revenue in America, and being shocked at the bloody scenes being enacted in Massachusetts Bay, do, in the most solemn manner, resolve never to become slaves, and do associate, under all the ties of religion, honor and love to our country, to adopt and endeavor to carry into execution whatever measures may be recommended by the Continental Congress, or resolved upon by our provincial Convention, for the purpose of preserving our Constitution, and opposing the execution of the several arbitrary Acts of the British Parliament, until a reconciliation between Great Britain and America on constitutional principles (which we ardently desire) can be obtained:

And that we will in all things follow the advice of our general Committee respecting the purposes aforesaid, the preservation of peace and good order and the safety of individuals and property.

This was signed by the inhabitants almost universally. At Southold there were about 300 voters, all but 40 signed the Pledge for Independence.

August 27-28, 1776.

The Battle of Long Island was the first in force of any magnitude in the Revolutionary War.

Although the American military was despised and made light of Howe, the best and brightest of the English generals, made elaborate plans to crush and annihilate the American forces. The battle was indecisive. Through some misunderstanding or disregard of orders the result was disastrous. It is said that that battle went far to prepare the American mind for the struggle.

Washington made a most brilliant retreat, recouped the situation and saved most of his fighting men. The Americans lost 1000 men, the British 400. One writer says that we took much from our association with the Indians. His stoicism, cunning, endurance, fidelity and independence, that strengthened and enabled us to hold on to our purpose through eight years of gruelling devastating warfare against the strongest power of the world.

The element of surprise and onslaught, the ability to scatter and disappear, to escape by hook or crook, borrowed and practiced in the French and Indian wars, evened up the unequal contest, as did also the superior marksmanship with rifles and woodcraft knowledge of the Americans.

New York, it was said, was the cockpit of the Revolution. The country, and especially Long Island, was overrun by the British. The two companies of minute men of Southold was disbanded; the inhabitants, many of them, fled, burning wheat and anything that could help the British. The oaken cask of Barnabas Horton was buried, thus saving fifteen bushels of wheat. The Island was plundered by Whig Tory and British troops. There was no redress. Brute force was the highest law.

On the return of peace, 1784, the State Legislature imposed a tax of ten thousand guineas on the island as a compensation to other parts of the state, for their not having been able to take part in the war. The many refugees who had left home and property to fight elsewhere returned to find their homes devastated, houses and barns stripped of everything of value. Their orchards and woods cut down, their burial places polluted by seven years occupancy of a lawless military.

The long waterfront made them the prey of predatory parties, who robbed the people of their stock and crops and found an easy and safe flight in boats.

Negro slavery existed from early colonial period, and was sanctioned by statute under the state government. In 1778 a law was passed for their gradual emancipation.

The town suffered in some measure during the war with Great Britain in 1812 and was fortified and armed at its eastern-most point.

The town zealously supported the old flag throughout the Civil War.

It is said that the political trend of affairs in New York State is indicated by the attitude of Suffolk County, in early elections.

INDIAN DEED

To all people whom this writing shall come, Greeting :

Know ye that whereas the inhabitants of Southold, their predecessors, or some of them, have in the right and behalfe of the said inhabitants of the township purchased, procured and paid for, of the Sachems and Indians, our ancestors, all that tract of land situate, lying and being at the eastward end of Long Island, and bounded by the river, called in the English tounge the Weading Wreek, in the Indian tounge, Panquaconsuck, on the west to and with Plum Island, on the east with the sound, called the North Sea on the north, and with a river or arme of the sea wich runneth up between Southampton Land and the aforesaid tract of land unto a certain kreek wich fresh water runneth out on ye south, called in English the Red Kreek, in Indian, Tayonge, together with the said kreek and meadows belonging thereto, and running on a straight lyne from the head of the aforementioned fresh water to the head of ye small brook that runneth into the kreek called Panquaconsuck, as also all necks of lands, meadows, islands, or broken pieces of meadows, rivers, creeks, woodlands, fishing, fowling, hunting and all other commodities whatever unto the said tract of land and island belonging or in any wise appertaining, as Corchang and Mattatuck, and all other tracts of by that name soever named or by what name soever called : and whereas the new inhabitants of the aforementioned town of Southold have given unto us whose names are underwritten, being the true Indian owners and proprietors of the aforesaid tract of land and islands, fourty yards of trucking cloth, or the worth of the same, the receipt whereof and every part of the same we doe hereby acknowledge and thereof acquit and discharge the inhabitants, their heirs, successors, or assigns and every of them by these presents.

Now these presents witnesseth that wee whose names are underwritten, for the consideration aforementioned, hath given, granted, remised and confirmed, and doth by these presents grant, remise and confirm unto Capt. John Youngs, Barnabas Horton and Township of Southold, and for the use of the aforesaid inhabitants, according to their and every of their several dividends, to have and to hold, to them and to their heirs forever, by virtue of the afore recited bargain, bargains, gifts and grants of what nature or kind soever made with our predecessors.

Wee underwritten doe confirm all the aforenamed tract or tracts of land, contained within the aforementioned bounds, as also Plum Island, with warranty against us, our heirs, or any of us or them, or any other person or persons claime, or from, by, or under us, them, or any of us or them, or any other person or persons, as our, their or any of our or their right, title or interest, as witness our hands and seals this seventh of December, 1665, in the seventeenth yeare of ye reigne of our soveraigne Lord Charles, by the grace of God, of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, King, defender of the faith, etc.

Signed by Ambusco Hammatus and forty-one others.

Those lands would compose a principality in some older countries.

THE PURITANS

as distinguished from the Pilgrims, who were also Puritan, should be separated in our understanding.

The Pilgrims were the first of the vanguard of the Puritan exodus coming to this shore in 1620. They were a body known as "Separatists", who, with their minister and leader, the Rev. John Robinson, left their homes in England, driven out by the intolerance of the crown and clergy in religious matters, to Holland, where they sojourned for some years.

Finally, in 1620, a portion of them embarked in the Mayflower and set sail for America, their minister remaining in Holland.

They were a small, weak company, illy equipped for the enterprise and suffered incredible hardship and misfortune. Those were the Pilgrims, to whom all honor and praise is due.

They landed on Plymouth Rock. Religious persecution increasing in England these were soon followed by shiploads and shiploads of men and women encouraged by the example of the Pilgrims to found homes free from tyrannous oppression.

Thirteen years or so after the Mayflower came our colony of thirteen families, Puritans, who settled in the eastern end of Long Island, typical of hundreds of other such settlements.

They, the Puritans were of the best of the bone and sinew of old England. Many of them were of gentle birth and tender rearing and highly educated. They were not poverty stricken. There was no economic urge, nor were they wild-eyed adventurers seeking the fabled Fountain of Youth, as was Ponce de Leon.

You cannot read of them without being impressed by their courage and resolution, their farsightedness, their self-sacrifice, their industry. The heroic deeds of our Puritan ancestors are handed down in song and story, reflected in art and kept alive in monument and celebration and make ancestry from a Puritan father and mother, a mark of coveted distinction throughout all time.

The settlement of these United States was a protest and movement, the direct outcome of the reformation set in motion by Luther. Grown, like an overflowing stream, until oppression could no longer be borne, it found its outlet here. The oppressed of Europe—the French Huguenot, exiled from home and country, the Protestant Dutch, the Scotch, the Lutheran Swede, the Germans of the Lollards of middle Europe were of similar religious thought, and contributed enormously to the success of the Puritan settlement of this country. In the fullness of time and thought they were to found a great Protestant nation, founded on the teachings of Christianity. A new righteousness and conception of the principles of equity and freedom among men which, not united at first, grew into union and strength.

They were not without faults. Sneered at by shallow bigotry and unbelief their principles were the basic ones of political liberty and equality, and a purity of conduct that is the underlying accent of the American character.

Says Ridpath of the Puritans: "Vigorous, hardy, firm set in the principles of honesty and the practice of virtue, sober, industrious, frugal, the gaze of the Puritan was turned ever to posterity. He believed in the future. His affections and hopes were with the coming years. For his children he sacrificed that they should be educated." Six years after the settlement Harvard was founded, soon followed by other institutions of learning.

The Puritan mind was the direct fruit of Protestantism. The Bible had not long been printed and available to the people. For the first time in the history of Christianity people could read it and form their opinions on its pure teaching without the hated ceremonials of prelacy. They were led more and more to appeal to the Bible as the standard of right and wrong—there was little other literature. A spiritual awakening was the result.

The Puritan theory of life lay at the bottom of the system of education in the independent churches. Each one was an effective school to train men in the principles of righteous government and the cause of liberty now recognized universally as just.

Later, their determination was fulfilled in the Declaration of Independence, for which they fought and endured.

The living soul of these Puritan principles strengthened, deepened and expanded by the passing of time, is reflected in every national conflict in which no war of aggression or conquest has been waged. The correction of abuses of sea power by the British as seen in the War of 1812. The abuses and extinction of slavery as a matter of principle in the progress of human rights as in the Civil War. The relief of oppressed people at our door as in the Spanish-American War and in the World War, a truly altruistic enterprise, scorning reward for stupendous expenditure, suffering and loss of lives.

Long ago Shelley wrote the prophecy:

There is a People mighty in its youth,
A land beyond the Oceans of the West
Where, through rudest rites, Freedom and Truth are worshipped.

That land is like an eagle whose young gaze
Feeds on the noontide beams, whose golden plume
Floats moveless on the storm, and in the blaze
Of sunrise gleams—when earth is wrapt in gloom.
An epitaph of Glory for the tomb of murdered Europe.
May thy fame be made.

Great people, as the sands, shalt thou become—
* * * * *
The multitudinous earth shall sleep beneath thy shade.
Yes, in the desert then is built a home for Freedom.
Genius is made strong near to the monuments of man
Beneath the dome of a near heaven.
Myriads, assembled there, whom the proud lords of Man, in rage or fear,
Drive from their wasted homes. * * *

HORTON CHURCH—ENGLAND

This ancient church, once belonging to the demesne lands of a Horton estate, stands in the small hamlet of Horton, in the most fertile part of Buckinghamshire, England, fourteen miles out of London.

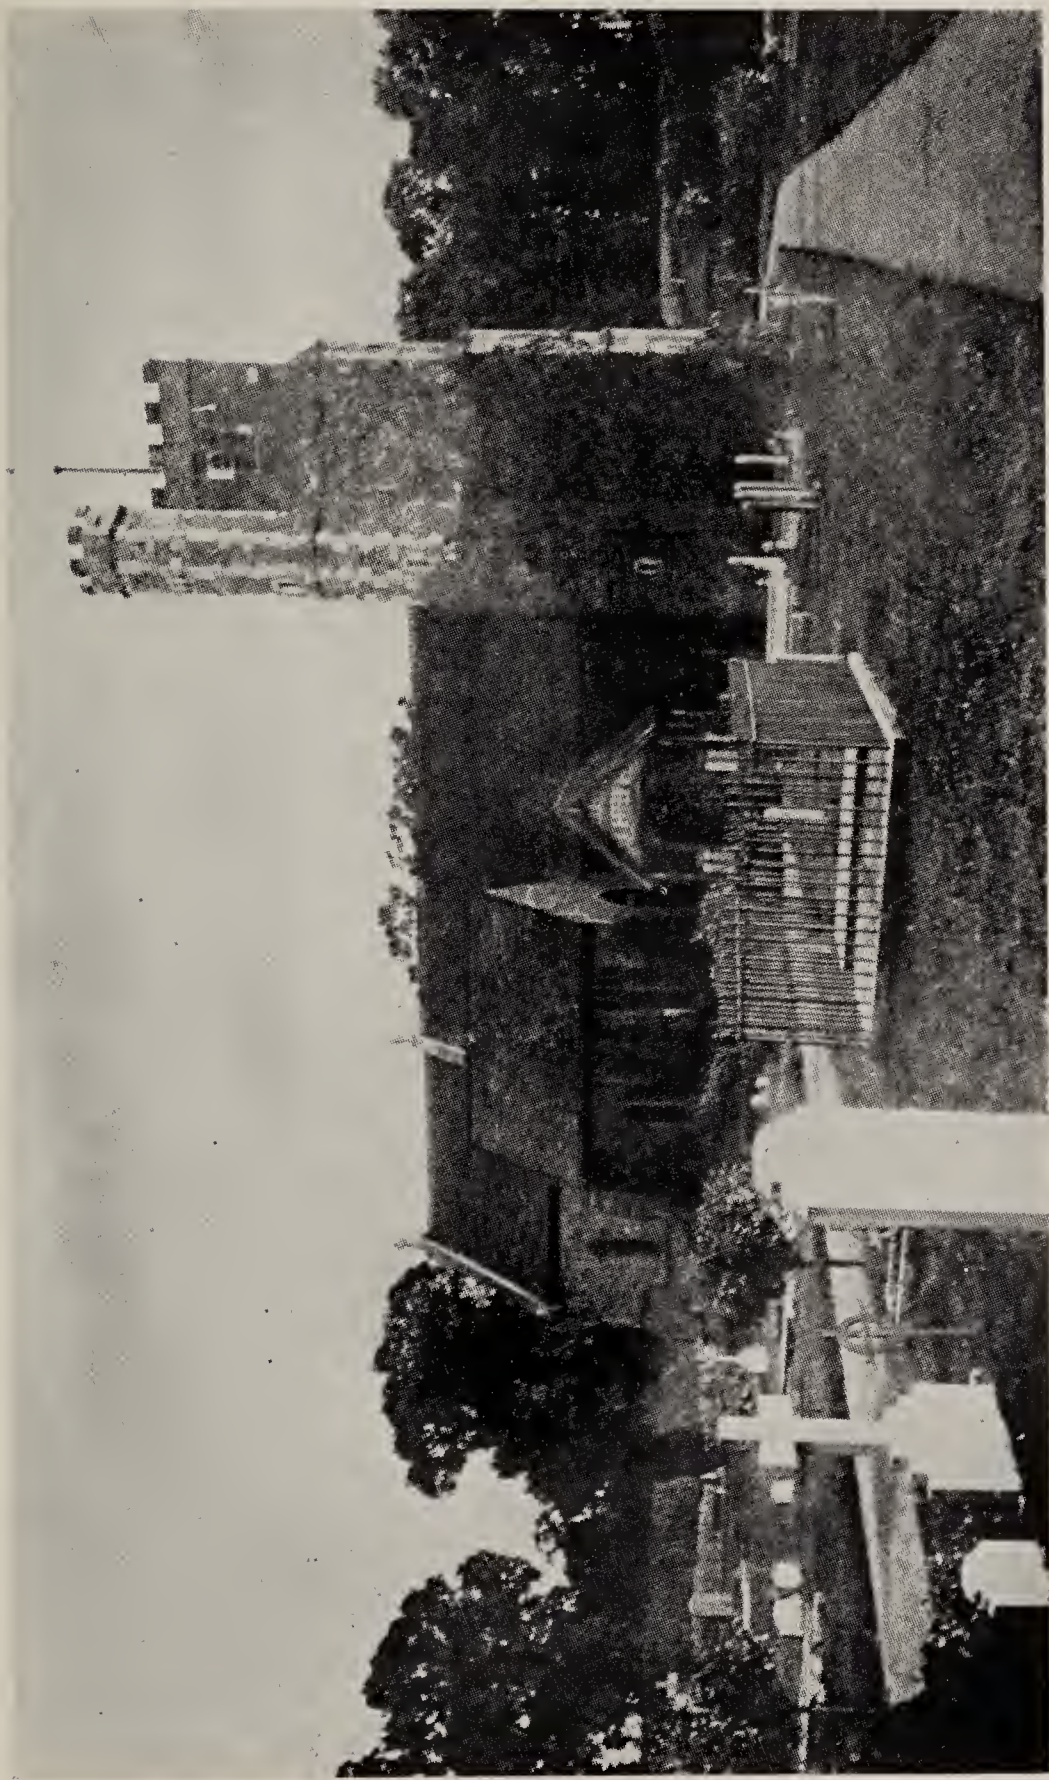

Small, built of stone, in cruciform outline, with ivy-mantled tower and with setting of trees, shrubs and flowers, it makes a captivating picture.

The tower is of that superior stable enduring style of architecture attributed to the Normans that came in after the Conquest (1066) and thereabout. The date 1160 would verify the assumption.

The saying that the rural church is the heart of England is true. It is always open and accessible, with a churchyard garden, seats, walks, shelter and shade, the weary go there for rest, the troubled for prayer and consolation, the poor for comfort, the thoughtful for retrospection, the artist and author for inspiration.

This Horton church is typical of the rural church. Under the pavement in the interior and about the feet lie the graves of the long departed. The place is filled with history and memorials. Inscriptions, tablets and carvings speak reverently of the ages. The carved picturesque gateway and wall, the crumbling tombs, the avenue of rose trees and the well-kept grass speak of its value to the community. There is generally a caretaker about whose appearance and manner proclaim him a part of it, versed in its history and meaning.

Horton, England, was for long the home of John Milton. The grave of his mother is within the church. If environment has any value in a life, we can believe that Horton and Horton church may have contributed something to the immortal work "Paradise Lost". The tower of the church, built for ulterior purposes—a lookout in invasion or warfare—bears an ancient clock face and flagstaff. The walls are thick and with massive interior arches that marked the Norman time, showing that the building served also as a fortification, or was a part of it. The lovely ancient stained glass windows add to the mellow aspect of the interior.

HORTON CHURCH, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, ENGLAND, 1160

Built for the glory of God, when men's hearts burned to give praise and embody in beautiful forms the faith within them and clothe them with fitting surroundings, this church is still in almost daily use. Seen on a September day, sweet with white lillies and much confetti scattered about (a wedding party having just gone out) it was a picture long to be remembered.

An aged resident of the hamlet, Thomas Horton, a pensioner of the Crimean War, could give no accurate information as to the history of the Horton family that once inhabited here. The parish clerk being absent there was little or no opportunity for investigation. So that tradition, which is often reliable, seems to be the main dependence in this account of Horton Church in St. Michael's Parish, England.

THE OLD FIRST CHURCH OF SOUTHOLD

The old First Church at Southold is the heir of the ages of the "meeting house", built in 1640 at Southold and is, in fact, the first church duly organized in Suffolk County under the laws of the State of New York.* At the end of the Revolutionary War the state became the possessor of the eminent domain and directed that "Church properties be so provided with lawful trustees".

The "meeting house" built in the first year of settlement, was strongly built of logs with the view of its probable use as a fortification in times of danger. It was occupied as a house of worship until 1684.

History (Prime's) says that this church and the one at Southampton were the first sanctuaries erected for worship of the Living God within the entire province of the Niew Netherlands (New York).

The basis on which these early Puritan churches in America were organized was Congregational, and this body retained that form one hundred and ninety-two years. In 1832 it united with the Presbytery of Long Island, by which it changed no article of creed.

The early Southold church was independent of and had no affiliation with any ecclesiastical body.

These churches were duly organized bodies for secular as well as religious matters.

Prime speaks of a document "fast falling to pieces from age" in the Southampton church records that set forth the law for government founded on the Mosaic law in Deuteronomy with citation to verse and chapter as to offenses and penalties.

In 1684 the County Court ordered that a prison be made at Southold. The town built a new meeting house and turned the old stronghold into a jail. At the same time Jonathan, the youngest son of Barnabas Horton, and heir of the homestead, enlarged his dwelling and made a court room in the upper story, which was used Later information is received that there is a Dutch Reformed Church, organized 1628, in a Fort in "Niew Amsterdam" (N. Y. City). It is still going and is known as the Mooble Collegiate Church of N. Y. City.

THE OLD FIRST CHURCH OF SOUTHOLD AND FOUNDER'S MONUMENT

for the purpose thirty years, until the courts were established at Riverhead, a nearby town of Suffolk County, and the jail at Southold was discontinued. After its demolition there were seen depressions in the earth long remaining that showed where dungeons had been excavated for prisoners.

In 1711 a new church edifice was erected, which was thirty-two by fifty feet, and in 1803 the present structure, forty by sixty feet, was built, and is one hundred twenty-five years old, and is in constant use. A one-time chapel and carriage shed being rebuilt and arranged for Sunday school and parish house purposes.

In 1915, at the 275th anniversary of the Landing, the Founders monument was erected on the site of the old first "meeting house", a few rods from the present church.

The Rev. Dr. Whitaker, pastor and pastor emeritus, for sixty-five years, without whom no story of Southold Church could be written, was foremost in the enterprise of erecting the monument seen in the picture. It bears an inscription, "This monument marks the site of the first meeting house of Southold and commemorates the founders of the town and church, organized in Oct. 21, 1640."

So the old "meeting house" has its memorial in enduring granite. The Rev. Dr. Whitaker, whose labors gave character and stability to the spiritual and intellectual life of the village, compiled a history of Southold, 1640-1740, which is of the highest undisputed authority. A beautiful tablet is erected in the old church to his memory by a grateful and appreciative congregation.

There has been but eighteen pastors of this church in the 288 years of its existence. The present Rev. Wm. H. Lloyd's pastorate is thirty-one years. Mr. Lloyd has given much information of the old First Church.

OMNES GENTES. Psalm xlvij. L. H.

Text and Melody from the Bible of 1599, belonging to BARNABAS HORTON, who was in Southold, N. Y., October, 1640. Arranged by D. P. HORTON, Brooklyn, N. Y.

1. Ye peo - ple all, with one ac - cord, clap hands and eke re-joyce:
2. Our God af - cend-eth up on hie with joy and plea-fant noise:

Be glad and sing un - to the Lord with sweet and pleasant voyce.
The Lord goeth up a - bove the skie, with trumpet's royall voyce.

For high the Lord and dread-full is with wonders man-i - fold,
Sing prai-fes to our God, sing praise, sing prai ses to our King:

A migh-tie King he is al - fo, in all the earth ex - tol'd.
For God is King of all the earth, all skillfull prai - ses sing.

savage hate and war to cease, And yield their place to love and peace. Here, too, the Hor-ton tribes appear, To crown our nation's hun-dredth year.

Chorus.

One hundred years our country boasts, One hundred more the Horton hosts; Thro' all the cen-tu-ries to be, God grant them both prosper-i ty.

2 What miracles have come to pass
Since our fore-father, Barnabas,
Left friends and home beyond the sea
To worship God with liberty.
And age, that gives our country fame,
Adds lustre to the Horton name.
One hundred years, &c.

3 The past, most gratefully we own ;
With goodly seed the land is sown ;
Our fathers well have done their part
In virtue, industry, and art.
And shall their children fail to be
Their peers in worth and piety ?
One hundred years, &c.

MEMORIAL GATEWAY—SOUTHOLD

MEMORIAL GATEWAY

By METTA HORTON COOK

Read at the Dedication at Founders Landing, 1915

Gateway of this ancient town
Now we dedicate thee here.
In fair Southold, whose renown,
Like her name, to us is dear.

True memorial of the band
Who came here across the sea,
Seeking in an unknown land
Freedom, peace and liberty.

Entrance to the beauteous bay
Winding far out to the sea,
Bid good speed to those alway
Sailing from our shore to thee.

Those who through thy portals come
Stranger, friend and wandering guest,
Be to them a welcome home
In this place of quiet rest.

Oft remind us of that band,
Bravely in the long ago
Coming to this lonely strand,
Toiling on through weal and woe.

Stand an emblem of the faith
That sustained those men of old,
Stand a symbol of our love
For our worthy town Southold.

THE FOUNDERS

BY REV. EPHER WHITAKER

Read at the 250th Celebration of the Founding of Southold

Five semi-centuries of years—
How swift beyond the starry spheres
 Their flight has winged away.
Since full of hope and faith sublime
Our fathers in the bright springtime
 First sailed Peconic Bay.

With Christian courage, love and zeal
They landed here ; for common weal
 They formed a church and town.
Religion, freedom, law and right,
They wrought for these with all their might—
 Nor feared a tyrant's frown.

The desert owns their hardy toil—
Their cheerful hand turn up the soil
 More fragrant than the rose.
The virgin fields with grain are bright,
And active life brings with the night
 The balm of sweet repose.

The dwellings multiply apace
While spring to autumn runs the race
 And homely comforts grow.
The children go to school by day,
They learn to walk the Christian way—
 With health their faces glow.

The meeting house on Sabbath days
Is vocal with the prayer and praise
 Of goodly worshippers.
The faithful pastor in his place
Expounds the words of truth and grace
 And every bosom stirs.

No despots hand with cruel wrong
Can bind in chains and fetters strong
 These worshippers of God.
They own the land, they make the laws—
No man can suffer but for cause,
 For justice holds the rod.

For us they crossed the stormy sea,
For us they planted liberty,
 How rich its fruits today!
May all her children worthy be
To share the birthright of the free—
 For this, oh God, we pray.

Oh sons of freedom, men of might,
O woman, full of faith and light,
 We owe a debt to you.
In love to men and love to God
The path of light you nobly trod
 And gave to all their due.

Your course of life upon the earth
Gives your examples priceless worth
 To all who know your ways.
Oh may your virtues us incite
To do our best with all our might Until we end our days.

NOTES

The memoranda in the possession of Dr. Horton in regard to the connection of Barnabas Horton with the Derbyshire Hortons, together with MSS. of his work perished in the burning of a home, so we have no data there to refer to.

Extensive searches of the Mowsley Hortons in Leicester County gives voluminous pedigrees of the family with data of baptisms, assessments, wills, marriages, burials and other vital statistics. There are records of Barnaby Horton, but nothing that identifies him with Barnabas Horton, son of Joseph Horton, born 1600, at Mowsley, England, as stated in Dr. Horton's work.

Derby and Leicester counties join, which strengthens the assumption of the Heraldic Office that the registry of the baptism was made in the environment of the Derbyshire family to which he belonged, although he was born at Mowsley. There is data, however, that is accepted as reliable that the early life of Barnabas Horton centered at Mowsley, viz.: a record of a marriage in 1621 to Anne Smith of Stanion of Northamptonshire, a record of baptism of a son, Benjamin, born 1627, and a marriage to Mary Langton of Wigton Magna mentioned in the will of her mother, 1640.

The walking stick with the letters "J. H.", 1617, mentioned in Dr. Horton's work is referred to as a gift of Joseph Horton, who died in 1617, and left a will, but who in no way connects with Barnabas Horton as his father. Searches are being made to carry on these investigations in this country and in England for the parentage of Barnabas Horton, and if productive it is proposed to issue the information in a supplementary folder. These searches are very slow and it is thought best not to withhold the publishing of the book further on account of them.

BARNABAS I

First Generation—Barnabas 1st

BARNABAS HORTON, born in Mowsley, Leicestershire, England (old style). In 1622 he married Anne Smith of Stanion of Northamptonshire, England. She died, and he married Mary Langton. He emigrated to America in the ship Swallow, Captain Jeremy Horton, master and owner, in 1635 to 1638, landed at Hampton, Mass., where he owned a plot of ground.* He came to New Haven, 1640, with his wife, Mary, and two children, Joseph and Benjamin. He settled permanently on the east end of Long Island, now Southold, Suffolk County, N. Y., in October, 1640.

Children of first wife, Anne Smith:

1. Joseph, born 1625; married Jane Budd, daughter of John Budd I.
2. Benjamin, born 1627; married Anna Budd, sister of Jane.

Children of second wife, Mary Langton:

3. Caleb, born 1640; married Abigail Hallock.
4. Joshua, born 1643; married Mary Tuthill.
5. Jonathan, born 1648; married Bethia Wells.
6. Hannah, married Barnabas Terrill.
7. Sarah, married Joseph Conklin.
8. Mary, married Joseph Budd, son of John Budd.
9. Mercy, married Christopher Youngs.
10. Abigail, married Charles Booth.

Second Generation—Benjamin

II. BENJAMIN, son of Barnabas I., born in Mowsley, England, 1627; came to this country with his father; married about 1661 ANNA BUDD, daughter of John Budd I., and settled near his father, in Southold. He was a freeman of Connecticut Colony in 1664, deeds land to Christopher Youngs in 1670, and to Samuel King and others at various times. Anna, his wife, witnesses deeds in 1673, 1683-85. On 19 February, 1686, he makes his will, appointing his brother Joseph devisee and his brother Joshua executor. He moved to Rye about 1665, where he died, 3 November, 1690, without issue. (Vide "Moore's Indexes of Southold," pp. 22 and 23.)

*Dow's History of Hampton, Mass., states that Barnabas Horton was owner of a house lot here in June, 1640.

2 Second Generation—Hannah, Sarah, Mary, Mercy, Abigail

Hannah

HANNAH, daughter of Barnabas Horton I., born in Southold, about 1651; married, about 1670, BARNABAS TERRILL, son of Thomas Terrill.

Children, all born at Southold:

- | | |
|--------------|---------------|
| 1. Barnabas. | 4. Nicholas. |
| 2. Richard. | 5. Catherine. |
| 3. Abigail. | 6. Mary. |

Sarah

SARAH, daughter of Barnabas Horton I., born at Southold, about 1653; married, about 1670, JOHN CONKLIN, son of John Conklin, the Puritan, and born in Southold, about 1650.

Children, all born at Southold:

- | | |
|------------|---------------|
| 1. Sarah. | 5. John. |
| 2. Rachel. | 6. Henry. |
| 3. Mary. | 7. Thomas. |
| 4. Joseph. | 8. Elizabeth. |

Mary

MARY, daughter of BARNABAS HORTON I., born at Southold, about 1655; married, about 1674, JOHN BUDD, son of John Budd, the Puritan. They moved from Southold to Rye, New York, about 1680.

Children:

John and Joseph, born in Southold; Jonathan and others, born in Rye.

Mercy

MERCY, daughter of BARNABAS HORTON I., born at Southold, about 1660; married, about 1678, CHRISTOPHER YOUNGS, son of Col. John Youngs, grandson of Rev. John Youngs, the first pastor of the first church at Southold.

Children, all born at Southold:

1. John, born 21 Oct., 1679. 2. Abram, born 1681. 3. Nathaniel, born 1683.

Abigail

ABIGAIL, adopted daughter of BARNABAS HORTON I., born at Southold, about 1665; married, about 1690, CHARLES BOOTH, son of John Booth. She was probably the daughter of the second wife of Barnabas, by her first husband. Her father's name is not known.

Children, born in Southold:

1. Charles, born 1691; married Mary ———, who died 13 April, 1774.
2. Abigail, born 1693; married Thomas Goldsmith.
3. David, born 1695; married, in 1717, Abigail Horton, daughter of Caleb I.

Second Generation—Joseph
First Son of Barnabas Horton

I. JOSEPH, the first son of Barnabas I., was born in Mowsley, England; exact date of his birth has not been found. Probably 1625. He came to this country with his father. He married, about 1655, JANE BUDD, daughter of John Budd, one of the original thirteen Puritans, who settled in Southold in 1640. He resided near his father in Southold for several years after his marriage; but about the year 1664, he moved to Rye, Westchester County, New York, to which place his father-in-law, John Budd, had previously gone.

He was admitted a freeman of Connecticut Colony in 1662. In 1663 he witnessed a deed of Tucker and Brush to Mapes. He sold his house, and lot of four acres of land, to his father, Barnabas Horton, and also deeded land to John Youngs, in 1665. In 1671 he was chosen one of the Selectmen of Rye, and about this time he is one of a Committee of three to procure a minister. In 1678 he was a Justice of the Peace, and about this time he was a Lieutenant, and then a Captain of a Militia Company, and also authorized by the General Court to issue warrants, and to unite persons in holy matrimony. In 1690-'91 he was devisee of his brother Benjamin, and his brother Joshua was executor. In 1695 he was chosen one of the vestrymen of the church, and in 1699 he was licensed to keep a public house of entertainment. In additon to all these dignities, he also filled the office of miller, and in this useful calling he was succeeded by several of his descendants. He had five sons and several daughters, only one of whom is mentioned. (Vide "Moore's Indexes of Southold," and "Baird's History of Rye," New York.)

Children, all born at Southold, except Jeremiah, who was probably born at Rye:

1. Joseph, born about 1654; married, perhaps, Mary Hallock.
2. John, born about 1656; married, perhaps, Sarah Vail.
3. Samuel, born about 1658.
4. David, born about 1661.
5. Abigail, born about 1663; married Roger Park.
6. Jeremiah, born about 1666.

Third Generation—Joseph

I. JOSEPH, son of Joseph Horton and Jane Budd (Barnabas I.), born in Southold, about 1654. Moved with his father's family to Rye, Westchester County, N. Y., in 1664; married, perhaps, MARY HALLOCK, about 1678. Children, all born in Rye:

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| 1. Joseph, born in 1679. | 3. Benjamin. |
| 2. John, born in 1681. | 4. Janet, baptized in New York in 1696.
(Moore's Indexes.) |

II. JOHN, son of Joseph Horton and Jane Budd (Barnabas I.), born in Southold, about 1656. Married about 1680, perhaps, SARAH VAIL. Moved with his father to Rye, N. Y. Was captain of a militia company in Rye, in 1700. Children, all born in Rye:

1. John; married, perhaps, Mary Vail. 2. Joseph. 3. Jonathan.
4. Benjamin; married and had Joseph, Benjamin and others. 5. Hannah.

IV. DAVID, son of Joseph Horton and Jane Budd, born in Rye, 1664; married about 1688, perhaps, ESTHER KING. Settled at White Plains, N. Y. Children probably all born at White Plains:

1. Joseph, born 1689; married Anna Howell.
2. Thomas, born 1690; married, perhaps, Mary Wright, and had Thomas and others.
3. Daniel, born 23 April, 1692; married Esther Lane.
4. Samuel. 5. John. 6. Jeremiah. 7. Abigail. 8. Ambrose.

Fourth Generation—Joseph

I. JOSEPH, son of Joseph Horton and Mary Hallock (Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Rye, in 1689; married about 1723, perhaps, ANNA HOWELL. He was living in Rye, in 1722 and '23, and he probably died there. He had Joseph, born about 1725, and probably others of whom no record has been given.

II. JOHN, son of Joseph Horton and Mary Hallock, born at Rye, in 1681. He married and had family—John, born in Rye about 1707, is the only one found.

I. JOSEPH, son of David Horton and Esther King (Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Rye about 1689; married ANNA KNAPP. Moved to White Plains about 1725. Died in 1763.

Children, probably, all born in Rye:

- | | |
|-----------------------|--------------|
| 1. Joseph, born 1713. | 4. Patience. |
| 2. Azariah. | 5. Hannah. |

VIII. HON. WILLIAM, son of Daniel Horton and Esther Lane, born at Yorktown, 10 January, 1743. In 1768, he married LIZZIE (ELIZABETH) COVERT, an accomplished and amiable lady of French descent, who was born 9 January, 1743. He removed from the town of Sommers, formerly Stephentown, to Colchester, Delaware Co., N. Y., in 1789. He was a tanner and currier by trade, and he tanned the first leather that was ever manufactured in Delaware Co. He purchased large tracts of lands, built saw-mills and grist-mills, and carried on a large business in the manufacture and sale of lumber and provisions, as well as of leather. He was a healthy, muscular man. His father died when he was sixteen, and he then for a while lived with his brother Stephen. He was a man of sound judgment, and capable of enduring much hardship. Colchester was an unbroken wilderness when he settled there, but by his influence and great business capacity, it was soon settled by an enterprising and industrious people, and the wildness was soon turned into well cultivated and productive fields. He was a very prominent citizen among them. He was a Justice of the Peace for many years, and in 1794, he was sent to the Legislature, and about this time he was President Judge of Ulster Co., Ulster and Delaware being then one county.

He and his wife were both worthy and active members of the Baptist Church, and they trained up their children to fear the Lord and keep his commandments. He died suddenly in 1831, at the age of eighty-eight years, respected and lamented, not only by his numerous friends and relatives, but by the whole community. His wife survived him but two weeks. Children, all born in Sommers :

1. John, born in 1769 ; married Sallie Hagan.
2. Henry, born 7 November, 1771 ; married Abigail Cook.
3. James, born 23 January, 1773 ; married Martha White.
4. Sarah, born in 1775 ; married Jacob Radaker.
5. Micajah, born in 1777 ; married Hannah Williams.
6. Isaac, born 13 April, 1780 ; married Prudence Knapp.
7. Hattie, born in 1783 ; married John Radaker. Had Sophia, who married John Miller.

I. THOMAS, son of David Horton and Mary Wright (David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at White Plains about 1724 ; married MARY KNAPP, born at White Plains, 1760. They moved to Fishkill, 1760.

Children :

1. Thomas, born 1763 ; married Hepzibah Taylor.
2. Sarah, born 1765 ; married ——— Knapp.
3. Stephen, born 1767 ; married Catharine Evans.
4. Daniel, b. 1760. Killed by a falling tree. Unmarried.
5. John, born 1771. Not married.
6. Abigail, 1774 ; married ——— Tompkins.
7. Jane, 1776 ; m. Stephen Horton.

Thomas Horton, when the British were marching on White Plains, mounted his horse and rode about the country to rally the people to turn out and fight the invaders. He was in the skirmish under Gen. Putnam in 1788 and also at the recapture of Stony Point under Gen. Wayne in 1779. It is said that he was a very strong, athletic man and with undaunted courage.

I. RICHARD, son of John Horton and Elizabeth Lee (David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at White Plains; married, perhaps, JEMIMA WRIGHT, and moved to Peekskill.

Children, probably, all born at Peekskill:

1. Elijah, born 7 August, 1739; married Jemima Currie.
2. George. 3. William. 4. Richard.

II. JOHN, son of John Horton and Elizabeth Lee, born at White Plains, about 1718; married, about 1742, perhaps, MARY FROST, and moved to Philipstown, now Putnam Valley, Putnam Co., N. Y., about 1760.

Children, probably, all born at White Plains:

1. John, born 17 November, 1746; married, perhaps, Sarah Lane.
2. Richard. 3. Jesse. 4. David. 5. Joseph. 6. Sarah. 7. Phebe.

V. WILLIAM, son of John Horton and Elizabeth Lee (David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Fishkill about 1737; married about 1757, SARAH WRIGHT.

Children, probably, all born at Fishkill, N. Y.:

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. David, born 1758. | 5. Hannah, born 1763. |
| 2. Sarah, born 1759. | 6. Caleb, born 1764. |
| 3. James, born 1760. | 7. Elizabeth, born 1765. |
| 4. John, born 1762. | 8. William, born 1767. |

III. DAVID, son of John Horton and Elizabeth Lee (David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born about 1724, at Rye, N. Y.; married Ann ———.

Children:

- | | |
|--------------------|------------------------|
| 1. Samuel. | 7. Moses. |
| 2. Grace Arrendol. | 8. Melia. |
| 3. David. | 9. Mattethias. |
| 4. Sallie. | 10. Nancy. |
| 5. Nathan. | 11. Constant Williams. |
| 6. William. | 12. Charles. |

David Horton emigrated to Wake Co., N. C., before the Revolutionary War. He was a man of large means and owned extensive lands, as shown by deeds and will and a large land grant, in the public records. He was a member of the first Southern battalion of militia and marched against hostile Indians under Colonel Ambrose Ramsay.

Sixth Generation—Joseph

I. ELIJAH, son of Richard Horton and Jemima Wright (John, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born in Peekskill, N. Y., 7 August, 1739; married, about 1762, JEMIMA CURRIE, born 6 July, 1744, in Peekskill. He and his wife were members of the Baptist Church. He died 14 August, 1821. She died 11 March, 1825. They were both buried in Horn Brook Cemetery.

Elijah Horton was a soldier of the Revolutionary War, enlisting for three years in Captain Fox's Company of Henley's Regiment, Continental troops. Was invalided after one year and seven months' service.

Children:

1. Elizabeth, born 1764 at Peekskill, N. Y.
2. Elijah M., born 1768 at Peekskill, N. Y.
3. Richard, born 1769 at Peekskill, N. Y.
4. Jemima, born 1770.
5. Fanny.
6. Isaac, born 1772.
7. Joshua, born 1774.
8. Gilbert, born 1784 at Stroudsburg, Pa.
9. Stephen, born 1786 at Stroudsburg, Pa.
10. William, born 1789.
11. Esther.
12. Phoebe.

II. GEORGE, son of Richard Horton and Jemima Wright, born in Peekskill, N. Y., about 1741; married ELSIE SHOEMAKER.

Children, probably, all born in Peekskill—all are now (1875) dead:

1. Anna; married ——— Dunham.
2. Elizabeth; married ——— Taylor.
3. Daniel. Unmarried.
4. Esther; married Moses Cortwright.

7. George Cummins; married Hannah Cortwright.
8. Benjamin; married Jane Savage.

III. WILLIAM, son of Richard Horton and Jemima Wright, born in Peekskill. No record of marriage or family has been given.

Tradition says that he was a man of uncommon physical powers. In wrestling and prize-fighting he was never known to be beaten. At one time, it is said, a prize-fighter known as the "Boston Bully," came all the way from Boston to Peekskill to whip Bully Horton. It was in cold weather, and Horton at first declined to fight. But he was called a coward, and this he would not stand, and then the seconds were chosen, and the fight began. Horton came off victorious, the Boston man being so severely handled that it was several weeks before he was able to return home. He was kindly cared for by Horton until he was able to return.

II. JOHN HORTON, of Philipstown, now Putnam Valley, N. Y. son of John Horton and Mary Frost (John, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.) born at White Plains, N. Y., 17 November, 1746. Went to Philipstown with his father about 1760; married 2 April, 1768, to SARAH LANE, in Philipstown. She died 16 September, 1773, probably without issue. April 4, 1775, he married SARAH LEE, born 30 November, 1751. They settled permanently at Philipstown, and lived to a good old age, he dying in 1830, and she soon after him.

Children, all born at Philipstown:

8. Jacob R., born 22 October, 1809; married Mary Inman.
9. Susan Olive, born 29 December, 1811; married Noah Dunham.
10. Henry, born 12 April, 1814; married Sarah P. Dunham.

Henry Horton and family moved to Point Salubrious in the Autumn of 1809 and settled there. He died 4 February, 1855. Date of his wife's death is unknown. Both buried at Point Salubrious.

III. JAMES, son of Hon. William Horton and Lizzie Covert, born at Sommers, New York, 23 January, 1773; was married 15 May, 1800, to MARTHA WHITE, born at Rhinebeck, N. Y., 17 March, 1775. She died 16 July, 1862, aged 87.

He was about sixteen years of age when his father moved to Colchester, Delaware County, New York, where he endured the hardships and privations incident to a frontier settlement. In 1806 he moved from Colchester to Chaumont, Jefferson Co., New York, then a dense forest. He settled permanently on Point Salubrious, being the first family of white people who ever settled there. Here he was again exposed to hardships, causing continued ill health, until his death, which occurred on 5th November, 1833. He and his wife were members of the Baptist Church. He was a warm supporter of religion and a lover of good order in society, which he always labored zealously and successfully to promote. He was temperate in his habits and exemplary in his character. He never disgraced the name he bore, and his virtues are worthy of imitation by all his posterity. He and his elder brother, Henry, settled near each other on Point Salubrious, which is a neck of land running out about four miles into Chamount Bay. Here they took up farms, had fine fishing grounds, and raised large families.—Letters of Van Rantz Horton.

"Isaac Horton moved from Colchester to Liberty, Sullivan Co., N. Y., 4 and 5 of April, 1826. The snow fell in April, after they moved, about two feet deep. He had a large stock of cows, sheep and hogs. In his flock of sheep were twenty-two ewes, the finest that could be found in Colchester, nearly all of them only two years old. He drove them to Liberty. Wolves were seen on the way near Parkesville. He arrived at Liberty Falls—salted his sheep in the evening. The next morning the sheep were gone, and Isaac and his son, Roy, went up the hill at Liberty Falls to look for them. Before they got beyond the clearing they found dead sheep scattered along the log fence, and others dying. Nearly all the flock were killed. They even killed a lamb in the pen adjoining the house.

"In 1837, Isaac Horton had thirty-seven grandchildren, all living but two. His children all lived to maturity."—(Letter G. B. Horton, 1871.)

Isaac Horton was a member of the Baptist Church, of Colchester; but after he moved to Liberty, Sullivan Co., N. Y., he usually attended the Episcopal Church. He built a grist-mill at Liberty Falls, in 1827 or 1828, another in 1841-42. He was quite extensively engaged in the manufacture of bed-posts and other turned work, including wooden bowls; also in shipping curled and birds-eye maple. Politically he was a whig, and an ardent supporter of Clay and Webster. He died 10 May, 1855. She is still living.

Under date of 8 February, 1874, Webb Horton writes, "My mother is living and in good health. She resides at Liberty, Sullivan Co., N. Y. She is in the eighty-seventh years of her age. Her father died aged eighty-eight, and her grandmother, Prudence Schofield, aged ninety-four. She has now living ten children, thirty-seven grand-children, and nineteen great-grandchildren."

This is a very remarkable family—so large and yet so few deaths. It is a rare occurrence to find a family of children, ten in number, the youngest forty-six years old, all living. And then so many grandchildren and great-grandchildren living. I have no record of any family equal to it, and doubtless, the number is now (1875), somewhat augmented.

IV. ESTHER, daughter of Rachel Horton and Daniel Wright (Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Yorktown, N. Y., in September, 1761; married ENOCH KNAPP, about 1786. Children all born at Yorktown.

IV. HON. FROST, son of Wright Horton and Ann Quereau, born in Yorktown, N. Y., 15 September, 1806; married at Yorktown, 17 October, 1827, by Thomas Tompkins, Esq., to PHEBE TOMPKINS, daughter of William Tompkins and Lydia Lane, and born at Yorktown, 25 November, 1803. William Tompkins was a cousin of Ex-Governor Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York.

Children, all born at Peekskill:

1. William James, born 10 December, 1828; married Leah B. Carpenter.
2. Sarah Jane, born 10 June, 1832; died 10 March, 1835.
3. Cornelia, born 17 February, 1837; died 18 February, 1852.
4. Stephen D., born 17 February, 1837; married Emily Horton.

Hon. Frost Horton is a retired manufacturer, and resides at Peekskill. He has always been a prominent man in the community, enjoying in a high degree the confidence and respect of his fellow citizens. He possesses fine social qualities, and, since retiring from business, he occasionally amuses himself in hunting and fishing. His integrity, industry and great business capacities, during the active part of his life, rendered him a most valuable acquisition to the community in which he carried on his business, and the articles he manufactured were of sterling value to the farming interests of the country.

Mr. Horton, on sending me his photograph for an engraving, accompanied it with the following very modest and unassuming sketch of his life:

‘I was born in Yorktown, Westchester County, New York, 15 September, 1806. My parents were farmers, in moderate circumstances. I remained with them until I was seventeen, working on the farm in the summer, and going to school in the winter, thus acquiring merely a common-school education. When I was seventeen years old, at the suggestion of my parents, I decided to learn the blacksmith trade, and commenced the business at once, and served an apprenticeship for several years. On the 17th of October, 1827, I married Phebe Tompkins, and on the 9th of March, 1829, we moved to Peekskill village, where we have resided ever since. I bought some property, and set up the blacksmithing business. I succeeded well in the business. In the spring of 1835 I entered into a co-partnership business with Mr. Truman Minor, under the firm name of ‘Minor & Horton,’ and went into the foundry business, manufacturing agricultural implements, principally ploughs and plough-castings. Our business increased rapidly, and paid us well. We continued partners for twenty years. In 1855 Mr. Minor retired from business, and I took in Mr. Geo. W. Depeu as a partner, and about two years afterwards, we admitted each of us a son, and the firm then became, ‘Horton, Depeu & Sons.’ Our manufactured articles were sold in nearly every State in the Union, and also in many foreign countries.

“In 1862 we all sold out to a stock company, formed for that purpose. Having been in active business for thirty years, I now retired. In the spring of 1855 I was elected Supervisor of the town of Cortlandt, and I represented that town in the Board of Supervisors for five years in succession.

“In the winter of 1858, I was a member of the Legislature from this Assembly District. For many years I held the various offices of our village, but of late have declined official stations, preferring the enjoyments of private life.”

Mr. Horton is not a public professor of Christianity, but is a gentleman of correct moral deportment, and very temperate in his habits. Mrs. Horton is an amiable lady, and a valued member of the Presbyterian Church. They celebrated their golden wedding 1877.

V. STEPHEN D., son of Wright Horton and Ann Quereau, born at Yorktown, 3 October, 1808; moved to Peekskill in 1832; married in Peekskill, 13 January, 1841, by Rev. Mr. Westbrook, to DELIA CLAPP, daughter of Philip Clapp and ——— Ferris. They had one child, Emma, born at Peekskill in 1842, died in 1856. He was a lawyer, very industrious and ambitious, and died 5 March, 1842, probably from applying himself too closely to his profession and overtasking his mental powers.

VI. WILLIAM CLEMENTS, son of Wright Horton and Ann Que-reau, born at Yorktown, 9 January, 1811; married 29 August, 1832, at Yorktown, by Thomas Tompkins, Esq., to PHEBE Mc-KEEL, daughter of Moses McKeel. She died at Yorktown, in 1845, leaving one child, which died young. He died 26 January, 1846. All buried in Yorktown Cemetery.

II. WRIGHT, son of Maj. Micajah Horton and Hannah Williams (Hon. William, Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Colchester, N. Y., 24 April, 1803; married—resides in Howard County, Kansas.

III. ISAAC WILLIAMS, son of Maj. Micajah Horton and Hannah Williams, born in Colchester, N. Y., 10 October, 1805; married 10 October, 1832, in Colchester, to ADAH WASHBURN.

Children, all born in Colchester:

1. Mary Antoinette, born 7 January, 1834; married John R. Miller.
2. Elbridge Micajah, born 20 March, 1836; married Jane Pixley.
3. Ansell Phinney, born 27 December, 1837; married Mary T. Root.
4. Helen Delia, born 30 September, 1842; unmarried.
5. James Perry, born 28 February, 1845; married Lydia Dawson.
6. Henrietta Huntly, born 9 April, 1847; unmarried.

Isaac W. Horton moved from Colchester 2 June, 1847, to Vevay, Ingham County, Michigan; settled and remained there until September, 1853, when he removed to Mason, in the same county, and kept the "Mason Hotel" until about 1861; he still resides in Mason.

VIII. DEBORA ANN, daughter of Major Micajah Horton and Lizzie Covert (Hon. William, Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born 1813, Colchester, N. Y.; married, 1842, to GEORGE W. SILAF-ER, born 1816, died 1881.

Children:

1. Rufus G., born 1845, Mason, Mich.
2. Jane Derissa, born 1847, Mason, Mich.
3. James Henry, born 1849, Mason, Mich.
4. Charles M., born 1852, Mason, Mich.
5. Hannah H., born 1853, Mason, Mich.

X. GEORGE WASHINGTON PAGE, son of John Horton and Sarah Hagar (Hon. William, Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born in Colchester, New York, 6 February, 1816; married in Dryden, Tompkins County, New York, 16 September, 1852, by the Rev. S. Minier, to JULIA E. CARPENTER, daughter of John Y. Carpenter and Sarah Jane Delany, and born in 1818.

Children, both born in Colchester:

1. Edward Delany, born 15 August, 1854.
2. Eva Jane, born 6 September, 1857.

I. JOHN WHITE, son of James Horton and Martha White (Hon. William, Daniel, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born at Colchester, New York, 12 October, 1802; married at Brownville, Jefferson County, New York, 17 September, 1826, by the Rev. Lyman Ackerman, to CANDIS LOUISA FOX, daughter of Gabriel Ely Fox and Betsey, and born in Chestertown, Warren County, New York, 12 October, 1805. She died at Adams Centre, Jefferson County, New York, 13 December, 1872. He is a Deacon in the Baptist Church, embraced religion in early life, has always been a prominent man, and commanded the respect and esteem of all who knew him. He went to Jefferson County, New York, in his infancy, and in 1826 he purchased land at Adams Centre, and became a well-to-do farmer, exerting a salutary influence in the community, being active in the moral and religious enterprises of the day; he resided there until after the death of his wife, when he went to Troy, New York, where he now (1874) resides.

Children, all born at Adams Centre:

1. Louisa Maria, born 9 August, 1827; married Moses Pierson.
2. Lucinda Elizabeth, born 17 October, 1829; married James Taylor Main.
3. Lavanda Candis, born 15 November, 1832; married William D. Armo.
4. Licetta Augusta, born November, 1842; m. Willard Reese Hammond.

The following auto-biographical sketch of Dea. John W. Horton, contained in one of his letters, is interesting and well worth preserving:

"I was born in the town of Colchester, Delaware County, New York, on the 12th of October, 1802. When a little over three years old, my father moved to Lyme, Jefferson County, New York, which was then known as the Black River Country, and settled on the shore of Chaumont Bay, at the east end of Lake Ontario. It was here I spent my childhood and my boyhood days, learning, as I grew up, how to endure the privations of a pioneer life in a northern wilderness. At the age of nine years I began to know what manual labor meant, working on the farm in the summer, and going to school in the winter. In those days our school-houses were frequently some old log house, which some settler had built and then vacated, and perhaps left the country, or moved into better quarters. Such school-houses were splendid for hot weather, being so well ventilated; but in the winter they required piles of wood and great physical endurance to keep warm. My facilities for acquiring an education were exceedingly limited. Being the eldest of eight children, perhaps I had to take a little more of the rough end of life than some of the others.

“At the commencement of my seventeenth year, my father commenced preparing for building a new house, and I then gave up going to school, and worked through the winter at quarrying stone and getting lumber for the new house. The house was commenced in the spring and completed before fall, myself and younger brother carrying the stone and mixing the mortar.

“I remained with my father until I was twenty-four years old. I then went for myself. I purchased land, and settled permanently at Adams Centre, after my marriage. In December, 1829, myself and wife connected ourselves with the Baptist Church, at the State Road, Jefferson County, New York.

“We were blessed with four daughters—all grew up to womanhood, married, made a public profession of religion, and became members of the Baptist Church. We occupied our old home until the 13th of December, 1872, when death removed my dear wife from this world of care, pain and suffering to the mansions of everlasting rest, as I humbly trust.

“The next April I sold my farm, and I am now spending the few remaining days of my life with my three surviving daughters, by whose affectionate care and tenderness I am made quite contented and happy.”

II. GEORGE, son of James Horton and Martha White, born at Colchester, N. Y., 31 March, 1804; married, 29 January, 1829, to SABRA MILLS, born at Deering, N. H., 29 May, 1804. They reside at Point Salubrious, Jefferson Co., N. Y., and they are worthy members of the Baptist Church. Sabra Mills Horton died 1875.

3. William Wallace, born 22 August, 1838; married Frances M. Easterbrooks.
4. Walter Van Rantz, born 9 January, 1841; died in the service of his country, November, 1864.

"He was a good soldier; his kind and obliging disposition, and his soldierly bearing won for him the respect and good-will of all who knew him. His love for his country overrode all personal considerations, and he was often heard to say, that the life of a civilian had no attractions for him while armed traitors refused to acknowledge the laws and its institutions typified by the Stars and Stripes. He loved his friends and home, but he loved his country more, and he was willing to bid adieu to father and mother, brothers and sisters, and go into the foremost rank of those who were battling for the right, and he battled nobly, and fell at last a martyr for his country's freedom. He died in Millon Prison, Ga., aged 23 years and 10 months."—Extract of Letter of Andrew Horton.

The Rev. F. A. Horton, in his letter of April, 1871, says: "Our relatives are mainly in Southold, along the Hudson, in central and western New York, and in Michigan. I recollect father always said that one of the original brothers went into New Jersey, and that he had lost all trace of him. May be you are a scion from that root. At any rate, the Hortons are a great people. The last Governor of Michigan married a full-blooded Horton of our line. If you find any of the name claiming to have royal blood in his veins, perform phlebotomy upon him at once, and take every drop out of him or disown him. Trace us back to the noble old Roman CINCINNATUS, if you can."

SNYDER HORTON
Colorado

Snyder Horton was a man of exceptionally high character, diligent in business, fervent in spirit, magnanimous in conduct; was steward in the Methodist Episcopal Church, farmer, land owner, merchant. Beloved and respected by everybody. He was a veteran of the Civil War.

He volunteered in 1861, was rejected on account of a broken ankle. He was finally accepted in 1862 and served more than a year, leaving wife and two small children to carry on the farm near what is now Onslow, Iowa.

His wife was a lady finely bred, kind, generous, loving to neighbors and friends and thoroughly devoted to her family. Her last years were a time of much suffering from an epidemic attack of spinal meningitis.

They removed to the dry, clear air of western Kansas for her health. She grew some better and was able to sustain a social position in church and benevolent activities. Hers was always a potent force in all good works. She died 1888.

IV. FRANKLIN, son of Lydia Horton and Rev. David Blackman (Elijah M., Elijah, Richard, John, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born in Sheshequin, Pa., 11 April, 1832; married in Sheshequin, 26 May 1869, by Rev. W. H. Gavitt to ETHLEEN GILLETT, daughter of Ensley W. Gillett and Sarah E. Townsend, and born in Sheshequin, 27 Sept., 1844.

Children, all born in Ogle Co., Ill.:

1. Sarah Maud, born 6 June, 1870.
2. Otto E., born 7 January, 1872.
3. Blanch, born 14 February, 1874.

Franklin Blackman is a very intellectual man, possesses superior social qualities, a high sense of honor, and extraordinary business capacities. He resides at Rochelle, Ill. He is self-educated, possesses a large store of general information and practical knowledge, a mind disciplined to study, and a generous spirit. He has made two European tours, the first in 1866-67, and the second in 1868-69. During his travels and after his return home he published, in the "Ogle County Reporter," fifty letters, under the title of "Rambles in the Orient," ably written, and full of interesting information. Under date of 17 June, 1875, he says, "In relation to my two voyages across the Atlantic and my travels in Europe, I must say, in all candor, that I revert to them as the most palmy days of my earthly pilgrimage. Should opportunity occur, I would again cheerfully place myself upon the perilous waves, that I might once more enjoy the rich feast spread out before me in the classic lands of the Orient."

I. HARRY LAWRENCE, son of William B. Horton and Melinda Blackman (Elijah M., Elijah, Richard, John, David, Joseph, Barnabas I.), born in Sheshequin, Pa., 17 July, 1832; married at Milwaukee, Wis., 26 Oct., 1858, by Rev. I. P. G. Ingraham, of the Episcopal Church, to HELEN ELIZABETH BREED, daughter of A. O. T. Breed, Esq., and Margaret Shields, both of Milwaukee, Wis., and born in Milwaukee, 20 Jan., 1842. She died, 25 Oct., 1864, and was buried in Forest Home Cemetery, Milwaukee.

Children, both born in Milwaukee:

1. Eugene Henry J., born 20 July, 1859.
2. Oliver Grant, born 10 June, 1864.

Mrs. Horton was a lady of education and refinement. She possessed an excellent moral and religious character; was a worthy member of the St. James Episcopal Church, of Milwaukee, in which she took a lively interest, and was distinguished for her generosity—especially for her many deeds of benevolence to the suffering and the poor. She was a kind and dutiful wife, a most tender and affectionate mother, and her early departure was deeply lamented, not only by her bosom companion and near relatives, but also by the community in general.

Harry L. Horton's father was a well-to-do farmer, and Harry remained with his parents and worked on the farm until he was seventeen years old. He received but a moderate common-school education, and during his schoolboy-days, he was noted for his activity and sagacity, and early exhibited more than ordinary business capacity. At the age of seventeen he engaged as a clerk in the store of D. Brink & Son, at Horn Brook, Pa., and remained with them until they sold out to H. W. Langford & Co., and with them he continued his clerkship until they closed business. Shortly after this, he was engaged for one year by O. D. Bartlett, Esq., of Towanda, Pa., as clerk in his store, and at the expiration of that time, he entered the store of Joseph Powell & Co., of Towanda, with whom he served as clerk until 1854. He always gave good satisfaction to his employers. Having by his industry and economy laid up a small sum of money, he decided to go West, and leaving Bradford County in 1854, he traveled extensively in Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, until he neared the bottom of his purse, without locating or engaging in business anywhere. But at length, in 1856, he went to Milwaukee, and engaged in the produce commission business, in which he was very successful. Here he seemed to be permanently settled. But after the death of his wife, his business, which had been very remunerative, seemed to lose much of its interest, and in March, 1865, having closed up his business in Milwaukee, with about $15,000 in pocket, he went to New York City, and immediately engaged in the banking and broker business, in which he has continued until the present time, conducting a large business, which, under the supervision of his keen eye and his assiduous personal attention, he has made very lucrative. He now owns a fine property on Staten Island, and, though he lost largely by the panic of 1873, he is still doing a fair business, and, to use his own language, he "has always managed to pay a hundred cents on the dollar and never failed."

He possesses excellent social qualities, is kind-hearted, generous, and at his banking house, or at his island home, those who visit him will meet with such a frank and cordial reception as to make them feel that they are not only at home, but at the home of one whose words and deeds define the character of a true gentleman.

Mr. Horton was married 2. in Trinity Chapel, N. Y., 12 October, 1875, by the Rev. Dr. Weston, to Sara Patten, a lady of culture and refinement of the city of New York, and an esteemed member of the Episcopal Church.

In a letter written 1878 to Dr. Geo. F. Horton, Harry L. Horton speaks of his son, Eugene, says he went to sea in the ship "B. F. Metcalf," bound for India, as a passenger.

The ship was first class in every particular. They touched at Java, and thence sailed for Holland and from that date, 1877, nothing has ever been heard of the vessel or anyone on board and you may add to our family record our bright and smiling little Blanche, born Dec. 6, 1878.

Harry Lawrence Horton and his wife lie buried in an imposing vault at the New Dorp Moravian Cemetery, Staten Island.

The banking house established by him, 1865, has been one of the prominent business places of New York City, entering into the numerous transactions of Wall Street, and is yet in operation having many branches.

II. HORACE, son of Wm. B. Horton and Melinda Blackman, born in Sheshequin, Pa., 25 Sept., 1834; married at the Valley House, in Sheshequin, 15 Oct., 1856, by C. H. Ames, Esq., to MARY SMITH, daughter of Henry C. Smith and Sarah Webb, and born in Genoa, Cayuga Co., N. Y., 22 Feb., 1835. No children.

Horace is a well-to-do farmer, owns a large farm about two miles from the river, has a very pretty dwelling-house with slate roof, a good barn and out-buildings. He is a prominent man in the township, rents his farm and lives at ease. He inherited a part of the old homestead farm.

III. ELIZABETH, daughter of William B. Horton and Melinda Blackman, born in Sheshequin, 25 Aug., 1836; married in Sheshequin, 23 Jan., 1855, by Rev. J. M. Peebles, to PERLEY HUTCHINS KINNEY, son of Perley Kinney, Esq., and Sarah Hutchins, and born in Sheshequin, 20 April, 1826. They have two children, viz.:

9. Ora, born 1870; married Chas. Mills.
10. Roy, born 1874; died 1880.

Ogden and Emily (Green) Horton were one of the pioneer families of Jones Co., Iowa, settling on government lands which they purchased at a dollar and a quarter an acre. They devoted themselves to the business of building a home, establishing schools, town, churches, sustaining a commonwealth, rearing and educating a family. That part of Iowa was settled mostly with eastern families with much of the same nurture and ideals. The Civil War coming on, the community gave men until there were few to carry on the farms. The lot fell to Ogden Horton to give up his desire to go, and as being thought the most capable in administrative affairs, he was to care for families left without such help, which he ably did, serving in many capacities as leader in the home guards, school director, road overseer, etc. It is remembered that in severe weather that he gathered the mothers and small children into his own house, thus making sure that they were warm and fed. He was a stalwart Republican, Presbyterian in church affiliation. He was vigorous, active, interested in affairs up to within a very short time of his death.

Sidney Horton and wife live in Oxford, Nebraska. Their children mostly settled around them. They are busy, active and interested in their affairs and that of the community. They are of the Christian Church, Republican in politics. The barren prairie where they first settled is populous with towns, cities, villages, schools and institutions of learning.

Sidney C. Horton and his young wife were of that vanguard of the covered wagon.

They were pioneers who gave life and all they had to carry civilization to the unbroken prairies of northwestern Nebraska. Government lands were taken, farms and homes were established. Schools, churches, towns, settlements were built. Children and children's children were born and reared. They and theirs have borne their part.

They, at 73 and 76 years, reside on the farm of twelve hundred acres, once the wilds of that far flung border.

They relate many hair raising accounts of dangers from Indians and the tremendous herds of buffalo that swept the plains, the grasshopper plague that darkened the sun, floods, tornadoes and hot winds that shriveled crops, and blizzards in winter.

JOSEPH

GRIEF HORTON RECORDS COLLECTED BY OZÉ E. HORTON OF ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

The Genealogy of Grief Horton, born in Wake County, North Carolina, on December 25th, 1783, and reared twelve miles below Raleigh on the Neuse River. He died December 18th, 1875, at Williamston, South Carolina. He removed from his Neuse River home in North Carolina about the year 1800 to Camden, Kershaw County, South Carolina (there several Hortons lived, who doubtless were his relatives), and lived one year. At the end of that year he continued his journey northwest and settled in what was then Pendleton District, now Anderson County, South Carolina. He lived the first year after he reached Pendleton District with the late James Burriss. Later on he purchased the plantation known as Rock Mills on Generstee Creek, five or six miles southwest of the city of Anderson, South Carolina, on which there was located a merchant and saw mill. He operated his mills and plantation successfully. In the meantime, he met Miss Jemima Margaret Broyles (b. Dec. 12th, 1789; d. June 2nd, 1855), daughter of Major Aaron Broyles, a wealthy planter and slave owner of the district, and Frances (Reed) Broyles. He wooed and won her and they were married on February 19th, 1807 at Shady Grove, Anderson District, South Carolina.

Grief Horton was always a firm believer in the Christian religion and in early life joined the Baptist Church. He was for years a member of Big Creek Baptist Church located near Williamston, South Carolina, where he was Deacon and Clerk.

After marrying, Grief Horton sold his Rock Mills place and located three miles east of Belton, South Carolina. He owned a fine plantation there which he cultivated with his faithful negro slaves, who were spoken of by some as "Horton's free negroes", so kind and lenient was he to them.

*Much of the Grief Horton data was collected by Mrs. E. L. Connally (Mary Virginia Brown), of Atlanta, Georgia, for a book she was preparing for publication, to be known as the Joseph Emerson and Elizabeth (Grisham) Brown Kin Book and their Kindred. Mrs. Connally died before the work was completed, but her children will publish the book. As Mr. Oze Enoch Horton has helped Mrs. Connally in collecting this data, her children have consented to his having it published in "The Hortons in America".

Grief Horton enjoyed excellent health, never having been sick in his long life of ninety-two years. At the time of his death he had never lost a tooth. He was of average size and height, with gray eyes and a blondish complexion.

There was a famous school near his home known as Calhoun Academy, named for the illustrious John C. Calhoun. It was in this school that the late Joseph Emerson Brown (Governor of Georgia from 1857 to 1865, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia, and United States Senator for twelve years, next preceding his death), received his education, before going to Yale University. While attending Calhoun Academy he was frequently in the home of Grief Horton and so impressed was he with the steadfastness and honor of this man that he said, in after years, that Grief Horton was the "honestest man" he had ever known. Governor Brown was related to Grief Horton's wife through the Broyles branch of the family.

Soon after graduating from the Greenville Woman's College she began her career as a teacher and taught in the Greenville City Schools for twenty-two years, the last twelve as an instructor in the Greenville High School. Dr. J. L. Mann, City School Superintendent, said of her: "Her death comes as a distinct loss to us, and I feel keenly the difficulty of finding someone to take her place. Miss Dean was a great teacher, patient, persevering, loyal, and dependable at all times. But greater than being a great teacher, she was a great woman, a big hearted and soulful woman. Her life was wrapped up in the boys and girls of the high school. 'Twas of them she wished always to talk. How her face brightened at some unexpected attainment of some pupil of hers. She lived with them, for them, and her ambition for them was unlimited. We shall miss her sorely." She was deeply spiritual, a member of Christ's Episcopal Church and a teacher in the Sunday School of that Church, and here they laid "Miss Mattie", as she was affectionately called, to rest in the family plot of the Church cemetery. An editorial in the paper said: "She was as near the attainment of unselfishness as a human could approach. Such a life is a benediction and an inspiration. It is an oasis in a materialistic, money grabbing, selfish age. It is an incarnation of the much shouted but little observed word 'service'. It is such a life any human would be proud to live, and the good that came of it will not be 'interred with her bones'."

Had gray eyes and dark hair. He was a surveyor and one of his most outstanding achievements was the planning and laying out of the town of Belton, South Carolina, for his uncle, the late Dr. George Reese Brown, about the year 1853. He was Magistrate (Justice of the Peace) in Anderson District, South Carolina, from 1850 to 1865, and inscribed this motto on the first page of his docket:

“Immortal may the Justice be,
Who never strove himself to be
The gainer by each action brought,
And never has such business sought.”

He made and wrote this verse himself, and lived up to it. He served on the Board of Commissioners of the Poor of Anderson District, South Carolina, for several years during the fifties, with the late Elias Earle and Squire Lee, of Sloan's Ferry. He was Clerk and Deacon in Neal's Creek Baptist Church, Anderson County, S. C., for years. He attended the famous Calhoun Academy as a fellow student with the late Gov. Joseph Emerson Brown, along with many other young men who became more or less distinguished. Joseph Brown was such a brilliant student that his teacher, Wesley Leverett, put him and John C. Gunn, of Georgia, in a class to themselves. On account of feeble health, John Horton was detailed to operate a tannery by the Confederate States Government, during the war between the States.

John Calhoun Horton m. November 1st, 1848, Harriett Williams Vandiver, b. in Greenville District, S. C., March 20th, 1827; d. at her home, Lucy Hill, on Seneca River, seven miles below Pendleton, S. C., October 10th, 1894. She was the daughter of Manning Vandiver and Harriett (Williams) Vandiver. Manning Vandiver was a son of Edward Vandiver, who served as a Revolutionary Soldier during the greater part of the Revolution, having participated in the Battles of Utaw Springs, Cowpens, King's Mountain and many other smaller engagements. Manning Vandiver's mother was Catherine Poole, who had a brother, Adam Poole, who settled in what is now the southern part of Fulton County, Georgia, many years before the war between the States. Harriett (Williams) Vandiver was the daughter of John and Annie (Wells) Williams. Her father was a well-to-do planter in Greenville District, S. C. She was a cousin to the late Allen Williams, the man for whom the city of Williamston, S. C., was named. Her daughter, Harriett Williams (Vandiver) Horton, was quite small, with dark hair and gray eyes and was descended from the Van der Veer family in the Netherlands, dating back to 1150, who descended from the Van Borssele family. (See the Van der Veer Family in the Netherlands, 1150-1660 and 1280 to 1780, by Lewis P. DeBoer, A. M., LL. B., also Seewache Chroniken (Seeland Chronicles) by Reigersberch, Boxthorn, and Amallegange; also Joh Kok, "Veederlandsch Wooddenboek" XXIX; and David Van Hoogstraten, "Groot Woordenboek".) Harriett Williams (Vandiver) Horton was a first cousin to the late Peter Sutherland Vandiver, of Anderson District, S. C., who was one of the most brilliant and successful lawyers that ever lived in South Carolina, and cousin to the late Col. Joseph Newton Brown of Anderson, S. C., a prominent lawyer and financier.

MILLARD CORTEZ HORTON

One of the many lyric poems written by Oze Enoch Horton, Jr. :

The thing which not long since I called the world,—
That ordered cosmos spreading 'neath the sky, . . .
That earth, God-smitten, tottering, downward hurled,
Has reeled headlong beneath me ; comet like.

In hectic arcs of impotence its flight
Goes spinning down eternity, as when
A torch throws out a ghastly flickering light.
As from a craig it has been lightly tossed.

In middle space I dangle ; nought to see,
No resting place on which to plant a foot.
How frightful—that a thing like this could be
When yesterday all things seemed so secure !

Eternal darkness looms before my eye,
Eternal stillness echoes in my ear.
My heart is sick within me, "Whither fly?"
But my soul answers, "You are not alone."

OZE E. HORTON, JR.

October 30, 1927.

He will graduate from the University of Georgia, D. V., in June, 1929. Is taking military training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and will receive a commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the R. O. T. C. at graduation. He is in the cavalry and has taken a medal also for marksmanship.

VI. MILLARD CORTEZ (9th Gen.) Horton, son of John Calhoun (8th Gen.) and Harriett (Vandiver) Horton, b. January 23rd, 1865, attended the same schools which his brother, Oze Horton, attended, and graduated from the University of Georgia in 1892 with the Degree of B. A., and from the law school of the University of Georgia in 1893 with the Degree of B. L. He is a member of the Chi Psi Fraternity. He is a superb lawyer, having been a member of the law firm of Horton Brothers, Atlanta, Georgia, since 1894. He was born four miles west of Belton, S. C., on Neal's Creek on the old Horton plantation. He has written several books: "Joan of the Everglades", which has been published and has met with favorable comment, "The Big End", "Aunt Pop", "Allbrains" and "Four Toes". "The Big End" is an imaginary story which Mrs. Corra Harris, an outstanding author, says, if properly presented to the publishers, would become a classic which would rank with "The Arabian Nights" and other imaginary stories. He has a very fertile imagination.

Carolina when, in 1917, he volunteered for service in the World War. He trained and received his commission at Ft. Oglethorpe, near Chattanooga, Tenn., as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Regular Army or a 1st Lieutenant in the Reserves. He chose the 2nd Lieutenancy in the Regular Army. He was at once assigned to the machine gun company of the 11th Infantry, whose history dates back to those last days of the 18th Century. Later he was transferred to the Regimental Intelligence Office,—the 11th Infantry was a part of the Fifth Division, Regular Army,—the Red Diamond (Meuse) Division. They saw continuous service from April, 1918, until the Armistice was signed.

Harry Horton was killed in the battle of the St. Mihiel salient; is buried in one of our National Cemeteries in Thiacourt, France. The following is from a letter from Lieutenant-Colonel Herbert Parsons, assistant chief of staff:

“Horace I. Horton:

“Your son, at the time of death, was then acting and, for some time, had been a battalion scout officer, and as I am head of the Intelligence Section of the General Staff of the Fifth Division I had come to know him well. He had rendered most splendid service as an Intelligence Officer and had proved of great assistance to his superiors, who have told me how deeply they lamented his death.”

Ozé Roscoe Horton was prepared for college at Calhoun Academy, Anderson County, S. C. He studied medicine in and was graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at the breaking out of the war between the States in 1861. He helped Capt. Whitner Kilpatrick organize a company of volunteers around Townville, Anderson County, S. C. Mr. Kilpatrick was elected Captain and Oze Roscoe Horton was elected 1st Lieutenant of Kilpatrick's Company, 4th South Carolina Regiment, J. B. E. Sloan, Colonel. At the end of the first year he became Surgeon in the Confederate Army in Virginia. He was severely wounded by a minie ball grazing his head just above one of his ears, either at the Battle of Cedar Run or Cedar Creek, which rendered him unconscious for quite a while. Robert Broyles, who afterwards became a physician, said that Oze Horton was the bravest man he ever saw; that when he was acting as surgeon during some of the fiercest battles he went along with his brother, Charles Elijah Horton, and several of his Broyles cousins to look after and take care of them should they need medical assistance. Broyles said that he, himself, was very much frightened, but that Oze Horton was as cool and collected as if he was out of all danger.

I. LIEUT. ISRAEL, son of Jonathan Horton and Elizabeth Goldsmith (Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born at Cutchogue, about 1728; married, in 1755, to SARAH LEE, daughter of Rev. John Lee, of Lyme, Conn., born about 1730. The Rev. John Lee had two sons who were preachers.

Israel and his family moved from Cutchogue to Goshen Township in 1762. He was a farmer. In the Autumn of 1771, he went to Newburgh with a load of grain. On the way home, he was taken sick, succeeded in getting home, but died in a day or two after. About 1782, his widow married Parshall Terry, formerly of Southold. He was a widower, was living with his family in Wyoming Valley in 1778. He and his family were in the famed Forty Fort the night after the Indian battle and massacre. The next morning they fled to the mountains and after suffering great hardships, crossing the "big swamp," afterwards known as "Swamp Dismal," or the "Shades of Death," they reached Stroudsburg, Pa., in safety. Leaving his family here, he hastened to Orange Co., N. Y., for assistance. During his absence his wife was taken sick with "camp distemper" (malignant dysentery), and died, leaving a large family of children, the youngest but three years old.

He took his family to Little Britain, Orange Co., N. Y., and as above-stated, married the widow Horton. The two families; all told, numbering twenty-two persons. The house in which they lived being an old-fashioned double log-house, they hired a school-master and made one part of it a school-house, thus evincing a laudable determination to have the education of their household properly cared for. The writer obtained these facts in 1828, from Benjamin Horton, son of Israel, who was one of the pupils. But this arrangement was not of long continuance, for in 1786, Sarah, the mother and step-mother died, and was buried by her first husband in Warwick Cemetery.

Israel Horton had children as follows, the first four born in Southold, the rest in Goshen, Orange Co.:

1. Israel, born 23 September, 1756; married Anna Vandevort.
2. Jason, born 18 December, 1758; married Mary Terry.
3. Jeremiah, born 12 November, 1760; married Mary Goldsmith.
4. Eunice, born December, 1761; married George Howell.
5. John, born 30 July, 1763; married Deborah Terry.
6. Joseph Lee, born 27 April, 1765; married Hannah Todd.
7. Sarah, born in 1767; died young.
8. Mary, born 6 December, 1768; married John Clark.
9. Samuel, born in 1770; died of small-pox; unmarried.
10. Benjamin, born 7 February, 1772; married Hannah Vance.

Israel Horton and his wife were pious people, active members of the Southold Church, and after removing to Orange County they became members of the Presbyterian Church of Warwick. Their children were trained up to love and fear the Lord and keep his commandments. He was a soldier in the old French war, and, in 1758, bearing the commission of Lieutenant he had charge of Fort Stanwix, N. Y., and remained there until the close of the war.

II. JONATHAN, son of Jonathan Horton and Elizabeth Goldsmith, born at Cutchogue, L. I., about 1730; married BETHIA HOR-

TON about 1752, and moved to Orange Co., N. Y., He was a zealous Whig, and early espoused the cause of the colonies against the mother country. He was one of the signers for the Pledge for Independence, in 1775.—Vide 'History of Orange County,' page 499.

Children, probably born in Orange County :

1. John, born 1753, went to Wyoming Valley ; m. Mary De La Montayne.
2. Caleb, went to New Jersey ; married a Jayne.
3. Benjamin.

III. ZACCHEUS, son of Jonathan Horton and Elizabeth Goldsmith, born at Cutchogue, 1734 ; married widow ELIZABETH CASE ; moved to Orange County ; lived at Cornwall, where he signed the Pledge for Independence. He was probably married twice. He had a son, Zaccheus, who also signed the Pledge, and after the war was over he probably settled at Penfield, Monroe Co., N. Y., and was appointed Pathmaster, at the first town meeting of that town, in 1811. Some of his posterity are living in that part of the country yet, and some are buried in East Palmyra Cemetery, Wayne Co., N. Y.

Sixth Generation—Caleb I.

I. DEA. NATHANIEL, son of Nathaniel Horton and Mehitabel Wells (Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Southold, about 1741 ; married, in 1761, REBECCA ROBINSON, born 21 June, 1742 ; died 14 Dec., 1819. He died 13 Aug., 1824 ; moved to Chester, N. J., with his father's family, in 1748.

II. JASON, son of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born at Cutchogue, Southold, L. I., 18 Dec., 1758; married in 1783, to MARY TERRY, daughter of Uriah Terry and Abigail Cleveland, and born in Southold, L. I., in 1760. He was a clothier by trade, served his apprenticeship in Chester, and then settled for a short time at Boskenridge—it is now Basking Ridge—New Jersey, and then moved to Somerville, New Jersey, where he settled permanently and where he died. He was one of the most pious and exemplary men that ever lived; a zealous, active, intelligent Presbyterian. He was a very strict observer of the Sabbath, and violation of it by his neighbors always gave him great displeasure. Observing one of his neighbors frequently chopping firewood on the Sabbath, he went one Saturday afternoon and took his neighbor a load of wood prepared for the fire, telling him it was to save him the trouble of chopping his firewood on the Sabbath. His neighbor took it kindly, and was careful afterwards to see that his fuel was all ready beforehand for the Sabbath. It was a common remark of one of the most reckless men of Somerville, that "If all professors of religion would live like Old Jason Horton, he would believe there was some reality in religion."

Jason Horton never failed to exert a strong influence for the Christian religion as long as he lived. And his wife also was a true helpmeet for him in this regard, possessing genuine piety and Christian activity. She died at Somerville, on Sabbath morning at 5 o'clock, 22 Aug., 1841.

Children:

1. Uriah, b. Sugar Loaf, Orange Co., N. Y., in 1784; m. Elizabeth Fairchild.

4. Mary, born in 1793.
5. Abigail, born in Somerville, 6 March, 1795.
6. Eunice, born in 1797.
7. Fanny, born in 1799.
8. Israel, born in 1801; died young.

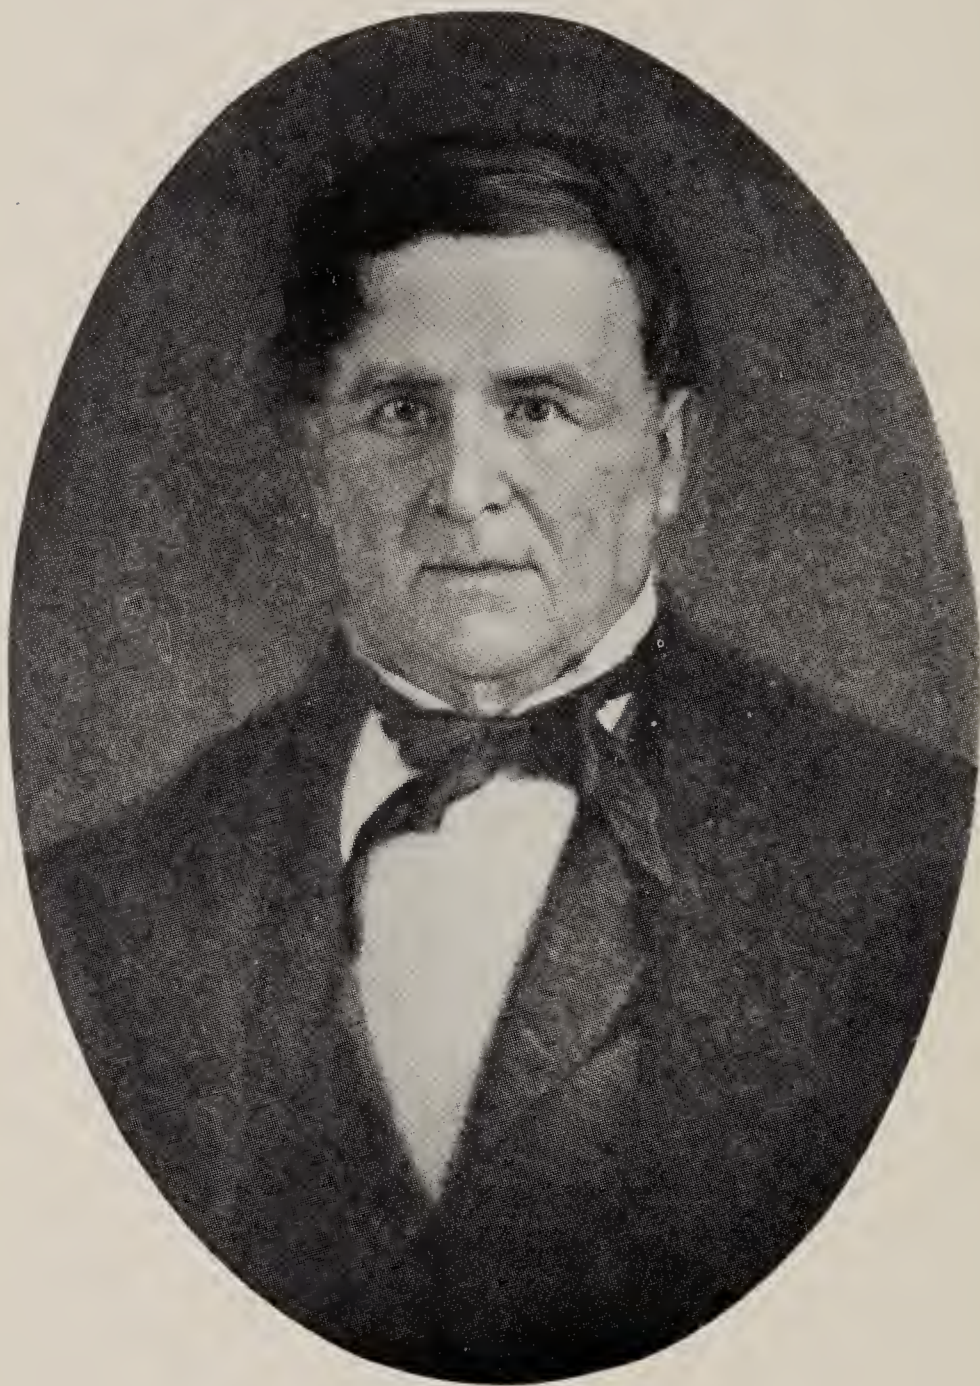

These children were all members of the Presbyterian Church, except Elizabeth, who is a member of the M. E. Church.

III. JEREMIAH, son of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born at Cutchogue, L. I., 24 Oct., 1759. He lived with his grandfather Lee on Long Island, until he was sixteen years old, and then came to Orange Co. On the 16th of Jan., 1783, he married MARY GOLDSMITH. One of his hips was injured by sciatic rheumatism in early life, causing him to be a cripple all his days. He was a stone-mason and farmer, and notwithstanding he was lame, he still performed a great amount of manual labor. He was a man of good judgment, and a Justice of the Peace for many years, and was a man greatly beloved and respected in the community. He and his wife were both members of the Presbyterian Church. They settled in Blooming Grove, about a mile and a quarter south of the present village of Washingtonville, and he built, mostly with his own hands, the venerable old stone mansion now occupied by the widow and family of his only son, Benjamin G. Horton. Jeremiah Horton died 17 Sept., 1841. His wife died 10 June, 1833.

Children, all born in Blooming Grove:

- | | |
|--------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1. Julia, died young. | 6. Sarah, born 15 March, 1797. |
| 2. Fanny, died young. | 7. Lydia, 24 April, 1799. |

V. MAJ. JOHN, son of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born in Goshen, 30 July, 1763. He married in Little Britain, Orange Co., N. Y., 9 April, 1785, DEBORAH TERRY, daughter of Parshall Terry and Deborah Clark, born in Little Britain, Orange Co., N. Y., on the 25 day of May, 1766. She was one of the inmates of the famed Forty Fort the night after the Indian battle and massacre of Wyoming. She was the tender and affectionate mother of eleven children, and raised them all to maturity. They moved to Wyoming Valley in 1787, and in 1792 moved to Terrytown, Pa., where he bought land and settled permanently, and where he died on the 28th day of April, 1848, aged almost 85 years, and where she died on the 25th day of May, 1844, aged 78 years.

Major Horton built the first framed dwelling-house on the west side of the river in the township of then Wyalusing, now Terry. He was the owner of the first two-horse wagon ever brought into Terrytown, and that wagon not only cheerfully bore the burdens he put upon it, but also those of several of the neighbors. He also owned the first fanning mill ever brought into the place. He built the first frame barn that was ever built in the township. It was built in 1805, and is still in a good state of preservation, and is owned by Edmund Horton.

The framed house mentioned above, built by Major Horton in 1806, accidentally took fire on the 23 Sept., 1861, and was burned up. Major Horton was a wagoner in the Revolutionary War, towards the close of the war, and was stationed in Mamakating Hollow, and afterwards on the Neversink Creek, not far from the present Port Jervis. He was Major of a battalion of militia in Wyalusing, frequently held township offices, and was one of the leading men of the place. He was not a public professor of Christianity, but his life in the main was in harmony with its teachings, and he loved, and was successful, in promoting good order in society. He was universally esteemed, and at his funeral a larger concourse of people were gathered than had ever before been witnessed in this part of the country on a funeral occasion. Deborah, his wife, was a woman distinguished for her eminent piety, unwearied industry, and good economy; she knew well how to guide the house. Their children were all born at Terrytown, except Ebenezer, who was born in Little Britain, N. Y., and Anna and Lydia, who were born in Wyoming Valley.

Children :

1. Ebenezer, born 9 Jan., 1786 ; married Mary Terry.

11. Harry Morgan, born 24 Sept., 1811 ; unmarried.

VI. JOSEPH LEE, son of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born in Goshen, N. Y., 27 April, 1765 ; married in Sugar Loaf, N. Y., 27 Feb., 1791, to HANNAH TODD, daughter of Joseph Todd, of Sugar Loaf, and born there on the 31st Aug., 1771. He died in Palmyra, 10 July, 1831. She died at the same place on 9 Aug., 1827.

He moved from Goshen, N. Y., soon after he was married, to Owego, N. Y., where he remained until 1803, and he then removed to Palmyra, N. Y., and took up land and settled about four miles north of the village, where Mrs. Sarah Durfee, one of his daughters, now resides.

Joseph L. Horton and his wife were very pious people, both worthy members of the Baptist Church, beloved and respected in the community. He was a farmer and shoemaker. He had feeble health for several years before his death, wasting away gradually by consumption. He was a very patient and industrious man, and towards the close of his life, suffering from the ravages of disease, and much enfeebled, he would still work at his occupation, making sometimes one shoe in a day, and at others only half a one, according as he had strength and breath. His end was peace.

Children :

1. Samuel Todd, born at Owego, N. Y., 27 July, 1792.
2. Catharine, born at Owego, N. Y., 21 May, 1794 ; married Geo. Spinner ; ne died without issue.

9. Durfee Delano, born at Palmyra, N. Y., 25 July, 1813.
10. Wilson Osborn, born at Palmyra, N. Y., 26 April, 1815.

VII. MARY, daughter of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born near Goshen, N. Y., about 1767 ; married JOHN CLARK. Settled in Spencer, N. Y.

Children :

John. Benjamin. Ann. Sally. And others.

VIII. SAMUEL, son of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, born in the township of Goshen, N. Y., in the year 1770. He was a master builder in the city of New York, when quite a young man. He was said to possess a mind peculiarly adapted to mechanical pursuits, and he engaged in them before his majority. When about 23 years of age, he took the small-pox, in New York, went home to his father's, in Orange County, where he died in a few days.

IX. BENJAMIN, youngest child of Lieut. Israel Horton and Sarah Lee, was born at Sugar Loaf, N. Y., 7 Feb., 1772. He was married in Belvale, Orange Co., N. Y., 29 Jan., 1795, by the Rev. Mr. Stevens, to HANNAH VANCE. She was born in Belvale, N. Y., 28 March, 1777. He bought a farm and settled there, but by indorsing for a friend, he lost his farm and all that he had. He then, about 1822, removed to New York, and entered largely into the business of a master builder. In 1834 he moved to Milan, Ohio, where, on the 3th Feb., 1856, he died, of congestion of the lungs. His wife died at the same place, 25 June, 1860. He and his wife were both members of the M. E. Church.

Children :

1. Margaret Vance, born 9 Dec., 1796.
2. Milton, born 7 April, 1799.
3. Julia Ann E., born 12 May, 1800; died of consumption, in Ohio, 27 Nov., 1839; unmarried.
4. Samuel, born 28 July, 1802; died 21 Nov., 1841, of epilepsy and consumption; unmarried.
5. Nicholas Townsend, born in Belvale, 20 Jan., 1805; m. Sarah Van Orden.
6. Sarah Jane, born in Belvale, 2 May, 1807; married Matthew Mead, and settled in Philadelphia, Pa.

Corwin, and died in 1816, childless. He married 2. MARY KELSEY, born in Goshen, 26 Jan., 1770; died 21 Dec., 1803, without issue. He married 3. ESTHER HORTON, daughter of Dea. Nathaniel Horton, and had

Mary, born 8 Sept., 1811; died 8 Oct., 1811.

On the tombstone of Silas, we find: "Filled the measure of his days with usefulness, and departed this life 10 Dec., 1842. He was a consistent member of the Congregational Church for 55 years, and the loss caused by his death can only be estimated by those who knew him. One of his last bequests was $3,200, secured by bond and mortgage, and the interest to be appropriated annually to the support of the elected Congregational minister of the first Congregational Church of Chester."

Esther, his 3d wife, died 5 Feb., 1852, aged 70.

JONATHAN BANI, son of Barnabas Horton and Mary Tuthill (Jonathan, Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born at Southold, 14 March, 1794; married 1. 20 May, 1815, by Rev. L. Thompson, to DEBORAH OSBORN. She died in 1833, leaving children, as follows, all born in Southold:

1. Emily, born 11 March, 1816; married Gilbert Miller; she died in 1857.
2. Edwin, born 1 Sept., 1817; died 6 July, 1818.

Jonathan Bani married 2. in 1838, JERUSHA EDWARDS, she died, and he married 3. JERUSHA PEORNEY, she died, and he married 4. HANNAH BLONVETTE, she died in 1870; he died in New York, 19 Feb., 1871, and was buried at Cutchogue, L. I. Mr. Horton was emphatically a servant of God. We here reproduce a portion of his obituary, which appeared in the "Presbyterian," of Philadelphia, shortly after his decease: "Mr. Horton has been for forty years the indefatigable and successful Tract Missionary of the Seventh Ward, New York City. When he first assumed the important task of laboring for the spiritual interests of this portion of the city, it was known as one of the most wicked and wretched wards. The 'Sailor Boarding-houses' of olden times, with their numerous 'land sharks,' and temptations to sinful indulgence, swarmed here. In process of time, the greater part of this territory was occupied by dwellings of opulent merchants. Then after another period of years, a new generation found the older inhabitants of the Seventh Ward crowded out, and their former homes became filled with a population of the dregs of old country emigrants, or gave place to shops and manufactories. Mr. Horton adapted himself and modified his work to meet these successive changes, and calling to his help a faithful band of distributors, teachers and visitors, made a Christian influence to be felt, increasing its power by every available means. A great multitude of conversions from year to year were the result of his faithful labors. Admonished by the approach of old age, he resigned his position as missionary, made all arrangements as to his worldly affairs, wrote farewell letters, and quietly looked forward to the close of his earthly career."

Seventh Generation—Caleb I.

I. HULDAH, daughter of Dea. Nathaniel Horton and Rebecca Robinson (Nathaniel, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Chester, N. J., 14 Jan., 1762; married in 1781, to JOEL COE, of Middletown, Conn. Moved to Scipio, Cayuga Co., N. Y., where they settled. He died 23 Sept., 1846, aged 88 years, 4 months. She died 13 Dec., 1803. After her death he married Widow HEPZIBAH SMITH.

4. Mary Rose, born 8 April, 1818; married Alfred Horton.

Hiram Horton possessed fine social qualities, was well skilled in music, and always led the singing in the Congregational Church until prevented by the infirmities incident to old age.

“With the most limited opportunities for early education, he became a great and profound thinker. He was an upright and conscientious man, and largely shared the esteem of all who knew him. He was a most sincere and ardent Universalist, living the life of the Christian, and dying in the full and perfect triumph of Gospel faith and hope. He and his wife were, for many years, members of the Congregational Church of Chester; but about thirty years before his death, he and his wife embraced Universalism, and avowed it openly ever afterwards. Nevertheless, they continued to support the church and worship within its walls, and we hazard nothing in saying that there was no man in Chester, nor in all the region round about it, who was more generally and highly respected for manly and Christian character than Hiram Horton. Some time before his death he had requested that a minister of the Universalist denomination should attend his funeral services; but the pastor of the church, the Rev. Luke I. Stoutenberg, and others, refused to let them into the church, notwithstanding that the salary of that preacher was paid in part by the ‘Horton Fund,’ and the church itself had been built mainly by the Hortons. His funeral had to be attended in the Presbyterian Church the Presbyterians generously offering them the use of their church.”—Obituary of Hiram Horton.

III. SARAH, daughter of Israel Horton and Anna Van Devort, born in Orange Co., N. Y., 9 April, 1784; married in Phelps, in 1813, to SAMUEL MINNIS. She died 8 May, 1864, in Wyalusing, Bradford Co., Pa.; she was a quiet Christian woman, much esteemed by all who knew her. Her husband died in comparatively early life, leaving her with a family of children, and not much of this world's goods to help herself with. But by industry and care she managed to raise and educate her children. She was living with one of them, viz., Maria Homet, of Wyalusing, Pa., at the time of her death. In her early life she was very active—often rode on horseback—and at one time she made a trip on horseback and alone, from Phelps to Wyalusing, about three hundred miles circular.

XII. CORNELIUS, son of Israel Horton and Anna Van Devort, born in Owego, N. Y., 13 August, 1804; moved with his parents to Phelps, in 1816. He was a teacher for several years in his early life.

Quite early in life he engaged in mercantile business, selling dry-goods, groceries, hardware, etc., and also various agricultural implements, and generally carried on a successful business.

He was Supervisor of the township of Phelps for eight years in succession, and was one of the most prominent and influential citizens of the town, enjoying the fullest confidence of the people. He was a kind-hearted and upright man, a close figurer, but always just and honorable in his dealings. He was never married, never made a public profession of religion, although he was a man of very correct moral deportment and habits, and practically a Christian gentleman. On the 29 Oct., 1871, as he was riding with a friend in a buggy, the horse became frightened, and ran away, upsetting the wagon, and throwing Mr. Horton upon the ground with great violence, causing his death in a few hours afterwards. He was wholly unconscious, and never spoke after the fall. He was a tall man, over six feet high, of commanding appearance, and urbane and dignified in his manners. He left an estate of about $50,000, with one sister, and a large number of nephews and nieces to inherit it.

XIII. JOSEPH LEE, youngest son of Israel Horton and Anna Van Devort, born in Owego, N. Y., 9 July, 1807. He married the widow ELIZABETH HATFIELD, of Newark, N. J. He was a very

V. ABIGAIL, daughter of Jason Horton and Mary Terry, born in Sommerville, N. J., 6 March, 1795; died 19 August, 1875; she was never married. She made teaching her profession for many years. She was a skillful educator and a great favorite of children. She early professed Christianity, and became a member of the Presbyterian Church. She was a lady of marked piety and intelligence; occasionally wrote articles for the newspapers. In 1872 she writes: "This is my hand-writing, so, through the mercy of the Lord, my life is yet prolonged, but I am aged (77) and infirm, going the down hill of life, living on borrowed time. Oh; how important to be prepared for the final change!

"Of my sisters, the oldest is gone, taken in her 84th year, departed suddenly, gone, we trust, to 'Heaven above, where all is love,' and where sorrowing and sighing can never enter."

In another letter, she says: "Our home is pleasant, we live in a beautiful village of New Jersey. Yes, little New Jersey,

" 'With all thy faults, I love thee still;
I see beauties on every hill;
Thy rocks in grandeur rise;
Thy rills are charming to my eyes.' "

She wrote and published a very pretty obituary of her sister, who died recently.

By his third wife :

11. Belle Amanda, born 8 May, 1860. All born at Terrytown, Pa.

Maj. Horton possessed more than an ordinary fund of cheerfulness and joviality ; and his humorous and genial nature was an unfailing source of interest and life in the family and in the social circle. He was a careful business man. Though long engaged in mercantile pursuits, he never had occasion to fear financial crises or revulsions, living always prepared at any moment to honor his pecuniary obligations. Punctuality and promptness were marked characteristics of the man. To perform was more pleasing to him than to promise ; in the enterprises for the public good he was always among the first. He was constable for many years, Justice of the Peace for five years, and declined a re-election ; was Treasurer of the County for two years, and was one of the electors on the Democratic electoral ticket in 1848. He was Captain and then Major in the militia, and from 1828 to 1835 Brigade Inspector.

Though not a public professor of Christianity, he was its friend and supporter, and conscientiously and habitually practiced its virtues. He was uniformly in attendance upon public worship, and paid more money for the Terrytown Tabernacle (Union meeting-house) than any other person.

He was popular and pleasing in his manners, and politically a man of mark, but never a politician—holding office only when the office sought him. His end was quiet and peaceful.

“The ‘Angel’s Whisper’ stole in song upon his closing ear ;
From his own daughter’s lips it came, so musical and clear,
That scarcely knew the dying man what melody was there ;
The last of earth’s or first of Heaven’s pervading all the air.”

V. EUNICE, daughter of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born at Terrytown, 14 Jan., 1796 ; married in the old log meeting-house at Merry All, Pa., 20 July, 1817, by Rev. Minor Manasseh York, to THOMAS INGHAM, Esq., son of Joseph Ingham and Pamela Ellicott, and born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1 April, 1794. The ancestors of Thomas Ingham came from England. Jonas Ingham, the first known ancestor, came to this country about A. D. 1700. By trade he was a clothier. He married a Cheshire woman, who often told her grandson that she landed on the ground where the city of Philadelphia now stands before there was a house on it. They settled in Trenton, N. J., where their son Jonathan was born, in 1709 or 1710. They also had three daughters. Jonathan Ingham resided in Bucks County, at a place known as Ingham's Springs, where he owned a farm and woolen factory. He was a rigid Quaker. A contemporary, who was well acquainted with him said, "He did not belong to the old aristocracy who governed Bucks County before the Revolution, but his position in life and high intelligence put him in their society." They made him a Justice of the Peace, a Judge of the Court, and a member of the Assembly. He died in 1798 or 1799, aged 89. He had 3 sons and 2 daughters. Jonas, his youngest son, was born in 1746. He learned the business of a clothier. January 3, 1771, he was married to Elizabeth Beaumont, and soon after leased his father's fulling mill, and was running it when the Revolutionary war commenced. When the contesting armies came near, he enlisted, and served first as a Lieutenant and then as a Captain in the militia. He was in service in 1777, and in the battle at Gulf Mills. In the early part of the year 1778 he was taken with a fever and sent home. He afterward purchased land and built a fulling mill near the Delaware River; he there lived some years and educated his children himself. In 1789 he commenced a settlement on the Wyalusing Creek, being the first settler above Lewis', on that stream. He was an ingenious mechanic, and invented the machine for shearing cloth, which afterwards came into general use. He was a good writer and public speaker. In 1804 he was elected a member of the Legislature from Luzerne County. He died October 28, 1820. He had three sons and three daughters.

Joseph, his eldest son, was born January 21, 1773, and his father taught him the common branches of education, including surveying and algebra. While his father was making his first improvements on the Wyalusing, Joseph remained at home in Bucks County, in charge of the business. He learned the trade of a millwright. About the year 1793 he married Pamela Ellicott, and soon after bought three hundred acres of land on the Susquehanna River, at the mouth of Sugar Run. He moved his family to this place in 1795, and commenced building a saw mill in the fall of 1801, and finished it in the spring following. Soon afterwards he built a grist mill. His wife, Pamela Ellicott, died 17 November, 1824. He afterward married Laura (Whitcomb) Vose, a widow, by whom he had two sons. He had six sons by his first wife—no daughters. He died 11 June, 1829. Thomas, his eldest son, was educated partly by his father at home and partly in the common-school at Wyalusing. He learned his father's business of millwright, running mills and farming. He bought a farm and settled first at Browntown, Pa. But he remained there but a short time, when he sold out and came back to Sugar Run, and lived near his father. After the death of his father, he bought the homestead, and there lived until his death. He re-built the mills, and also erected a store-house, and engaged in the mercantile business. While quite a young man he was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and held that office during the most of his life. His mind was well informed on all general topics; his judgment was excellent, and he was noted for his morality, honesty and truthfulness. He was mild and quiet in his manners, but decided and firm in his purposes. Eunice, his wife, was handsome in appearance and pleasing in her manners, possessed a lively and cheerful disposition, and was exceedingly energetic. She managed the affairs of her household with economy and skill, and often assisted her husband in his business. When he was absent she could as readily manage the business out-doors as in the house. She was remarkably generous, and always had a bountiful hand for the poor, and was active in assisting her neighbors who were in sickness or trouble. Without making a public profession, both she and her husband exhibited the virtues of Christianity in her daily walk and character. She died 2, March, 1844. He died 14 August, 1855. They were both buried in the Terrytown Cemetery.

Children, all born in Asylum, now Wilmot, Pa.:

1. Anna Pamela, born 4 May, 1818; married Benjamin Goldsmith Horton, of Blooming Grove, Orange Co., N. Y., where she now resides.
2. Joseph Washington Ingham, born 21 Oct., 1823; married in Wyalusing, 5 June, 1849, by Rev. Dr. S. F. Colt, to Mary Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Rev. George Taylor, of Moravia, N. Y., and Abigail Baldwin, of Bloomfield, N. J., and grand-daughter of Maj. John Taylor, of Wyalusing, and born at Moravia, N. Y., 16 Jan., 1830; they have one son, George Taylor Ingham, an only child, born at Sugar Run, 13 Aug., 1851; he is a merchant.

J. W. Ingham owns and occupies the old homestead of his father, and is a manufacturer of lumber and flour. He is a good writer, and some of the soundest and best political articles published in the journals of the county are from his pen. Mrs. Ingham is a worthy and active member of the Presbyterian Church.

3. Thomas Jefferson, born 25 Nov., 1828; married at Laporte, Pa., 5 June, 1853, by William A. Mason, Esq., to Caroline Araminta Cheney, daughter of Abel Cheney and Priscilla Washburn, and born at Cortlandville, N. Y., 15 Feb., 1831. He removed to Sullivan County after the death of his father and studied law, soon attained to eminence as a lawyer, and stood at the head of the bar in his county; he has held the offices of Register, Recorder, Prothonotary, member of the Legislature, and Additional Law Judge, and in the fall of 1874, he, although always a strong Republican and editor of a Republican paper, was elected president Judge of the 44th Judicial District—a district largely Democratic. He resides in Laporte, Sullivan County, has three children, Ernest V., Ellery P., and Frank Horton.
4. Debbie Lelia, born 3 June, 1831; married Andrew Jackson Stone, son of Raphael Stone and Mary Ingham. They live in Aurora, Ill., and have three children, Hugh, Lillie, and Eliza, all born in Wilmot, Pa.
5. Emma Adelaide, born 25 Nov., 1840; married Dr. Volney Homet. They reside at Camptown, Pa., and have Jessie, born at Sugar Run.

MRS. SALLY HORTON MORROW
Pennsylvania

No child or grand-child of Eunice Horton Ingham has yet died.

VI. SALLY, daughter of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born 29 May, 1798; married by Thomas Ingham, Esq., to JOHN MORROW, son of John Morrow and Nancy Gamble, and born in Dunlevey, in the Parish of Aughobog, County of Monohan, Ireland, 20 June, 1801. He sailed from Ireland 14 March, 1811, and landed at Amboy, on 15 April, 1811. He was an excellent farmer, owned a good farm in "The Bend," Asylum, now Wilmot Township, Bradford Co., Pa. He was engaged in early life in merchandising, and later in life in raising and selling stock and grain. He possessed good business capacities, and was a man of much influence and activity, of good, sound, moral character, and well read in the sacred Scriptures, and in sentiment a thorough Old School Presbyterian or Covenanter, but never made a public profession. He was fond of company, and always took pains to make pleasant visits for his friends when they called on him.

Sally was a good housekeeper—industrious, economizing and a skillful worker often taking the premium at the County Fair for domestic articles of her own manufacture. She possessed a wonderfully retentive memory—readily stating, not only incidents that occurred at any time during her life, but also dates—dates of births, marriages and deaths of all her acquaintances, even from her early childhood. She had a peculiar faculty of stating a fact or circumstance so connected with others as to leave no doubt of its truthfulness. She died in Wyalusing, 27 April, 1874, leaving to her family and friends the consoling belief that she exchanged the cares and sorrows of this mortal life for the full fruition of that world

"Where fragrant flowers eternal bloom,
And joys supreme are given;
Where rays divine disperse the gloom,
Beyond the confines of the tomb,
The endless bliss of Heaven."

Mr. Morrow died in Wyalusing, at the residence of his son-in-law, Andrew Fee, 10 August, 1873, where he had lain sick about four months.

Children, all born in Wilmot, except George, who was born at Terrytown, Pa.:

1. George Horton, born 16 May 1823; died 30 Dec., 1873; unmarried.
2. John Wallace, born 4 Oct., 1824; died 20 March, 1857; unmarried.
3. James Harvey, born 2 March, 1826; married Sabra Smith; died at Terrytown, 22 June, 1857; he was a merchant.
4. Hon. Paul Dudley, born 17 Feb., 1828; entered Freshman class, at Hamilton College, N. Y., Sept., 1848; graduated July, 1852, in first grade of scholarship; read Law Extra. under Prof. T. W. Dwight, during his senior year in College. After his graduation, he studied law with the Hon. Ulysses Mercur, of Towanda. Admitted to practice, Sept., 1853. Elected District Attorney in 1856. Married 2 June, 1857, at Warren, Pa., by Rev. Dr. S. F. Colt, to Harriet King Pitcher, daughter of Lorin Pitcher and Henrietta Coburn, and born in Byron, Genesee Co., N. Y., 19 Oct., 1836. Mr. Morrow was appointed additional Law Judge of the 13th Judicial District, 1 March, 1870; was elected in the fall of the same year, and commissioned for ten years. The district was divided in 1874, and he was then commissioned President Judge of the 13th District (composed of Bradford County) for the balance of his term of office. He was a first class lawyer, and, as a judicial officer, he ranks high, possessing good executive talent and a sound judgment—none of his decisions have been reversed by the Supreme Court. He resides at Towanda, Pa.

5. Debbie Ann, born 7 Oct., 1830; married Andrew Fee. She is a highly respected member of the Presbyterian Church. They live in Wyalusing.
6. Nancy, born 23 July, 1834; married Capt. John G. Brown; she died 1 April, 1874.
7. Francis Gailey, born 28 Dec., 1839; married Sarah Webb; owns the old homestead.
8. William Gibson, born 7 May, 1842; m. Eliza Miller; lives in Wyalusing.

VII. ELIZABETH (Betsy), daughter of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, was born at Terrytown, Pa., 27 Dec., 1800; was married at Terrytown, by Thomas Ingham, Esq., to FRANCIS E. BAILLET, son of Francis Baillet and Lydia Terry, and born in Philadelphia, 9 June, 1797. He moved with his mother to Baltimore, where he served as an apprentice with a tobacconist.

He came to Terrytown when a young man, moved to Farmersville, Cataraugus Co., N. Y., soon after their marriage. Resided in Farmersville till 1837, when they removed to Ellicottville in the same county. He was clerk of Cataraugus Co. for twelve years in succession, was always, and is yet, a staunch Democrat. Cataraugus was largely a Whig county, yet his great popularity always drew Whig votes enough to elect him. He left Cataraugus Co. a few years ago, and went to Black River Falls, Wisconsin, where he now resides. He is a genial, whole-souled, sportive man, and his penmanship, now at the age of seventy-six years, is remarkably beautiful, round and fair, and almost as easily read as print. He is now clerk in the office of Carl C. Pope, Esq., of Black River Falls. He and his wife are both members of the Baptist Church, and if they live until the 30 of Nov. next (1874) they may celebrate their golden wedding.*

Children:

1. Harry, born at Farmersville, N. Y., 29 Sept., 1825; died 5 Oct., 1825.
2. John Horton, born at Farmersville, N. Y., 28 Jan., 1827; was a Union soldier; lives in Wisconsin.
3. George Washington, born at Farmersville, N. Y., 1 April, 1829; was postmaster at Ellicottville, New York, for several years; now lives in Wisconsin.
4. Lydia Jane, born in Farmersville, New York, 24 July, 1831; married A. E. Sawyer; lives at Black River Falls, Wisconsin.
5. Frank, born at Farmersville, 3 Sept., 1833; lives at Black River Falls.
6. Henry, born at Farmersville, 30 April, 1836; died 3 April, 1857.
7. Anna E., born in Ellicottville, N. Y., 4 March, 1838; died 4 Oct., 1838.
8. Pamela, born in Ellicottville, 15 Sept., 1839; married Austin; lives at La Crosse, Wisconsin.

*The Golden Wedding was celebrated in good style in Black River Falls, attended by the Presbyterian minister, the physician, the editor of the village paper, and many of the citizens of the village, also Edmund Horton and George F. Horton, of Pennsylvania, brothers of Mrs. Baillet—all of their children and grandchildren now living,—many valuable tokens of respect and esteem were presented to the new married, youthful-looking, aged pair.

VIII. FRANCIS, son of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born at Terrytown, Pa., 7 June, 1803. He purchased a farm in Farmersville, N. Y., went there and made the last payment for it. He was taken with inflammation of the stomach and bowels when on his way home, and died at his Uncle Joseph Horton's, at Palmyra, 30 June, 1829, was buried in the East Palmyra Cemetery.

IX. GEORGE FIRMAN, son of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born at Terrytown, 2 Jan., 1806; married at Terrytown, 4 June, 1832, by Thomas Ingham, Esq., to ABIGAIL TERRY, daughter of William Terry and Nancy Sherman, and born at East Palmyra, N. Y., 8 Oct., 1807. He is a physician, was a member of the late Constitutional Convention of Pennsylvania.

They have children as follows, all born in Terrytown:

1. Francis William, born 15 March, 1833; died 22 Dec., 1833.
2. Julia, born 24 Oct., 1834; married C. S. Homet.
3. Jane Elizabeth, born 6 June, 1837; married Rev. D. Craft.
4. William Terry, born 9 April, 1839; married Prudence Beardsley.
5. John Burleigh, born 8 Jan., 1842; married Eva Tupper.
6. Debbie Emily, born 7 Nov., 1843; married 30 June, 1868, Dr. W. J. Hillis; died 26 March, 1869, of consumption.
7. Nancy Terry, born 15 July, 1846; died of consumption, 7 Jan., 1872; unmarried.
8. Mary Eliza, born 24 April, 1850; married 1 Oct., 1873, to William R. Sutton, of Lyons, N. Y.

X. EDMUND, son of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born 9 August, 1808; married at Lewistown, Mifflin Co., Pa., 10 Nov., 1834, by Rev. Mr. Wyles, to MARTHA ANN ROBINSON, daughter of Robert Robinson and Elizabeth Stalford, and born near Waynesburg, 3 Sept., 1811. Robert Robinson was the son of William Robinson and Martha Houston. He emigrated to this country from Ireland in 1752, and landed at Wilmington Del., being then nineteen years old. He resided there until 1771, when he moved to Waynesburg, Mifflin Co., Pa., where he remained till the 12 June, 1817, when he died.

Robert Robinson was born 31 July, 1773, on the old farm in Waynesburg, now McVeytown. He was married in Philadelphia 23 Oct., 1810, by an Episcopal clergyman, to Elizabeth Stalford, only daughter of Joseph Stalford and Catharine Pauling. Joseph Stalford was the son of Samuel Stalford and Elizabeth Richardson, of Philadelphia. Catharine Pauling was the daughter of Henry Pauling, who was originally from Germany. Henry Pauling had six sons and two daughters, viz.: John, Henry, Benjamin, Jesse, Nathan, William, Catharine, and Rachael. Robert Robinson died in Lewistown, 18 April 1832.

Edmund Horton and Martha Robinson have children as follows, all born at Terrytown, Pa.:

1. James Robert, born 15 Feb., 1836; died 10 Sept., 1838.
2. Elizabeth Robinson, born 15 May, 1838; unmarried; resides at Terrytown, Pa.
3. Mary Lucretia, born 17 July, 1840; unmarried; resides Terrytown, Pa.
4. Parshall Terry, born 15 Feb., 1843; unmarried; resides Terrytown, Pa..
5. Emily Robinson, born 14 Nov., 1847; married at Terrytown, 1 June, 1869, by Rev. Hallock Armstrong of the Presbyterian Church, to Calvin D. Albert. He was a mechanic, and whilst at work in a planing-mill in Wyalusing, Pa., he was struck in the region of the stomach by a piece of board thrown by a circular saw, causing his death on the 17 May, 1870, leaving Anna Horton Albert, a posthumous child, born in Terrytown, 16 Oct., 1870.

XI. HARRY MORGAN, son of Maj. John Horton and Deborah Terry, born 24 Sept., 1811. He studied medicine with Dr. George F. Horton, and was also an office student of Prof. Samuel McClellan of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1833 and 1834. He graduated at Jefferson Medical College in March, 1835. During the last year of his residence in the city, he frequently visited patients in the city and its environs, and in Feb., 1835, he was attacked with disease of the lungs. He was examined for his degree by a part of the Professors while confined to his bed, and he bore a very successful examination, all the Professors voting in his favor. He came home to Terrytown, and lived but seven weeks after he reached home, dying on the 6 May, 1835. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, and had a complimentary letter from the Rev. Dr. Ely, introducing him to some of the leading men of Columbia, South Carolina, and there he would have gone if he had lived, as Dr. Ely had influential friends there. The idea of going South to locate himself in the practice of medicine was so deeply impressed upon his mind, that he could not get rid of it, and he would not be satisfied until he started on his journey, and he did start, rode four miles in a buggy, and died the next morning at Thomas Ingham's.

I. SAMUEL TODD, son of Joseph Lee Horton and Hannah Todd, was born at Owego, N. Y., 27 July, 1792; was married at Palmyra, 27 March, 1812, to MARY GALLOWAY, daughter of Captain James Galloway, and born at Palmyra in May, 1794. He was a farmer and merchant, a spirited business man, of commanding personal appearance, and greatly respected. He was a First Lieutenant of a volunteer company of militia in 1825. He died at Palmyra, 5 Sept., 1851.

His wife after his death moved to Genesee Co., Mich., where she died 13 May, 1867. They were both members of the Baptist Church of Palmyra.

Children :

1. James Galloway, born at Palmyra, April, 1815.
2. Cynthia, born at Palmyra.
3. Ira Joseph, born at Palmyra, 1 April, 1818; married Ruth Howard.
4. Maria P., born in Palmyra; died 28 May, 1843.
5. William M., born in Palmyra; died 25 June, 1854.
6. Carlton S., born in Palmyra.

III. HENRY WISNER HORTON, son of Joseph Lee Horton and Hannah Todd, born at Owego, N. Y., 31 May, 1797. Moved with his parents to Palmyra, N. Y.; married at Penfield, N. Y., 31 Jan., 1819, to ADAH JENNINGS, daughter of Joseph Jennings and Nancy Sherman. She was born at Broadalbin, Saratoga Co., N. Y., 8 Oct., 1800. She died 20 Jan., 1856. They moved from Palmyra to Royalton, Niagara Co., N. Y., in 1819. Remained there until 1830, when they removed to Groveland, Oakland Co., Mich., and settled on the farm upon which they now live (1873). He purchased his farm of the Government, and it was the first Government land sold and occupied in that township. He was an Acting Justice of the Peace for twenty-two years. He was town-clerk for nine years, and supervisor for three years. He embraced Christianity in early life, became connected with the M. E. Church, and has been one of the Stewards in that church in Groveland, from 1839 to the present time. He has frequently been the class leader of the church, and his house has always been known as "The Methodist Tavern and Preacher's Home." Through his efforts mainly, a comfortable church building was erected on the corner of his farm, and it has always been known as the "Horton Methodist Church." He was Captain of the first volunteer militia company ever organized in that section of the country. He was always a true republican, and frequently received the nomination of the Whig party for a seat in the Legislature, but in consequence of the large Democratic majority in the district, he was never elected. With a character unblemished he has lived to an honorable old age, and by his many virtues he commands the respect and high esteem of the church and community in which he resides.

Children :

1. Permelia, born 25 June, 1820.

8. Emma Alma, born in Milan, Ohio, 4 Sept., 1836; married William Upton.
9. Catharine Julia, born in Milan, Ohio, 5 March, 1841.

Milton Horton is now (1873) living at West Salem, Wis. He has been a farmer all his days, an occupation as honorable, certainly as useful, as any other known to the family of man. The intelligent, conscientious upright farmer is, and of right should be, one of the lords of our happy country. He cannot be surpassed by any profession or class of persons.

Milton Horton moved from Orange Co., N. Y., to Milan, Ohio, in 1835, and thence to West Salem, Wis., in 1865. He is a worthy follower, and so also was his wife, of the Good Shepherd, and he has always commanded the respect and esteem of all who have known him.

V. NICHOLAS TOWNSEND, son of Benjamin Horton and Hannah Vance, born in Belvale, N. Y., 20 Jan., 1805; married, 1. in New York City, 19 Aug., 1827, SARAH VAN ORDEN, of Jersey City. She died in Cincinnati. He was married, 2. in Cincinnati, Ohio, to ELIZABETH ANN SMITH.

He commenced in New York City about 1826, the business of setting iron railroads around door-steps and iron fences in front of dwelling-houses and other buildings. In 1832 he moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, and carried on his business on a large scale, manufacturing as well as setting iron-railings, mantels, grates, and fencings, giving employment to quite a number of workmen. He was doing a large business in and about Cincinnati, and was reputed to be worth $200,000.

In July, 1857, he was killed by one of his employees. The murderer was arrested, tried, convicted, and executed.

By his sudden death his business matters were so deranged that his wife and family realized only a small part of his large estate.

11. Henrietta, born at West Almond, Alleghany Co., N. Y., 13 June, 1835.

Hon. Elijah Horton's present residence is Oswego, Kosciusko Co., Ia. In a letter bearing date 23d Sept., 1874, he says: "You ask for a short biographical sketch. This I rather decline, further than to say that my life has been devoted to the judicial profession. I studied law in Morristown, N. J., and practiced there until I removed to Allegany Co., N. Y., in 1832. I served as first Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of that county for about ten years. Soon after moving into the State of Indiana in 1844, I was appointed District Judge, and I have served in that office, and also as a Justice of the Peace ever since, until within a few weeks past when I resigned. In looking over my past life, I see many things that I would not do over again, with my past experience, especially would I say long and loud, No, instead of Yes, as I often did. Your letter brings to my mind views and opinions which I have been learning and experiencing for many years of my past life. Habits have grown upon me imperceptibly from my childhood. I have old diaries written in my younger days, in which I find recorded rules for my own conduct, the strict observance of which, has caused me many miles of travel and hours of labor. For illustration, I recall one or two: 'Have a place for everything, and keep everything in its place' and 'Never put off till tomorrow what you can as well do today.' I began life under such rules, and I have always been tyrannically ruled by them. If I forgot to do anything that I intended to do through the day, and happened to think of it after I had gone to bed, I could not sleep until I would get up and do it, if possible, and if not possible there would be no sleep for me that night. I have written this letter at one sitting and feel pretty tired." The letter contained about four pages foolscap, and it is no wonder that he, now just entering his eightieth year, should feel tired. The greater wonder is that he could write at all. It is written in a bold, plain hand, giving no indications of age. He died 1875, age 81.

I. PARMENAS HOWELL, son of Barnabas Horton and Milicent Howell (Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I), born in Goshen, N. Y., 13 Dec., 1795; married in Minnisink, N. 10. Howell Haynes Lee, born 15 Dec., 1848; died 18 Sept., 1873, in Shreveport, Louisiana, greatly lamented by all who knew him. He was a merchant. He and his wife Fannie Moore, to whom he was married 2 May, 1872; went south early in the summer of 1873. She came north by the advice of physicians, and at her husband's request, as it was not considered safe for her to remain there during the hot season. His mother writes: "We have passed through a great bereavement. Howell died the 18 Sept. 'last. He was taken sick on Sabbath with yellow fever, and died the next Thursday at eleven o'clock. Our hopes as to this world are all blasted, but we trust that he is with the Saviour, to whom he gave himself in his seventeenth year, and from that time until his death, he lived a Christian. So we may mourn not without hope."

V. PHINEAS, son of Colonel Nathan Horton and Elizabeth Eagles, born at New River, Watauga Co., N. C., 9 Jan., 1795; married about 1827, REBECCA COUNCILL, daughter of Jordan Council and Sarah Howard, of Ashe Co., N. C., and born 20 Feb., 1802.

Children, all born at New River:

1. William, born 8 March, 1828.
2. Nathan, born 22 March, 1829.
3. Jonathan Fillmore, born 3 March, 1836.
4. James Harrison, born 27 May, 1841.

Phineas Horton was a volunteer in the war of 1812. He served as a magistrate over 30 years. He was County Treasurer for several years. He is yet living, and remains upon the same place where he first settled at New River, five miles east of Boone. He has a considerable quantity of land, and at the time Emancipation was proclaimed, he owned six negroes. He has no inclination for anything but farming, and although in his 81st year, he is well preserved, and does a good deal of farm work.

Rebecca Councill, his wife, died of cancer of the breast, 12 August, 1863.

IX. COL. JONATHAN, son of Col. Nathan Horton and Elizabeth Eagles, born on New River, 26 Feb., 1806; married 11 Jan., 1841, at Richland, Ashe Co., N. C., to MELINDA HARTZAG, daughter of Jacob Hartzag and Rebecca Coloway, and born at Richland, 10 May, 1824. She is a distant relative of the celebrated DANIEL BOONE, the bold old pioneer of the West, of former days.

The Colonel resides at the old homestead of his father, Col. Nathan owns good lands, and is an excellent farmer. He lost heavily by Emancipation. He has been a very prominent man all his life—firm, intelligent and generous. He was elected to the State Legislature in 1832-'33-'34 and '35. He was a member of the Electoral College of North Carolina, on the Henry Clay ticket, in 1844. He was again elected to the State Legislature from Watauga County, in 1854. He was a volunteer in the service of the Confederate States, in 1861, and was elected Captain of Co. B., 37th Regiment North Carolina troops, infantry, and he was in the seven days' fight near Richmond, Va., towards the close of which the command of the regiment devolved on him. Soon after this, health failing, he resigned and came home, and in 1864 he was elected to the State Senate. He says, and no doubt truly, that his house was robbed, in the spring of 1865, eighteen times in fourteen days, by men professing to be, and wearing the garb of, Union soldiers.

The Colonel has never had any children.

I. NATHAN, son of Zephaniah Horton, Esq., and Jane McCurry (Capt. Nathan, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Wilkes Co., N. C., 24 Jan., 1789; married 29 May, 1817, MARY YOUNG, born in Burke Co., N. C., about 1794; died 19 May, 1875. He was Col. Commander in the 15th Brigade, 9th Division, North Carolina Militia, for about 20 years—was offered the position of Brigadier General, but declined.

Children, all born in Buncombe County, except Mary I., born in Yancey Co., N. C.:

10. Zephaniah I., born 12 May, 1849; died 4 Aug., 1849.
11. David E., born 5 Nov., 1851.

VII. JANE M., daughter of Zephaniah Horton, Esq., and Jane McCurry, born 18 March, 1806; married 25 Aug., 1823, JAMES H. POTEET, of Buncombe County, and born 23 Oct., 1796; moved in 1834 to Missouri, Gasconade County, where he died, 5 July, 1835, leaving two children, born in Buncombe County, viz.:

1. *Lorenzo D., born 5 June, 1824. 2. Sophronia, born 8 May, 1826.

Mrs. Poteet, soon after the death of her husband, returned to her native state, and 23 Feb., 1840, married JOHN W. GARLAND, of Yancey County, born in Tennessee, 5 Sept., 1807. He was County Clerk of Yancey County for 12 years, and also represented that county in the Legislature in 1854-'55 and in 1865-'66, and was the Union Delegate in the State Convention of 1861.

VIII. PHEBE D., daughter of Zephaniah Horton, Esq., and Jane McCurry, born 3 Oct., 1810; married ADAM A. BROYLES, of Washington Co., Tenn., 15 July, 1835, born 11 May, 1813.

Children, all born in Washington Co., Tenn.:

1. Edmonia L., born 15 April, 1837.

4. Adam C., born 23 Jan., 1846.
5. Sarah E. I., born 7 Dec., 1848.
6. Lodelius H., born 8 May, 1855.

*Lorenzo D. Poteet is an accomplished gentleman and scholar, a good writer and eloquent speaker, and has kindly furnished us the records of the descendants of Zephaniah Horton, Esq., of Buncombe, now Ashe Co., N. C.

SILAS HORTON, son of Abigail Horton and Daniel Stringham (Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Middletown, Orange Co., N. Y., 7 Nov., 1797; married in 1821, HENRIETTA HICKS, daughter of Jacob M. Hicks and Elizabeth ———, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and born in 1804. (Jacob M. Hicks died in 1843, aged 94. His wife died in 1854, aged 85.)

Children, probably all born in Brooklyn:

1. Maria Hicks Stringham, married William M. Richards.
2. Jane Horton Stringham, married Benjamin W. How; died in 1874.
3. Edwinna Hurlbut Stringham married Johnston Blakely Creighton; died in 1862.
4. Elizabeth Wynkoop Stringham married Com. J. B. Creighton, being his 2nd wife.

Silas H. Stringham entered the Navy in June, 1810, as midshipman on the frigate President, Commodore John Rogers. In 1812 he was assigned to the Guererre, under Decatur. In 1813 he was on the Spark, one of the Algerine squadron. In 1817, having been promoted to a Lieutenancy, he was transferred to the sloop-of-war Erie, and in 1818, to the Peacock. He was next ordered to the sloop-of-war Cyane, in 1819. In 1821 he was upon the Hornet, 1st Lieutenant, at the West India station. In 1822 he was again on the Cyane, under Com. Creighton. From 1825 to 1829 he held a position at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and in 1829 he was again assigned to the Peacock, and sent in search of the Hornet, sloop-of-war, which was lost. We next find him on the Falmouth, and ordered to Carthage. From 1830 to 1834 he was in shore service. In 1835 he has command of the John Adams, in the Mediterranean squadron. In 1837 he is second in command at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and from 1843 to 1846 he had the full command of this yard. During the Mexican war we find him in active service, and in command of the Ohio, ship-of-the-line. In 1851 he was commander of the Norfolk Navy Yard; and in 1852 assigned to the command of the Mediterranean squadron, which he held till 1855. He is next in command of the Charleston Navy Yard, which he held till May, 1859. In March, 1861, he was a member of a naval Court-martial, and while there was appointed flag officer of the Atlantic Blockade squadron. In 1861 Com. Stringham was honored with the preparation of the first of those combined naval and military expeditions which have crowned the American Navy with such glory; and in his case, as in many others, the success has been almost exclusively due to the action of the Navy. The result of this expedition being the capture of the rebel forts Clark and Hatteras, and the surrender of the garrison to Flag-officer Stringham and General Butler, consisting of 715 men, 1000 stand of arms, 75 kegs of powder, 5 stand of colors, 31 cannon (1 of them a 10-inch Columbiad), a brig loaded with cotton, a sloop with provisions and stores, 2 light-boats, 150 bags of coffee, etc. Not a man belonging to the fleet was killed. For this brilliant affair Flag-officer Stringham received the thanks of the Government.

On the 23d of September, 1861, at his own request, he was relieved from his command, and in August, 1862, he was made a Rear-Admiral, on the retired list, and soon after this he was President of the Naval Commission to locate a new Navy Yard. In 1863 he had command of the Navy Yard and station at Charleston, S. C., remained there till 1866. In 1869 he was Port Admiral at New York, and served three years. March 3d, 1873, by Act of Congress, retired officers are prohibited from being employed by Government, except in time of war. Since that time the Admiral is permitted to enjoy a retired life, at his residence, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

For a more full account of the noble and daring deeds and brilliant exploits of Admiral Stringham, see The American Crisis of 1861-'62, by Frank Moore.

I. LEBBEUS LATHROP, son of Hannah Horton and Isaiah Vail, Jr. (Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Goshen, N. Y., 27 Oct., 1791; married SALLY MOORE, a lineal descendant of Thomas Moore, of Southold, L. I.

Children, probably all born in Newburgh, N. Y., where they settled soon after marriage:

"He early engaged in the business of transporting Orange County products to New York, and soon found himself in command of a first-class sloop, of extra heavy tonnage, and his carrying trade of merchandise, passengers, &c., became very extensive. The immense traffic at White Hall Street, East River, prompted Captain Vail to seek some other quarters, more commodious than that he occupied—the city at that time having a population of only about 100,000. He soon found an old acquaintance, formerly a Miss Horton, of West Chester Co., N. Y., who had married Mr. John Van Nostrand, a wholesale grocer. An arrangement was soon consummated, by which Van Nostrand was to move his stock to West Street, and Vail to leave East River and land at the Albany Basin, adjacent to Van Nostrand's store, which arrangement was at once announced to the Hudson River boatmen at White Hall, when, in derision, they laughed at the young Captain's presumption; but Vail and Van Nostrand soon had the laugh on the White Hall advocates, for the entire craft from Orange County soon followed Capt. Vail, discharging regularly his heavy loads of produce from the Bayard.* the first to establish a regular wharf for Orange County produce and passengers on the North River side of New York, and Van Nostrand's grocery was the first ever located in West Street. The following summer Capt. Vail's eyesight became impaired, and he moved to Goshen, New York, where he and Mrs. Vail were popular hotel keepers until the year 1834, when he was elected Clerk of Orange County, and re-elected in 1837, and again in 1840. In 1832 he established at Goshen a Baptist periodical, called the Signs of the Times, which is still in existence, and edited and published at Middletown, New York, by Elder Beebe, the venerable Old-School Baptist preacher. He, also, in 1844, established in Goshen the Clarion, the first Free-Soil newspaper ever established in this part of the State of New York. His religious and political opinions were regarded as ultra or radical, and he was a recognized leader of his sect or party. His general urbanity and good judgment, and his enthusiastic nature, combined with his fine appreciation of the arts, made him popular with all classes of people. He died in Goshen.

"Mrs. Vail survived him over a quarter of a century. She was devotedly attached to him and his children. She was a beautiful woman, and her happiness seemed to centre in their welfare, which her husband reciprocated by leaving her his entire estate, which she left unimpaired at her death, after a life of over four-score years. Their youngest daughter is the well known Madame Martinez, the eminent soprano vocalist and teacher of the voice."

We are indebted to Nathaniel Vail, Esq., of Goshen, for the foregoing record and sketch of Libbeus L. Vail and family.

I. SARAH. daughter of Phineas Horton and Bethia Luce (Nathan, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Chester, N. J., 27 March, 1799; married about 1820, JEREMIAH WILCOX. He died in Illinois. His widow married a MR. RHOADES.

Children, probably, born in Chester:

1. Wibur.
2. Phineas; he was taken by the Mormons and probably killed.
3. Esther Ann.

*The Bayard was the square-rigged topsail sloop, named after the old merchant, of New York, anterior to the Revolution. He was afterwards known as the American Banker, Col. William Bayard. This vessel was afterwards rigged a brig, and sent to sea and lost at Cape Horn, about 1825. Another vessel, bearing the same name, in honor of Col. Bayard, was on the French line of packets—the first established between New York and France, and owned principally by Messrs. Le Roy, Bayard & Co.

II. NATHAN, son of Phineas Horton and Bethia Luce, born in Chester, 27 Dec., 1801; married about 1825, JULIA HORTON, daughter of Nathaniel Horton and Eunice Horton, and born in Chester, about 1803.

Children, probably all born in Chester:

1. Nathaniel Jackson, died 21 Jan., 1859; unmarried.
2. Phineas W.; died 2 May, 1849.
3. Eunice Ann, married Westbrook.
4. Mary Elizabeth.

VI. DANIEL, son of Phineas Horton and Esther Horton, born in Chester, 3 Aug., 1820; married 8 Nov., 1851, by Rev. Mr. Fisher, to LYDIA CRAIG HORTON, daughter of Jonah Horton and Hannah Bryant, and born in Randolph, N. J., 2 Jan., 1827. She died 16 July, 1870; no children. Daniel Horton resides at the old homestead, a few miles from the borough of Chester. He is a well-to-do farmer, and his mother, now (1874) aged and feeble, resides with him. They are pious people, and of good repute among their neighbors.

I. ISRAEL, son of Jonathan and Bethia Horton (Jonathan, Jonathan, Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born at Kingston, N. Y., 1799; married at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, 1843, to JANE McGRAY. Her family were of Puritan stock from Massachusetts at an early day.

Children, born at Yarmouth, N. S.:

1. Israel.
2. Jonathan.
3. Dennis.

II. JONATHAN, son of Jonathan and Bethia Horton, born in Orange Co., N. Y., 1754; married, 1778, SARAH GOLDSMITH of Blooming Grove, N. Y.

Children:

1. Israel. 2. Gabriel.

Sarah Goldsmith died 1786. He married, second, MARY BRADY of Shelburne, Nova Scotia, where he had removed.

Children of second wife:

1. William, born 1787; died 1823.
2. Abraham, born 1789. He was drowned 1808.
3. Benjamin, born 1791.
4. Maria, born 1793.
5. Elizabeth, born 1796.
6. Mary Ann, born 1799.
7. Barnabas, born 1804; died in infancy.

CALEB, son of Barnabas Horton and (perhaps) Rachel Bostwick (Barnabas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born, 1795, at Goshen, Orange Co., N. Y.; married JANE VAN BLARCUM.

Children, all born in Livingston Co., N. Y.:

1. Abigail Dickerson; married Thomas Newman.
2. Darwin Barnabas; married Sarah Springer.
3. William Dickerson; married Katherine Birdsall.
4. Lydia Ann; married Charles Whitney.
5. Erastus Jackson; married Anna Grant.
6. Ira Caleb; married Jane Tongue.
7. Philena Bethia; married John Burgers.
8. Elliott Jonathan; married Emily E. Wright.
9. Harriet Jane; died at 18 years of age.

Eighth Generation—Caleb I.

I. ISAIAH, son of Elisha Horton and Polly (Mary) Horton (Dea. Nathaniel, Nathaniel, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Chester, N. J., 21 July, 1796 married in Aurelius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., 31 Jan., 1817, to CHARLOTTE CHATFIELD. She died 21 Feb., 1854. He died in Wayland, at Spring Water, Livingston Co., N. Y., 22 May, 1873:

Children, probably all born at Spring Water, N. Y.:

1. Amarilla, born 1818; married Stephen Pearl.
2. Maranda married Luther T. Norton, Esq.
3. Hiram, married Mary Briggs.
4. Eliza, married Luther T. Norton, Esq., being his 2d wife.
5. Esther, married Augustus Boughton.
6. Elisha C., dead.
7. Isaiah, married Ruth E. Adams.
8. Mary, married J. B. Tiffany.

HON. NATHANIEL COE, son of Huldah Horton and Joel Coe (Dea. Nathaniel, Nathaniel, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Morris Co., N. J., 12 Sept., 1788; moved with his father to Scipio, N. Y., in 1795; went by sloop to Albany—4 days—thence in wagons up the Mohawk, by way of Schenectady—thence to Cayuga and Wood Creek to Auburn, N. Y., and then Scipio, being one month on the journey. He married in Auburn, N. Y., 5 Oct., 1827, to MARY TAYLOR WHITE, daughter of Lawrence Emery White and _____ and born on Pearl Street, near Broadway, N. Y., 11 March, 1801.

Children:

1. Lawrence White.
2. Cornelia Elizabeth.
3. Charles Carroll.

4. Eugene Francis.
5. Susan Amelia.
6. Henry Clay.

Nathaniel Coe was an honest lawyer and an upright politician. He possessed a superior intellect, and always commanded the respect and esteem of his fellow men. He was long a magistrate, and for four years in succession he represented Livingston and Allegheny Counties in the Legislature of the State of New York. He was often an arbitrator, both in the Church and out of it. In religion he was what was then called, by way of reproach, a radical. In 1829 he went to Nevada. In 1851 he was appointed U. S. Mail Agent for Oregon. He finally settled at Hood River, where, on the 10th Oct., 1868, he died. For several years before his death, he carried on an extensive business in raising fruit, and became quite rich. He was a thoroughly anti-slavery man, and while the Liberty party was in existence, he was its firm and warm supporter. Mrs. Coe resides at Hood River, and her son Charles, who was a superior young man, noted for his piety and sound moral and Christian character, carried on successfully his father's business until his death, which occurred 24 Dec., 1874. His mother said of him, "My heart's beloved has left me, nothing can fill the void. He not only filled his father's place on the farm, but also at the family altar, and notwithstanding his youth, older men came to him for advice on matters temporal as well as religious."

Mrs. Coe is an educated, refined and talented Christian lady—an able and finished writer, and the author of many very pretty verses and poems, and though aged, and having suffered much from ill health, yet her penmanship is neat, and her thoughts and words fresh, warm and vigorous. Speaking of her deceased little infant, Susan Amelia, she says, "To whom, like a dew-drop, kissed off by the sun's morning beam, a beauteous existence was given, whose soul seemed to come down to earth in a dream, only to wake up when it ascended to Heaven." She has kindly given much valuable information in regard to the Hortons of New Jersey and their connections, only a small part of which can appear in the "Chronicles." Mrs. Coe's ancestors, both on her father and mother's side, were originally from England.

RACHEL BENNET, daughter of David Bennet and Mary Coe, and grand-daughter of Huldah Horton, is a maiden lady, intelligent.

well educated and possesses good social qualities; she is a successful teacher. We are indebted to her for many interesting letters, giving genealogical data of members of the Horton family. Her residence was in Chicago, where she was a teacher a few years ago.

II. JOHN SEWARD, son of Edward Horton and Charlotte Seward (David, Nathaniel, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Randolph, Morris Co., N. J., 24 Oct., 1801; married 13 March, 1823, by Elder Hough, of Port Byron, N. Y., to PAULINA CARRIER, daughter of Amziah Carrier and Wealthy Hatch, and born in Brutus, N. Y., 29 Sept., 1804.

Children, all born at Conquest, Cayuga Co., N. Y., except Jane A.:

1. Charlotte, born 8 Jan., 1826; died 14 Aug., 1858.
2. Mary Ann, born March, 1828.
3. Hetty M., born June 9, 1830; died 2 Sept., 1830.
4. Edward L., born 28 Aug., 1824; died 28 March, 1839.
5. Paulina E., born 11 Feb., 1842.
6. Jane A., born at Clarence, Calhoun Co., Mich., 7 Nov., 1847.

Mr. Horton moved with his father to Brutus, N. Y., when three years old; moved to Calhoun, Mich., in 1846, and resides now at Marengo, Mich.

III. DAVID, son of Edward Horton and Charlotte Seward, born in Randolph, Morris Co., N. J., 4 July, 1804; married in Conquest, Cayuga Co., N. Y., 19 Jan., 1826, by the Rev. Mr. Twist, to JANE MCCALLAM, daughter of William McCallam and Anna Crowell, all of Conquest, N. Y.

Children, all born in Conquest, N. Y.:

1. Margaret Ann, born 13 June, 1827; resides in Folsom, Cal.
2. Edward W., born 27 Jan., 1831; resides in Helena, Montana Ter.
3. Victoria E., born 1 May, 1839; resides in Conquest, N. Y.
4. David C., born 2 Sept., 1841; he is a merchant, keeps a general country store in Conquest, N. Y., where he resides. He was married in Conquest, N. Y., 19 April, 1871, by Rev. Daniel D. Davis, to Emma A. Slayton, daughter of Joseph Slayton and Nancy Crowell, and born in Conquest, 20 March, 1851; no children.

David Horton is a farmer—was largely engaged in the oil trade—carrying on a large business in the oil region in Pennsylvania a few years ago. He gave the compiler the first account he ever had of the old tombstone of Barnabas I., as we happened to meet on the cars between Lyons and Rochester, in Oct., 1870.

V. HORACE, son of Edward Horton and Charlotte Seward, born in Randolph, N. J., 2 July, 1810; married MELISSA PUTNAM about 1833.

Children, probably all born in Weedsport or Brutus, N. Y.:

1. Isabella, born 1834; married William E. Merrick, of Weedsport.
2. Eliza, born 31 Dec., 1836; married in Weedsport, 28 Sept., 1869, by Rev. A. R. Hewett, to Augustus Harley Whiting, son of Caleb Whiting, and born in Virgil, Cortlandt Co., N. Y.; have one son, Horace Horton Whiting.

| 4. William, 1828 ; died 1917. | 8. Abigail Elizabeth, 1839. |

Archibald Yard Murray and Abigail Horton were both born in Wallkill township, Orange Co., N. Y. They married in 1817 and went to live at the Murray homestead with the family.

In 1825 Alfred Moore, son of Molly Horton Moore, had come to Michigan. Alfred and Abby (as she was commonly known) had been close friends, as well as cousins, because they had spent so many happy hours together at the home of their mutual grandfather. Leaving their comfortable homes in 1826, Archie and Abby, with their three small children, started for the "far West," as Michigan was considered by them all. Friends went with them to Newburgh, where they took boat for Albany, there to continue by the newly opened Erie Canal. The slow method of travel made it necessary that many of the ordinary housekeeping things had to be done on the boat, as at home, even to the washings, which were hung on deck to dry.

At Sandusky, Ohio, Mr. Murray left his family to wait while he went on to buy land and roll up a house of logs to receive them. Adjoining Alfred Moore's, he took up 350 acres of dense wilderness, unbroken forest, 30 miles west of the present city hall of Detroit. The forest was composed of magnificent trees of beech, maple and oak, for which there was no market, but would now be of great value. These were cut and fallen in windrows, which in the dry season would burn clear. The land had to be cleared to make space for the house, and then more and more cleared to have place to put in the crops. At first, they sowed their wheat around the stumps, wherever there was space, and it grew to wonderful size and quality and was cut by hand and also threshed in the same way.

When the family were brought on to the new home, there was no road, but a blazed trail over logs and around the stumps. Wild animals were common and even the pigpen had to be built of large logs to make it "wolf-proof." There were Indians around for many years, but the Murrays found them friendly and anxious to buy of them.

The log house, in which were born five children of the family, was two stories high with five rooms below and the upstairs approached by a ladder outside at first. In 1838, the brick house was built, the straw and clay being pressed into brick on the place. This was a large house, of ten rooms, the first brick house built anywhere in the neighborhood. Here one more child was born. She remembers today, with much joy, the six fireplaces in the house, and her attic play-room. It was not until the new house was built that there was any cook stove other than the fireplace.

The orchard was set out as fast as land could be cleared for it. Some of the varieties stand out as quite exceptional in size and quality: quinces, berries, yellowcaps, pears, peaches were also grown.

The nearest postoffice was Detroit. It took three days to make the trip to mill and for groceries. There were no stores nearer. In those days, one must pay 25c for a letter when he got it. The oxen soon knew the way home, and if not fastened they would go there. On one journey Mr. Murray, finding a nice place with an enclosure for oxen, approached the house with his request for lodging. This proved to be the home of Gen. Lewis Cass. Out of this incident came a lifelong friendship, as well as political interest. Mr. Murray was a member of the Legislature one term before Michigan was a state and again one after, while the capital was still in Detroit.

“Archie” Murray was a man of much enterprise. In 1846, he built a saw-mill and a few years later a grist mill.

The sons, Andrew and Hiram Murray, took portions of the farm and carried it on successfully through their long lives.

The home always had books and papers to read and education was encouraged. The Old School Baptist Church paper, The Signs of the Times, was a regular visitor as long as Archie and Abby lived.

Abby Horton was a busy woman with her family of eight children. She had a wide reputation as a butter maker because of her great care and her splendid training in it back in Orange Co., which was famous for its butter. They kept geese and the children were taught to pick them. They all had to help in picking wool to make it ready for the spinning and weaving and the girls were taught these arts. Sometimes they raised flax and wove that, too.

The old brick house still stands and is owned by one of the Murray descendants, but the families have all moved away to better and more modern homes.—Ada M. Safford. April 2, 1928.

"We moved from Rathbone to Morris Run, Pa., in 1870, and thence to Watkins, N. Y., 15 March, 1871, and 2 November, of the same year, moved back to Rathbone, and next from Rathbone to Merchantsville, N. Y., 1 April, 1872, and lastly to Williamstown, Mich., where we are now located. Father's health is quite poor, he has been lame in one ankle from his boyhood, and while in Morris Run, Pa., he was nearly killed by the cars. Brother Israel has the old powder-horn, made by his great grandfather, Israel Horton, of Southold, L. I., N. Y. It descended to my father, by virtue of his name, Israel, and by him to Israel, my brother, who now has it, and it is to be handed down in regular succession to each of the family bearing the name of Israel. It will hold about three pounds of common rifle-powder; nicely carved on it are the words, 'Lieut. Israel Horton, his horn, made at Fort Stanwix, Nov. 3, 1758.' The same paint is yet on it that he put on it, and doubtless it will long be an heir-loom in the family of Israels."—Letter of Allie W. Horton, 1874.

MARIA MINNIS HOMET, M. D., daughter of Samuel Minnis and Sarah Horton (Israel, Israel, Jonathan, Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), was born in Phelps, Ontario Co., N. Y., on the 16th June, 1820. Married, in Wyalusing, Bradford Co., Penna., 13 Nov., 1856, by Rev. Ezekiel Carpenter, to EDWARD HOMET, son of Charles Homet and Lucy Stevens, and born in Asylum, Bradford County, Penna., 3d of May, 182--. Mr. Homet followed the business of a civil engineer during his early manhood. He is now an excellent and well-educated farmer, owning a large and beautiful farm on the Susquehanna River, about four miles above the mouth of Wyalusing Creek.

Dr. Maria M. Homet commenced the study of medicine, in Phelps, with Dr. Bannister. In early life she was a very acceptable and successful school-teacher. In 1850 she came to Pennsylvania, and entered the office of Dr. Horton at Terrytown, Pa., and continued the study of medicine. She graduated at the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, in the class of 1853. She returned to Terrytown, and commenced the practice of medicine. She was very successful and popular, and for three years she did an extensive country practice.

They have one child, viz., Lucy Jane Homet, an interesting and amiable young lady, born in Wyalusing 2d April, 1858.

I. JOHN MARTIN, son of John Horton and Rachel Hiler (Israel, Israel, Jonathan, Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Phelps, N. Y., 30 Dec., 1819; married in Rushville, Ontario Co., N. Y., 25 Nov., 1851, by Rev. Robert Parker, to MARY MARTIN BOARDMAN, born in the town of Gorham, Ontario Co., N. Y., 30 Dec., 1824. She is the daughter of Jesse Churchill Boardman and Mary Bunyan.

Children, all born in Phelps:

1. Ellen Maria, born 25 June, 1853; died 19 Feb., 1859.
2. Cyrus Van Renssalaer, born 7 Oct., 1859.

"Our little daughter died where she was born. Should you ever visit the Pine Wood Cemetery, in Phelps, you will find a quite beautiful valley, shaded with evergreens, where she and her Grandpa Horton are buried, and they will be no doubt among those who have a part in the first resurrection, for they were true Christians."—Letter of Mrs. J. M. Horton.

The little girl whose death is mentioned above was a remarkable instance of early piety. She possessed a precocious intellect, which very early became deeply pervaded with the religious element soon ripening into genuine Christianity. Her death-bed scene, though she was less than six years old, was like that of a matured Christian, exhibiting a brilliant trophy of Divine grace, deeply impressive and comforting to all who witnessed it.

II. SAMUEL MINNIS, son of John Horton and Rachel Hiler, born in Phelps, 29 Oct., 1836 married in Phelps, 19 March, 1867, by Rev. George Van Alstine, to SYLVIA ANN COLE, daughter of Cyrus Chapman Cole and Charity Boardman.

Children:

1. Julia May, born in Parma, Jackson Co., Mich., 4 May, 1868.

III. VAN RENSSALAER WAUGH, son of John Horton and Rachel Hiler, born in Phelps, N. Y., 11 Aug., 1829; married in Orleans, N. Y., 28 Aug., 1862, by Rev. Jacob Wader, to ROWENA SPENCER RAFTER, daughter of John Rafter and Eleanor Wilson, and born at Orleans, Phelps Township, 15 April, 1841.

Children:

1. Edgar Clayton, born at Clifton Springs, N. Y., 9 Feb., 1864; died 29 March, 1872. He was a wonderfully intellectual little boy. He seemed to pass through childhood and youth in a few months, and become, as it were, a man in intellect at the age of seven years. He died of scarlatina. On the third day, knowing that his sickness would prove fatal, he said, "Oh dear, I wish it would not be so long," and then added, "Methuselah only lived 969 years." At another time, when his father was fixing the pillow under his head, he said, "I would rather have a stone for my pillow, for Jacob, when he had a stone for his pillow, saw a ladder whose top reached to Heaven, and the Angels of God ascending and descending upon it." Just before he died he repeated the Lord's prayer, and then said, "I am ready to die and go to Heaven," and in a solemn tone, added, "I go down into deep water," and soon after, in a cheerful tone, exclaimed, "but I got into the Ark." On the evening of the third day of his sickness, without a struggle or a groan, "he neared the tide,—sunk as to cradle-rest and died."
2. Minerva Inez, born in Arcadia, N. Y., 6 Sept., 1866.
3. Carlton, born in Parma, Mich., 28 Oct., 1872.
4. Robert Elmer, born 1875.

Y., 8 Jan., 1855, by Edwin Pultz, Esq., to MARY SOPHIA AIKEN, daughter of William Burr Aiken and Mary Marinda Clark, and born in Arcadia, 3 Jan., 1836. They have one son, an only child:

George, born in Arcadia, 11 Oct., 1857; he graduated at Marshall College in June, 1874, with high honors. For his graduating thesis, he wrote a very pretty poem, which was published. He, also during the last year of his college course, made a translation of a portion of Virgil, remarkable for its smooth versification, and also for retaining the sublimity of the original.

Mr. P. D. Horton is one of the best masters of penmanship in the country, is widely known as a teacher, and much respected; he resides in Marshall, Michigan.

V. WILLIAM PERSON, son of John Horton and Rachael Hiler, born at Phelps, Ontario Co., N. Y., 26 Dec., 1821; married by E. Jones, Esq., in Huron, Wayne Co., N. Y., 4 March, 1845, to PHEBE ANN BRINK, daughter of John Brink and Catherine Brink; she was born in Huron, Wayne Co., N. Y., 1 July, 1831.

Children:

1. John Marshall, born at Huron, Wayne Co., N. Y., 4 Dec., 1845.
2. Eunico De Maris, born at Huron, Wayne Co., N. Y., 6 Jan., 1847.
3. Hiler Hossmer, born at Barton, Washington Co., Wis., 22 June, 1858.

8. William Montelius, born 1866 at Troy, Pa.
9. Louisa Josephine, born 1868 at Towanda.
- 10 and 11. Joseph and John (twins); died in infancy.

JOSEPH HOMET HORTON was born 2 June, 1842, at Terrytown, Bradford Co., Pa., the youngest son of Major John Horton, and the only son of his wife, Lydia Horton, nee Kimball.

In boyhood Joseph possessed a person of rare physical beauty, and evinced a bright and happy disposition. He was frank spoken, open, genial and social. His native industry, all through his childhood and youth, displayed great aptitude for business. In all these respects, as was the boy so is the man.

After availing himself of the schools of his native town, in his 16th year he entered upon the English and the commercial courses of study, in the Susquehanna Collegiate Institute, at Towanda, remaining there through 1858 and 1859. He then continued as an efficient clerk in his father's store until August, 1862.

The war for the Union had burst upon the nation. His heart was ablaze with enthusiasm for the Constitution and the Union. His father was proud of the valor and patriotism of his young son. Joseph had become as his right hand, and was his main-stay in business. The fond father hesitated to spare a son so dear to his heart, and so essential to the success of his affairs. At length, like tens of thousands of other fathers, he made the sacrifice for his country, consented, and allowed Joseph to enlist on the 7th of Aug., 1862, at Wyalusing, under Captain George W. Jackson, in Company "A", of the 141st Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. Joseph was a week afterwards (Aug. 14th) elected 1st Lieutenant of this Company.

In September his Regiment was assigned to the 1st Brigade of Birney's (formerly Kearney's) Division in the 3d Army Corps. It was almost immediately put into most active service. Five days after his first battle (that of Fredericksburg), Lieut. Horton was made Captain of his Company, viz.: on the 18th of December.

On the 4th day of the following May (1863) Captain Horton was engaged with his Regiment in the battle of Chancellorsville, Virginia. The Regiment went into this engagement with 419 men, and during the fight had 234 killed or wounded; and for its firm constancy and bravery was warmly complimented, both by General Birney and General Graham.

At Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, in July, 1863, this Regiment was again actively engaged. And of Capt. Horton, Gen. Madill, in his report, says: "Capt. Horton, though severely stunned by concussion of shell, remained in the field, and I am greatly indebted to him for his services, as he was the only Captain left with the Regiment." On the 3d of July, at Gettysburg, Capt. Horton commanded the Regiment. At the morning roll-call of this fearful day, 198 men answered to their names; of this number, 136 were either killed or wounded. On the 31st of the following January (1864) Captain Horton was commissioned Major, commanding his Regiment. And on the 28th of the next month (February, 1864), he was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel, commanding his Regiment until Lee's surrender, April 9th, 1865.

On the 12th of May, Col. Horton was wounded, during the engagement at Spottsylvania, Virginia, by a gun-shot through his left forearm and in his left hip.

During his wounded condition, he was visited by his uncle, Hon. George F. Horton, M. D., and was tenderly nursed by his sister, Louisa, wife of Hon. Uriah Terry. While convalescing, and not yet well enough to take the field, he was appointed on several Courts-Martial, and also had charge of several convoys of new men; conducting them to posts along the southern seaboard.

With his Regiment, he was honorably mustered out of the service at the close of the war, May 28th, 1865.

Of Col. Horton's old Company "A", consisting of 117 members, there were killed, 16; died, 9; discharged for disability, 20; discharged for wounds, 15; transferred to veteran corps for wounds, 7; transferred to 57th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, for unexpired term of service, 14; absent in hospital, wounded, 4; dishonorably discharged, 1; leaving, at the mustering out of the Regiment, of the whole 117, only 31.

Col. Horton was engaged in the following battles, namely: Fredericksburg, Cedars, Chancellorville, Gettysburg, Widerness, Spottsylvania, Petersburg, Weldon Railroad, White Oak Road, Sailors' Creek, and at Lee's surrender; besides participating in many small skirmishes.

Honorably freed from his military service by the happy close of the war, Col. Horton hastened home to be the business stay of his aged father, and was actively engaged in mercantile pursuits up to 1871.

In October (24th) 1866, he was married, at Worcester, Massachusetts, to ABBY H. NEWCOMB, only daughter of Charles and Lucy R. Newcomb, of that city. Miss Lucy Sanderson Horton is their only child; she was born December 18th, 1872.

Since 1871, Col. Horton has been living at Birch Creek (formerly Bernice Colliery), Sullivan County, Pa., and is Superintendent of "The Sullivan Anthracite Coal Company's" works, located at that place.

The high appreciation in which he is held by the Company, is shared by the community under his employ, who have several times combined in tendering to him, as their Superintendent and considerate friend, testimonials of large intrinsic value, but still more valuable as evidences of their cordial and grateful esteem.

The Republicans of his County unanimously urged him as their nominee for Congress in the fall of 1874, but were overruled by the other Counties of the District.

II. JULIA, daughter of Geo. F. Horton and Abigail Terry (John, Israel, Jonathan, Jonathan, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born at Terry-town, Bradford Co., Pa., 24 Oct., 1834; married at Terrytown, 11 June, 1861, by Rev. D. Cook, of the Presbyterian Church, to CHARLES STEVENS HOMET, son of Charles Homet and Lucy Stevens, and grandson of Frederick Nicholas Charles Homet and Maria Theresa Scheilenger, who were born in France, the former being one of the commissaries of the household of Louis XVI., the latter one of the chambermaids of the Queen. At the fall of Louis they made their escape and came to America. They had never had any acquaintance with each other until they found themselves passengers on the same ship to this country. Their acquaintance on the ship soon ripened into a mutual attachment, and on their arrival in New York they were married. After tarrying awhile at Bottle Hill, now Madison, in New Jersey, where Charley, the first child, was born, they came to Asylum, settling for two years away back in the wilderness, but at length on the Susquehanna River, where Francis X. Homet, Esq., now resides.

C. S. Homet was born in Asylum 20 May, 1830; settled in Wyalusing in 1861, where he now resides, and is a successful farmer. He and his wife are members of the Presbyterian Church, and he is one of the elders.

W. T. Horton is a farmer and merchant at Terrytown. He volunteered in the service of his country in July, 1862, assisted in raising Co. A., 141st Regiment Pa. Volunteers, Infantry, and was chosen 2d Lieutenant. He was honorably discharged per order of the Secretary of War, by reason of illness, in Dec., 1862. He shortly afterwards engaged in the service again as clerk in the Quartermaster's department, at Murfreesboro, Tenn., where he remained until the close of the war.

V. JOHN BURLEIGH, son of Geo. F. Horton and Abigail Terry, born at Terrytown, 8 Jan., 1842; married at West Danby, Tompkins Co., N. Y., 24 Feb., 1875, by Rev. Wm. Sharp, to EVA LAMIRA TUPPER, daughter of James Sturdevant Tupper and Lamira Truesdell, and born in Rush, Susquehanna Co., Pa., 12 April, 1851.

John B. Horton is a farmer and merchant at Terrytown.

VI. DEBBIE EMILY, daughter of Geo. F. Horton and Abigail Terry, born at Terrytown, 7 Nov., 1843; married at Terrytown, 30 June, 1868, by Rev. D. Craft, to WILLIAM JAMES HILLIS, M. D., son of Richard Hillis and Margaret Nesbit, and born in Herrick, Bradford Co., Pa., in 1841. He commenced the practice of medicine at Barclay, Bradford Co., Pa., where he commenced house-keeping, but his wife's health failing, she returned to Terrytown, where she died from tuberculosis, 1869.

VII. NANCY TERRY, daughter of Geo. F. Horton and Abigail Terry, born at Terrytown, 15 July, 1846:

HILLIS—On Friday, March 26th, 1869, at the residence of her father, Dr. G. F. Horton, in Terrytown, Mrs. Deborah E., wife of Dr. W. J. Hillis, of Barclay. She was born Nov., 1844, born again Feb., 1866, and has passed from earth to heaven.

HORTON—In Terrytown, Jan. 7, 1872, Miss Nancy T., daughter of Dr. G. F. and Abigail Horton, aged 25 years.

Decided in her convictions, yet with charity for all, amiable in disposition and warm in her affections, she won a large circle of friends, who sympathize with her immediate relatives in this bereavement. She availed herself of every advantage afforded to store her mind with useful knowledge. Diligent as a pupil, she was successful as a teacher, exhibiting unflagging energy and patience in the school room, she surpassed most in securing the love and advancement of her pupils. She was sustained through a long and painful illness by an unfaltering trust in her covenant keeping Saviour, and with her feet firmly set on the Rock of Ages by a living faith, fearlessly entered the dark valley, fearing no evil.

VIII. MARY ELIZA, daughter of Geo. F. Horton and Abigail Terry, born at Terrytown, 24 April, 1850, married at Terrytown, 1 Oct., 1873, by Rev. D. Craft, to WILLIAM ROSS SUTTON, son of Oliver C. Dr. Baldwin was the founder of the village of Baldwinsville, N. Y. J. G. Horton, in a letter of August 26, 1874, says: "We moved from Palmyra to Michigan when it was yet a territory. We were three miles from any white settlers, but we had plenty of Indians. Where the city of Flint now stands, it was then all a dense wilderness, and when the town of Atlas was organized forty years ago, we had seventeen votes all told. The county of Genesee has now twelve flourishing villages besides the city of Flint, which has a population of about eleven thousand."

By his 2nd wife he has one daughter, Mary Susan, born in Atlas, 22 May, 1851. They moved from Atlas to Flint in 1859, where they now reside. He is a farmer and surveyor.

I. HARVEY ADDISON, M. D., son of Dr. Harvey Horton and Mary Bennet (Barnabas, Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born at Greenville, Orange Co., N. Y., 12 March, 1832; married in Middletown, N. Y., in March, 1859, to FANNY CAROLINE BEEBE, daughter of Elder Gilbert Beebe, the distinguished and able editor of the "Signs of the Times." and sister of the Hon. George M. Beebe, member of Congress from Orange Co., N. Y., and born in Middletown, N. Y., exact date not given. Dr. Horton graduated in Albany Medical College, Class of 1856. He established an office and commenced the practice of medicine at Middletown, N. Y., and was very successful. After his marriage he removed to Kansas, and settled at Atchison. On his way returning home from a journey East he was instantly killed, 3 Sept., 1861, by the fall of a bridge with a train of cars upon it, one of which he was in, which spanned the Little Platte River, nine miles east of St. Joseph, Missouri. The bridge had been partly burned by the rebels, but left standing ready to fall when the cars came upon it, for the purpose of killing Union soldiers. Thirteen persons were killed, and over eighty badly injured by this barbarous outrage. The Doctor's corpse was taken to Middletown, and buried in the Hill Cemetery by the side of his father, and mother, and sisters.

They had one child, Mary Evelyn, born 3 Aug., 1861. After the death of her husband, the Doctor's wife returned to Orange Co., where the little child died, 21 Oct., 1861, and was buried by the side of its dead father.

Dr. Horton was a man of superior mental capacity, possessed high literary talent, was deeply learned in his profession, and doubtless, had he lived, would have attained to great eminence in the science of medicine.

III. HON. ALBERT HOWELL, son of Dr. Harvey A. Horton and Mary Bennet, born near Brookfield, in the town of Minnisink, Orange Co., N. Y., 13 March, 1837; married in Middleton, N. Y., by the Rev. Mr. Harris, 26 May, 1864, to ANNA AMELIA ROBERTSON, daughter of William Wells Robertson and Adaline Sayer, and born in Centerville, Minnisink Township, 2 July, 1840.

Children:

1. Carrie Robertson, born in Middletown, N. Y., 22 April, 1865.
2. Mary Bennet, born in Atchison, Kansas, 12 July, 1868.
3. Rosa Sayer, born in Atchison, Kansas, 2 June, 1871.
4. Albert Howell, born in Atchison, Kansas, 1 April, 1874.

Albert H. Horton attended the public school at West Town, N. Y., until 13 years of age, and then attended the "Farmer's Hall Academy," at Goshen, Orange Co., New York, and was there prepared for college. He entered the "University of Michigan," as a freshman, and remained there two years, but was compelled to leave college on account of inability to study, owing to some trouble with his eyes. In 1857, he entered the law office of Hon. Joseph W. Gott, at Goshen, New York, as a law student, and remained there until December 18th, 1858, when he was admitted as a counsellor and attorney-at-law, at a general term of the N. Y. Supreme Court, held in Brooklyn, New York. In 1859, he went West, with his brother, and the Hon. George M. Beebe, now member of Congress from New York State, to engage in the practice of the law. He formed a partnership in the law business with Mr. Beebe, under the firm name of Beebe & Horton, at Macou, Moscow, Mo., in 1859, but both parties soon became tired of Missouri, and removed to Kansas. Mr. Beebe soon became Secretary of the Territory of Kansas, and their acting Governor. Mr. Horton selected Atchison, Atchison Co., Kansas, as his adopted home, and has resided there ever since. In 1860, he was appointed City Attorney of Atchison, by the Mayor, the Hon. Geo. H. Fairchild. In the Spring of 1861, he was elected City Attorney of the same city, on the Union ticket. In September of 1864, he was appointed District Judge of the 2d Judicial District, of Kansas, by the Governor, Hon. Chas. H. Robinson. He was elected and re-elected to the same office, and then resigned in 1865, to continue the practice of his profession. On his entering practice, he was again elected City Attorney of Atchison, and held the position one year. In 1868, he was elected as one of the State Electors on the Republican State ticket in Kansas, and was selected the messenger to take the vote of Kansas to Washington, to be deposited with the Vice-President for Grant and Colfax. From 1861 to 1864, in addition to attending to the duties of Judge of the District Court, he edited, with Hon. John J. Ingalls, the weekly "Champion"—a newspaper printed and published at Atchison. Mr. Ingalls is now the U. S. Senator from Kansas. In May, 1869, Mr. Horton was appointed by President Grant, U. S. District Attorney of Kansas, and he held this office until July 18th, 1873, and then resigned the position. Upon the resignation of Judge Delabay, U. S. Judge of Kansas, in 1874, Mr. Horton's name was mentioned very prominently in connection with the vacant Judgeship, and at a State Bar meeting, called to recommend names for the position, Mr. Horton was presented by the majority of the lawyers present for the place. Owing to some difference of opinion among the Kansas delegation in Congress, however, Hon. C. G. Foster, of Atchison, was appointed in his stead. Mr. Horton still continues the practice of his profession at Atchison, and is the local attorney of the Chicago and Rock Island R. R. Co., and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe R. R. Co., at that place. In March, 1873, Mr. Horton was associated with the Hon. Caleb Cushing, of Massachusetts, in the defence of Senator S. C. Pomeroy, before the U. S. Senate Investigating Committee, charged to inquire into certain pretended charges of bribery, connected with the Senatorial election in Kansas, in January, 1873. After a lengthy examination, Senator Pomeroy was acquitted by a majority of the Senatorial Committee. Afterwards the charges against Mr. Pomeroy were dismissed in Kansas, and the case against him never came to trial. In the Fall of 1873, Mr. Horton was elected by upwards of 500 majority to the Legislature of Kansas, and took a prominent part in the impeachment of Hon. Josiah E. Hayes, State Treasurer of Kansas. Mr. Horton was chairman of the committee which reported and carried the impeachment through the House, in February, 1874, and was then appointed Chairman of the Board of Managers to prosecute the impeached Treasurer before the State Senate. The State Treasurer then resigned, and the impeachment ended. In politics Mr. Horton is a Republican, but belongs to the Conservative side of the party.

The celebrated York-Pomeroy Bribery Case was brought to a final termination on the eleventh of March, 1875, and the $7,000 historic package was turned over to Mr. Pomeroy's counsel, the Hon. A. H. Horton. Great credit is due Judge Horton for his untiring efforts in having such an unjust and malicious prosecution brought to a close.

In 1877 Mr. Horton was appointed as a member of the Supreme Court of Kansas. He was elected and then re-elected twice more as Chief Justice of the Court. He served eighteen years on the bench and then resigned to become general solicitor for M. P. Railway for the states of Kansas, Oklahoma, western Missouri and southern Nebraska with offices at Topeka, Kansas.

Anna Amelia Horton died 1882. He then married MARY M. PRESCOTT, 1886. He died in 1902.

All his children are yet living at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The flourishing city of Horton, Kansas, is named for Judge Albert H. Horton.

IV. ANNA ELIZA, daughter of Parmenas H. Horton and Millicent Howell (Barnabas, Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas), born in Middletown, N. HON. WILLIAM HORTON Boone, N. C.

XI. RUFUS DULA, son of Gen. William Horton and Milley Dula, born at Yadkin River. He resides at Elkville, at the old homestead of his father, and his sister Sarah lives with him. He is not married.

I. HON. WILLIAM, son of Phineas Horton and Rebecca Council (Nathan, Nathan, Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born on New River, 9 March, 1828; married at the residence of his wife's father, near Boone, N. C., 1860, to NANCY REBECCA BLAIR, only daughter of Henry Blair and Mary Steele, and born in Caldwell N. C., 26 Aug., 1835—the Rev. Joseph Harrison, a deaf preacher, officiating.

Children, all born at New River:

5. Mary Emma, born 23 Feb., 1869.
6. Addie Elizabeth, born 1 May, 1871.
7. Henry Walter, born 5 July, 1873.

William Horton, at the early age of 18 years, was elected Lieutenant in the militia, and afterwards from one position to another, until he held the office of Colonel, in 1862, and during the war. He also held the office of County Surveyor, from 1849 to 1862, when he was elected to the State Legislature, and re-elected in 1864, and again in 1866. Notwithstanding his official stations, he still claims the honor of being a farmer, and makes his home with his honored father, making the old gentleman's closing years as pleasant as possible.

“Many of the Horton Family of North Carolina have lived to old age. They are generally regarded as a clever, honest, liberal and charitable people. They possess good social qualities, and are generally very popular, and these characteristics, capability being added, account for so many of them holding public positions. Many of them are public professors of Christianity, and belong to the Baptist and Methodist denominations.

“In politics they were formerly Whigs—were all faithful to, though not fully approving, the cause of the late Southern Confederacy. They are now all conservative, and acting with the Democratic party. Though generally intelligent, educated and talkative, there has never yet one of them been a preacher or a lawyer, and but one a physician. They are nearly all engaged in agricultural pursuits, and generally fond of amusements, such as hunting, fishing, etc.”—Letter of Hon. William Horton, of Boone, N. C., Dec., 1874.

II. NATHAN, son of Phineas Horton and Rebecca Council, born on New River, 22 Oct., 1829. He was a Captain in the militia before the war, and also held the office of county proccessioner for several years.

He volunteered in Capt. T. V. Crumpter's Co. A., 1st Reg't, N. C. Troops (cavalry), and was promoted to a Lieutenancy in Capt. Jonathan Horton's Co. (B.), 37 Reg't, N. C. Troops (infantry), in the Fall of 1863. He was in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va., and others which followed, until he reached Gettysburg, where he was severely wounded by a minie ball, which he yet carries under his shoulder. He was captured and taken to the hospital near Chester, Pa., I think, where he remained about two months. He was then taken to Johnson's Island, Ohio, where he says, that the suffering from hunger was so great that rats were freely eaten by the prisoners. After remaining there about twenty months, he was released on parole, and got home in March, 1865. Soon after his return home he was elected County Surveyor, and he has been re-elected several times, and he still holds the office. He was married 27 May, 1875, by Rev. Dr. Wogg, to JULIETT GENTRY, daughter of W. H. Gentry, of Jefferson, N. C.

While in the army he was promoted to the rank of Major by President Lincoln, for meritorious service. In 1869 he was a member of the Legislature of Michigan.

I. RUTH ANN, daughter of Nelson Horton and Sarah Shons (Silas Danes, Silas, Silas, Barnabas, Barnabas, Caleb, Barnabas I.), born in Wallkill, N. Y., 14 June, 1838. She is an intelligent maiden lady—a live member of the Old School Baptist Church. She has rendered valuable assistance in gathering up genealogical data of her branch of the Horton family; under date of May, 1871, she says: "In regard to leading traits of character of the Horton family, I may speak of the disposition manifested in my own line. Some might set them down as too dogmatical. I do admit that most of them are rather tenacious of their own opinions. Especially were my grandfather and his brother Barnabas positive and firm men. But I do not think this trait of character is so prominent in other branches of the family. In regard to punctuality and uprightness, they can present as untarnished a record as any other family. I have never heard of any of them being imprisoned for debt or misdemeanor. Their social standing has always been good. As to mental capacity, I believe they have generally been people of good common sense. They have not, as far as I know, ever made any special mark in the literary or scientific world. Politically, as a general thing, they embrace and adhere to the Democratic idea—the idea of freedom and equal rights. They have mainly followed agricultural pursuits. I believe frugality has ever been a leading characteristic of the family, in all its history, and we find this trait of character still prominent, despite the great amount of prodigality and unthrift witnessed in these times.”

Americans are beginning to realize the moral as well as the historical significance of genealogical foundations. A nation which relies upon the record of its homes for its national character cannot afford to ignore the value of genealogical investigation as one of the truest sources of patriotism. The love of home inspires the love of country.

There is a wholesome influence in genealogical research which cannot be estimated.

Moreover, there is a deep human interest in it.

The Horton family is one of distinguished lineage and ranks as one of the oldest families, not only in North Carolina, but in the United States, founded by Barnabas Horton, 1633.

The founder of the family in North Carolina was Colonel Nathan Horton of Revolutionary fame.

James Crittenden Horton, first in order of birth of the children of Hon. William Horton and Nancy Rebecca Blair, is a native of Boone, Watauga Co.

He was reared on the old Horton homestead, on which his great grandfather originally settled, and was educated in the neighboring schools.

In addition to managing the fine old farm on which he now lives, he was, for several years Democratic County Chairman, while living in Boone.

For four years he was in the employ of the government internal revenue service and for a time he served most efficiently as a member of the Board of County Commissioners of Watauga Co.

In the latter connection he was particularly active as pioneer in the building of good roads in Watauga Co.

He also was Clerk to the Legislature and was appointed inspector for the Department of Agriculture, which position he held ten years.

It is most unfortunate that Mr. Horton for the past ten years, as a result of a stroke of paralysis, has been an invalid.

He is confined to his home, but his general health is good. His bright mentality and his genial good spirit is in no way impaired.

He has a multitude of loyal good friends, whose delight it is to visit him in his hospitable home and to enjoy frequent chats with him.

The Horton home was saddened by the untimely death of Mrs. Horton, who was in her 54th year.

She was the daughter of John Elrod, relative of Henry C. Elrod, recently Governor of South Dakota.

Mrs. Horton was a woman of most pleasing personality and was dearly beloved by all with whom she came in contact.

Taking her mother's place with its varied responsibilities is an only child, a daughter, Miss Carrie Rebecca Horton, a beautiful and highly cultured young lady. She is especially talented as a painter and has painted many copies of the Horton Arms design.

One could hardly imagine a lovelier home than that of Mr. Horton, for "Lynwood," as it is everywhere known, is interesting, both for its historical associations and family traditions and the beauty and romantic nature of its location and surroundings. The estate consists of 300 acres, on which general farming and stock raising are conducted with marked success.

It is located five miles east of Boone on the right bank of New River, the house being situated on a commanding elevation above the river.

This location is in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains and affords many inspiring views, one particularly, Howard's Knob, a few miles to the west.

The farm is in the midst of beautiful and luxuriant forests and mountain meadows and is to an unusual degree a charming and delightfully restful place of abode.

The house, itself of old time construction, is of enduring and solid material and is large and commodious, additions having been built to it, both by Mr. Horton and his father. Among other comforts and conveniences is running water by gravity piped 2,300 feet from a mountain spring of purest cold water. The most attractive feature of the Horton home, however, is the unfailing hospitality extended to all comers.

A cheery word and a glad hand is extended to the numerous friends and callers and Mr. Horton and his charming daughter are considered among the most congenial entertainers in this section of the country.

This lineage and review is a transcript from the Biographic History of North Carolina.

II. JONATHAN BLAIR, son of William Horton and Nancy Rebecca Blair, born at New River, N. C., 1862; married ANGIE RUTH SMITH of Lynchburg, Virginia.

| 1. Sara Lillian, born 1913. | 3. Henry Walter, born 1917. |
| 2. Rebecca Sue, born 1915. | 4. Wanda Ruth, born 1925. |

Henry Walter Horton is a live, wide awake business man, thoroughly public spirited and progressive. He has been conspicuously concerned in many commercial enterprises, his remarkable capacity for handling of multitudinous details having made him a leader in the establishment of the numerous beneficial projects with which he has been officially identified.

A native of North Carolina, he was born on a plantation near Boone, Watauga Co., being a son of Honorable William Horton and a descendant in the ninth generation from one Barnabas Horton.

He was born on the home farm, July 4, 1873, was educated in the public schools and at New River College, and as a boy acquired some knowledge of agriculture.

At the age of eighteen, he entered upon a business career, becoming a clerk in the commissary department of the North Carolina Midland Railroad Company, which was then building a railway extending from Goldsboro to Charlotte.

Returning home at the end of the year, he worked on the farm for awhile, and then accepted a position as travelling salesman in Georgia. Coming to North Wilkesboro, 1898, Mr. Horton was assistant station agent for about two years and during the ensuing eight years was a clerk in the Bank of North Wilkesboro.

In the meantime with characteristic foresight and energy, he had organized the Citizens' Loan & Trust Company, of which he has since been Secretary and Treasurer.

In 1900 he purchased the Wilkesboro telephone properties, which he now owns, and is operating under the name of the Horton Telephone Company.

Mr. Horton was also the organizer and is the Secretary and Treasurer of the Gwyn-Horton Fire and Life Insurance Co. In 1911 he organized the Kensington Heights Land Company, of which he was made Secretary and Treasurer.

Purchasing in the center of town, ten acres of land, in which is included the site of the "Red House," the first dwelling erected in the place, the company platted the tract and put it on the market. If the full history of this old house was written it would fill a large volume. A few items may be of interest to coming generations.

In 1760 in Colonial days Charles Gordon came to this part of North Carolina, which was then a wilderness, through which Indians and wild beasts roamed at will, and on the site of the present building erected what was called the "Red House."

It was built of logs and sawed flat on two sides with a crosscut saw. The doors were made with portholes, so that the occupants might ascertain friend or foe before opening the door.

The slope of the hill in all directions was kept clear, so that in case of an attack the savages might be shot before reaching the house, the range of firearms in those days being about 100 yards.

Whenever the Indians became enraged and went on the warpath, the settlers would gather from far and near and take refuge at the "Red House," the women and children inside, while the men went out to fight.

Wilkes County was not then formed, the only inhabitants being a small band of Moravians, who a few years before had taken up land on the south side of the river in the vicinity of Wilkesboro and Moravian Falls.

The present house, the first frame house erected in this section, was built by Chapman Gordon, son of Charles Gordon and grandfather of General John B. Gordon of Georgia, one of the noted generals of the Confederate Army.

There may be some of the original house in the one now standing. The nails were made by a blacksmith; machine made nails were unknown and unthought of.

In the early days the "Red House" was the scene of many social events and a center of interest.

Its first occupants fought in many engagements with the enemy, including the Battle of King's Mountain. They also served in the United States Senate, and Chapman Gordon had the distinction of being the first Clerk of the Court of Wilkes County.

Mr. Horton now owns and occupies the house that was built on that spot by Chapman Gordon, it having been moved from its original site.

In addition to the many organizations of which Mr. Horton is serving as secretary and treasurer, he is vice president and director of the North Wilkesboro Deposit and Savings Bank.

He is interested in the automobile business and has always been an earnest advocate of good roads, a zealous worker in the latter cause. He is now secretary of the Wilkes County Good Roads Association, which has charge of the extensive work now going on.

Mr. and Mrs. Horton are active and faithful members of the Baptist Church and are bringing up their children in that faith.

Mr. Horton is a deacon in the church and for fifteen years has taught a Bible class in its Sunday school.

When the present church edifice was erected Mr. Horton served as treasurer of the building committee.

The foregoing lineage and account is a transcript from the Biographic History of North Carolina, 1919, of six volumes.

PROFESSOR GEORGE W. ALLOWAY
Saxton, Pa.

CALEB

3rd Son of Barnabas Horton

THE ALLOWAY COLLECTION.

The compilation of records and history of the three sons, Samuel, Nathan, and John, of Richard Horton and Elizabeth Harrison (6th Generation), whose forefathers were Caleb, Barnabas, Caleb Barnabas 1st.

George W. Alloway, son of Mary Horton and Eli Alloway, was left fatherless at 12 years of age. He made his way with utmost hardship and under a rigid discipline that "taught me many valuable lessons" until he was 17 years of age.

Being of a studious nature, he had improved his mind in spite of limited opportunity of schooling and began his long and busy life of school teaching, lasting over a period of fifty-four years. The last forty-five was as principal—four years in one building, eighteen in another and twenty-three in another in Youngstown, Ohio.

Studying and teaching continuously, he matriculated with the North Eastern Ohio Normal College, 1896, and graduated therefrom with an A. B. degree.

He has held many honorable positions of trust and leadership in the interest of scholastic education.

A faithful and devoted Christian from his early years, he joined the Methodist Church and has been an active and valued member, holding many offices in its councils and activities. He was made secretary of the official board of the great Trinity Church of Youngstown, Ohio, and served as such twenty-six years, later he was made secretary emeritus of the same. He is also closely affiliated with the work of the Y. M. C. A. and devoted to its activities in his city. He is also a member of many social, fraternal and benevolent organizations.

At the mellow age of 74 years he is living a retired life with his sister, Miss Elizabeth Alloway, and his widowed daughter, Mrs. Nellie E. Hayes, in Saxton, Pennsylvania.

He has gathered, compiled and arranged these annals for the pleasure and information of his family connections with painstaking fidelity, that they be not lost out of the memory of these descendants. He is preparing to publish the collection of records in available form later, and has kindly permitted the use of them for "the Hortons in America," thereby adding in interest and value to the account of this most worthy branch of Hortons.

He writes: these early Hortons mentioned were industrious, skillful and intelligent and of the deepest piety. Their chief pursuits were agriculture, "that noblest occupation," says Washington. Also, they were mechanics and builders. There were many school teachers and educators, the law, the ministry, medicine and finance occupied others. Their characteristic foundation of integrity, industry and steadfastness was so securely laid that their ancestral heritage is beyond price.

They have had the rare good fortune of marrying into desirable families which have added lustre to their historic and genealogic pages. It is fair to say that their descendants have used these foundational qualities in a manner befitting worthy children of a noble parentage.

CHAPTER II. RICHARD

RICHARD HORTON, son of Caleb Horton II and Phebe Terry, was born in Southold, Long Island, in 1727. He married Elizabeth Harrison. They had seven children, all born at Radnor, Pa.

1. Samuel, b. 1752 settled in Huntingdon County, Pa.
2. Nathan, b. 1754, settled in Huntingdon County, Pa.
3. Josiah, b. 1756.
4. Jesse.

“Effie Coglan Shoesmith was a woman of great ability, refinement and culture, who was beloved by all who knew her. Because of her fine intelligence and gracious and friendly disposition she was a great help and inspiration to her family and friends, and considered no sacrifice too great to make in their behalf.

“She was especially interested in progressive movements for the betterment of the community in which she lived and took an active part in educational and welfare work helping to promote the cause of woman suffrage and the organization of child welfare associations and community activities. She was a member of the State Federated Woman’s Clubs of Iowa.

“She had many interests in life, but her most loving thoughts centered in her home and family. She carefully trained and directed the education of her children and as a result of her help and inspiration her four daughters are graduates of the State University of Iowa and her son from the University of Michigan.

“She was active in religious work and was a deep student of the Bible, graduating from teachers’ and students’ courses of religious instruction. Her influence was far-reaching and her life an example and inspiration to all who knew her.”

CHAPTER 5. PART 1. RICHARD, NATHAN, HENRY, THOMAS

HENRY HORTON born in West Chester, Pa., married Elizabeth White, daughter of Thomas White, a distinguished disguised Indian in the Boston Tea Party. She was born Jan. 28, 1790, and was married Sept. 22, 1812. They had eight children:

1. Thomas W. Horton, born June 12, 1813.
2. Nathan W. Horton, born May 3, 1815.
3. William W. Horton, born July 4, 1817.
4. Hannah Horton, born March 21, 1819.
5. Jessie W. Horton, born June 12, 1822.
6. George W. Horton, born August 31, 1824.
7. Alexander W. Horton, born January 5, 1828.
8. Mary Horton, born August 4, 1832.

THOMAS WHITE, a distinguished soldier of the Revolution, member of the Boston Tea Party, came to America, 1771, to Philadelphia.

Thomas White was of protestant Irish parentage, born in Kilkenny, Ireland, 1739. He was probably a visitor to the Masonic lodge of St. Andrews, Boston, the night when they disguised as Indians and swept the cargo of tea into the water.

His stay in Boston could not have been long. The next heard of him was in the war he helped to start.

His record is that of a soldier in the Continental Army in the 2nd Pennsylvania Regiment, 1776 to 1881, in McTeers Company of Cumberland County Militia and also in Captain Harrell's Volunteers against the Indians, serving in some capacity the eight years of the war.

Afterward he and his wife, Elizabeth Jones, who was his helper and inspiration immigrated to the wilds of Huntingdon County, and took up a tract of land which they cleared and developed into a valuable farm.

There were twenty-one children. Three of his sons served in the war of 1812. His son Ezekiel was killed at Lundy's Lane.

Thomas White died 1820 at 81 years of age and lies buried by his wife on their farm.

His descendents and members of Patriotic Societies erected an enduring monument to their memory.

The inscription reads: "In memory of Thomas White, One of the Brave Heroes of The Boston Tea Party and a Revolutionary Soldier and Patriot for American Independence." The opposite side recites the family dates of births and deaths.

The monument was unveiled July 4th, 1899, with appropriate ceremonies and orations of dedication and reunion of descendants. The affair was the subject of sketches in many of the eastern periodicals, making it of national importance.

The children and children's children of Thomas White are allied by marriage with Hortons and Horton descendants. Their posterity is unnumbered.

CHAPTER 5. PART 2. RICHARD, NATHAN, HENRY, NATHAN W.

NATHAN WHITE HORTON, born May 3, 1815, in Broad Top, Pa., married, first, Rosanna Miller. They had eight children:

Samuel Miller, Joseph Miller, Maria, Catherine, Laura, Henry, Edwin A., Jessie Benton.

I. SAMUEL MILLER HORTON, born at Broad Top, Huntingdon County, near Johnstown, Pennsylvania, May 6, 1838, eldest son of Nathan White and Rosanna (Miller) Horton. Early years lived in Johnstown, Pa. Received his early education at Gettysburg College. In 1856 began the study of medicine with Dr. Sinclair of Indiantown, Pa. In 1857 studied with Dr. John Lowman of Johnstown, continuing with him until 1859, when he entered Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, graduating in March, 1861, with degree of M. D. From March until August, 1861 engaged in private practice in Ithaca, New York, associated with Dr. Hawley.

Entered the regular Army in August, 1861, as Assistant Surgeon, with rank of First Lieutenant. Brevetted Major at Battle of Vicksburg "for faithful and meritorious service", with successive promotions to Captain, Major, Deputy Surgeon General, Lieutenant Colonel and Colonel in the regular Army of the United States.

During the early period of the Civil War he was detailed to hospital duty in the South and middle West. During the series of Indian Wars which followed the Civil War Colonel Horton was for many years stationed on the western frontier. He was Post Surgeon at Fort Phil Kearney at the time of the Indian Massacre there when some 80 officers and soldiers were massacred by the Sioux Indians. He also served in the White River Expedition in 1879. Some descriptions of Colonel Horton's part in these Indian Wars may be found in Cyrus Townsend Brady's book, "Indian Fights and Fighters", and also in "Army Life on the Plains", by General Henry B. Carrington.

Following the Indian Campaigns, Colonel Horton was stationed at many Army Forts and Garrisons, including Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y.; Fort McKavett, Texas; Fort McHenry, Maryland; Fort Douglas, Utah; Fort Riley, Kansas; West Point; Fort Adams, Newport. He was retired from active Army service while on duty at San Diego, California, in 1894.

The history of Colonel Horton's Indian warfare years and the great and often thrilling vicissitudes through which he and his young wife passed should have been written up as a story entire, but neither he nor his wife sought such publicity and with them passed all their memories of exciting days in the making of the history of the Western country so far as their having put it down in their own writing is concerned. Mrs. Horton's part in this life was especially interesting, because so foreign to her own upbringing, an aristocratic Southern girl, who had never known any form of manual labor or hardship, brought up among endless darkies on her father's estate, and then taken, a bride, on those pioneer expeditions, so fraught with danger from the Indians and so primitive in mode of living, as to form the very greatest contrast imaginable to her life as a girl.

He died in Albany, N. Y., November 23, 1918, and was buried with the honors of war in the Officers Section of the National Cemetery at Arlington.

He married, July 1, 1865, Sallie Knox Dunnica, daughter of Judge James Dunnica and Nancy (Knox) Dunnica, of St. Louis, Mo. Sallie Knox Dunnica Horton died in Boston, Mass., October 14, 1923, and is buried at Arlington beside her husband, in the Officers Section. Children:

SUPPLEMENT

Jesse W. Horton, grandson of Thomas White of Boston Tea Party fame, displayed the same true patriotism when the Civil War broke out by enlisting in Co. C, 45th Cavalry, Volunteer Infantry and marching to the front. He was mustered into service in 1861 and moved rapidly southward. He was assigned to General O. O. Howard's brigade and camped on a part of the battlefield of Bladenburg of the 1812 war.

Smallpox and measles broke out in the camp and those able to go were moved to Fortress Monroe. Other movements included Port Royal, S. C.; Braddock Point, Fort Pulaski. At the latter place, 386 Confederates surrendered and were taken to Newport News where Mr. Horton and his comrades joined General Burnside's division.

Jesse W. Horton was a first lieutenant.

After the war he established a blacksmith shop in Belleville, Pa. Later, his sons John and Isaac joined him. They were all skilled mechanics and the many farmers of the Kishacoquillas Valley kept the Hortons busy. Executive Office.

Nashville, Tenn. Oct. 15, 1878.

Dr. Geo. F. Horton,

Dear Sir:

Yours of the 11th inst. is received. I have failed entirely to learn anything reliable in relation to my branch of the Horton family. I will not abandon the search however.

My middle name is Davis, derived from my father's family. I was born at Paris, Tenn., where I now reside, Dec. 7, 1828: son of Thomas Kennedy Porter. My mother was Geraldine Horton, youngest daughter of Josiah Horton. My father was for many years the leading physician of that county. I attended the County Academy at Paris, Tenn., until I was 15 years of age, when I entered the University of Nashville, under the presidency of the Reverend Philip Lindsley, where I graduated in 1846. The next two years were spent in private study, when I commenced the study of law in the office of Gen. J. H. Dunlap, in my native town, finishing the next year at the Law School at Lebanon, Tenn. In 1851 I married Miss Sue Dunlap, the daughter of my law preceptor, and became his partner. In 1859 I was elected Representative in the State Legislature and was a member at the commencement of war between the states. I entered the Southern Army in May, 1861, as adjutant general of Cheatham's Brigade, afterward filling the same place in a division and an army corps, and participated in all the great battles of the southwest. I resumed the practice of my profession in 1865. In 1870 I was elected a delegate from my native county to the State Constitutional Convention without opposition. The next year I was elected by a very large majority, Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District, composed of the counties of Carroll, Benton, Henry, Macon, Obian and Lake. The term of office was eight years.

I resigned in February, 1874; and in the following August was nominated in convention as the Democratic candidate for Governor and was elected in November of that year after an active canvass by a majority of 47,000 over my Republican competitor, Mr. Maynard, the present minister to Constantinople. In 1876 I was renominated without opposition and was reelected by a majority of 50,000 over my opponent Mr. Thomas.

I was second of four brothers, the elder one, Josiah Horton (Porter) is now living. The two younger are dead. One was killed in the late war.

The other one was executive officer of the Confederate Steamer Florida at the time of her capture. He died in 1869. My term of office expires in January next.

Yours very truly,

JAS. D. PORTER.

MRS. MARIE HORTON EVANS

Nashville, Tennessee

Paralleling the Veterans' Service of the World War is the record of Mrs. Marie Horton Evans, descendant of a long line of pioneers, patriots and notables in the public service. She has served her country in many important capacities, in the women's division of the national organization of the Red Cross and the various activities of war relief work she has occupied many positions of trust and usefulness. In the many branches of war work she has served on chairmanships and directorates and committees of inestimable value to the cause. Space forbids the enumeration of them. Her county (Davison) led the nation in the volume of women's aid to the Red Cross, as shown by statistics and annual reports given out by Secretary Newton D. Baker of President Wilson's cabinet. Much of it was due to her ability, faithfulness and self devotion. She also performed an important part in the relief of the flood sufferers in the 1927 catastrophe in the Mississippi Valley and at Nashville, Tenn.

In the patriotic societies of the republic she has served as regent of her (Cumberland) Chapter of the "Daughters of the American Revolution," in the activities of the "Colonial Dames'" national organization, in the "Daughters of the War of 1812," and in the patriotic and benevolent, cultural and historical societies of the Southland she has borne an important part.

Among her connections there is Admiral Gleaves of Washington's day, Lady Mary Montgomery, Governor Newton Cannon of Tennessee, Governor Porter and the present Governor of Tennessee, Henry Hollis Horton.

Mrs. Evans is also a notable housewife, looking well to the ways of her household and home affairs.

HENRY CLAIBORNE, son of Henry Hollis Horton and Rebecca Horton (Claiborne, William, Joshua, Joshua Ensign, Joshua, Barnabas I.), born 1835, Bethesda, Tenn.; married SALLIE JACKSON of Alabama; married, second LUCY HENDERSON of Franklin, Tenn., in 1878.

Children by 2nd marriage:

Sallie.

Henry Claiborne Horton enlisted in the Confederate Army 1861, in the “Shelby Greys” of Memphis, Tenn., who gave a good account of themselves during the war. They were in 18 pitched battles and were under fire every day during the advance of Sherman from Chatanooga to Atlanta. At Nashville he was wounded and captured, and suffered imprisonment. After his exchange he engaged in farming and stock raising on his plantation on the Alabama River.

Was fond of country life, scrupulously honest in all his dealings, living to a good old age.

Lucy Henderson Horton is still living at Franklin, Tenn., at the family home. She is descended from the Martins, Hughes, Hendersons and Daltons, all prominent old Virginia families.

She is the author of an exhaustive and readable history of them, and wherein other kindred branches and also the Hortons are written of. As state and national historian of the patriotic societies of the D. A. R., the Colonial Dames, the U. D. C., the Children of the Republic Club and other organizations, she has served laudably.

She is author of many historical papers, magazine articles, reports, sketches, memorials and reminiscences for these societies. Her work has been continuous and helpful.

She has served as regent of the D. A. R. and on many committees, chairmanships and vice presidencies. In the Red Cross work and church, missionary and other benevolent and social organizations of women's activities too numerous to mention, but all of highest value. Her book, "Family History," is listed in the Bibliography at the back of this volume.

Third Generation—Jonathan

I. JONATHAN, son of Jonathan Horton and Bethia Wells (Barnabas I.), born at the "Old Castle", 23 Dec., 1683; married 27 Nov., 1707, MARY TUTHILL, daughter of Henry Tuthill, brother of John Tuthill, the Puritan. He died 2 April, 1768; she died. Both buried in Southold Cemetery.

Children, probably all born in the Old Castle, at Southold:

1. Mary, born 1708; married Edward Mabel; had Moses and others.
2. Eliphaz, born 1710; disappeared mysteriously when 18, never heard of afterwards.
3. Mehitabel, born 1712; married 2 Dec., 1743, to Walter Brown, being his third wife.
4. Azariah W., born 20 March, 1715; married.
5. Lazarus (Lawrence), born 1717; married Anna Corey.
6. Ambrose, born 1720.

In "New Haven Colonial Records," as furnished by Stuart T. Terry, of Southold, we learn that he was a very prominent man; a merchant, an auctioneer, teacher of a select school, and often drew up legal documents. He also had charge of the church money, and under date of 5 Nov., 1716, he says: "Uncle Joshua Horton came to my house and weighed the church's money, Uncle Wells also being present." To his eldest son, Azariah W., he wills Rawley's History and a small cane, and to his grandson, son of Jonathan Horton, deceased, "my homestead and houses in the first Parish of Southold, also my gun and silver-hilted sword." He gives to the three daughters of his son Lazarus, £15 each; to his grandsons, sons of his son Ambrose, "all the buildings where my son Ambrose now lives—son Ambrose to have the improvement of the land as long as he lives—also the farming implements he hath at Rone Oak." He also makes bequests to his daughter Mary Mabel, and her son Moses. He appoints for his executors "my trusty friend William Horton and my son Joseph Cleveland." Will signed 3 Oct., 1764. We have no other record of Joseph Cleveland.

II. JAMES, son of Jonathan Horton and Bethia Wells, born in Southold, at the "Old Castle", in 1694; married in 1717, ANNA GOLDSMITH, born in Southold, in 1698. He was an office-bearer in the church at Southold from his majority to the close of his life—a strong pillar of the church, eminent for his piety and sound Christian character. He was universally known as "Dea. James," and greatly respected. It is said that he often accompanied the Rev. Mr. Whitefield, and took an active part in his public meetings.

Jonathan Goldsmith Horton, as quoted by Stuart T. Terry, says of him in his epitaph:

"Intombed beneath this ponderous load
Lies the man who loved and feared the Lord,
A husband dear, a father ever kind,
To the poor a close and constant friend:
Sober, blameless, to charity inclined,
Meriting well of all he left behind."

He died 16 May, 1762; Anna, his wife, died 8 March, 1783. Both buried in Southold Cemetery.

Children, all born in Southold:

1. James, born 1718; married, and had an only child, James, Jr., who died without issue.
2. Barnabas, born in 1720; married Susan Bailey.
3. Abigail, married 1. Pierson; 2. Jackson.

10. Jonathan, married Bethia Hallock.

IV. THOMAS, son of Dea. James Horton and Anna Goldsmith, born in Southold, in 1728; married 24 Feb., 1757, to SUSANNA CONKLIN. Moved to Goshen, N. Y., about 1762, and settled there.

Children, all born in Goshen, except Thomas, who was born in Southold:

1. Thomas, born 5 Oct., 1760; married Hannah Moore.
2. James, married Abigail Tuthill.
3. Samuel, married Margaret Consalaris.
4. Hannah, born about 1773; married Abiram Reeve.
5. Gamaliel, died young.
6. Ezra, married Hannah Gardiner.
7. Paul, married Ruth Hardin.
8. Peter, died young.
9. Susan, married 1. Little; 2. Daniel Carpenter.
10. Bethia, married Peter Johnson.

VI. SILAS, son of Dea. James Horton and Anna Goldsmith, born in Southold, 25 Dec., 1730; married MARY BULL, about 1756. Her parentage is not known, although her name is illustrious in the annals of Orange Co.—Vide History of Orange Co.

NOTE, 1929

Mary Bull was a daughter of William Bull and Sarah Wells, adopted daughter of Christopher Denn and his wife, Madame Denn, early pioneers of the town of Goshen.

Sarah Wells, at 16 years of age, was the first white woman in that part of the country. She subsequently married William Bull and reared a family of eleven children, whose worthy descendants are unnumbered.—From History of Orange Co., written by a descendant of William Bull.

Silas Horton went to Orange Co. about 1750, where he settled and died.

Children, all born in Goshen Township:

1. Bethia, born in 1757; married 28 Feb., 1778, Benjamin Hallock.
2. Anna, born 20 June, 1758; died 18 Sept., 1767.
3. Margaret, born 4 Sept., 1760; died 4 Sept., 1767.
4. James, born 5 Feb., 1762.
5. Sarah, born 28 Nov., 1764; married 15 August, 1795, David Hawkins.
6. Silas, born 19 May, 1768; died 13 April, 1782.
7. William, born 2 July, 1771; married 21 Dec., 1793; Phebe Rumsey.

VII. REV. EZRA, son of Dea. James Horton and Anna Goldsmith, born in Southold, 25 Dec., 1733; married in the town of Hempstead, L. I., in 1757, MARY HEMPSTEAD, daughter of Robert Hempstead, and born in 1736. He graduated at Princeton College, N. J., in the class of 1754. He studied for the ministry in Princeton, and the honorary degree of A. M. was conferred upon him by Yale College, in 1772. He was ordained at Union, Ct., 14 June, 1759, and from that time until 1783 he was pastor of the Congregational Church at Union. After twenty years of faithful service, his health failing, at his own request, 6 August, 1783, he was dismissed from his charge. He died at Union, 13 Jan., 1789. His wife, remaining his widow, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Rev. Calvin Ingals, West Stafford, Conn., 23 Jan., 1815, aged 79.

IV. AZARIAH, son of Jonathan Horton and Mary Tuthill (Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in the "Old Castle" at Southold, 20 March, 1715; married EUNICE ———.

He was educated at Yale College, graduated in the close of 1735, being only twenty years of age.

Children, probably all born at Southold :

1. Mary, married Jacob Morrill, Esq.
2. Hannah, married Lewis Woodruff, son of the Mayor of Elizabeth, N. J.
3. Charles, a surgeon in the Revolutionary Army; died in the service.
4. Foster, a very prominent man in the Parish; a merchant in Chatham Village, N. J.
5. Charlotte, married a Christy.

The Rev. Azariah Horton was a missionary among Long Island Indians from 1741 to 1750. He kept a very interesting diary of his labors from day to day, a part of which is published in PRIME'S History of Long Island. In 1751, he was installed pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Bottle Hill, now Madison, N. J. In Nov., 1776, at his own request, he was dismissed from his charge, and on 27 March, 1777, he died. He was an active and faithful minister, and he was one of the prominent men in founding the College of New Jersey. His wife kept a store at Bottle Hill. She was an energetic and successful business woman—active in the work of the church and highly esteemed.

About 15 or 20 years ago, some unknown gentleman came to Madison and put up a very pretty monument at the grave of the venerable Azariah Horton.

We are indebted to Mrs. Cuyler, mother of the Rev. Dr. Theodore Ledyard Cuyler, of Brooklyn, for the above facts. She being a granddaughter of Jacob Morrill, Esq., and great-granddaughter of the Rev. Azariah Horton.

X. JONATHAN, son of Capt. Barnabas Horton and Susanna Bailey, born in Southold, Sept., 1765. "Dea. Jonathan, as he was familiarly called, was the fifth son of Capt. Barnabas Horton of Hogneck, now Bay View, L. I. He married MISS HALLOCK, with whom he lived about thirty years in Mattituck Center. In early life he pursued the trade of a blacksmith. In later years that of a farmer. He embraced religion in early life, and united with the Presbyterian Church of Southold, and was chosen a Deacon and an Elder. He filled these offices for more than thirty years. For the greater part of his life he stood in official stations, and by them he was much burthened. But in all his civil, military, ecclesiastical and judicial relations, he was well sustained and gave general satisfaction. The many and complex cares wore upon his naturally good constitution, and at length led on to a lingering consumption which called him to his grave, 19 Jan., 1819, in the 54th year of his age.

His children were two sons and two daughters, viz.:

1. Silas, who died under one year of age.
2. Lydia, born in 1788; married John Clark.
3. Rejoice, born in 1792; married James E. Horton, son of Capt. James Horton and Elizabeth Milliken.

Four other sons and six daughters were born to them. Their names are not given.

I. WILLIAM, son of Dea. William Horton and Mehetabel Wells (William, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born at Southold, about 1732. "We have always heard him spoken of as 'Uncle' William. He was a large landholder—owned and occupied the old house in which I was born. It was taken down in 1878, and the house in which my father, Joseph Hazzard Horton, now lives, was erected upon its site. It was built by his grandfather, son of Jonathan I. He was thrice married, 1. to PATIENCE CORWIN; 2. MARTHA GARDINER, a very pious lady. She was confined to her bed a long time by sickness, previous to her death, and by her request, the Rev. Elam Potter prepared her funeral sermon and read it to her previous to her death, which occurred in 1792; married 3. MARY GOLDSMITH.

"He occupied the east side of the old house, my grandfather, David Horton, the west side. My grandfather took the farm, and cared for 'Uncle' William's mother, who lived to be very aged. He always lived in good style, and kept several slaves. His third wife had the first woolen carpet ever known in that vicinity. A good stock of liquors was always found upon his board, and he allowed no wood except hickory to be used for fuel.

"He was a gentleman who always rode in his chaise, and spent much of his time in fishing and other amusements, and the 'William Horton Rock,' one of his most frequent fishing points, is famous to this day. He died without issue. His third wife survived him, and after his death she sold 'Tom' for $100, and 'Hagar' for $70. She married JOSIAH VAIL—lived happily for many years in the cottage a little west of the old Barnabas Horton Homestead."—Letter of D. P. Horton, 1872.

|------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Silas Ryneck. | 5. Emily, married J. J. Dobson. |
| 2. Eugene. | 6. Margaret, m. S. W. Teddel. |
| 3. William. | 7. Charlotte, m. Jesse E. Moffat. |
| 4. Egbert, died young. | 8. Gertrude, m. Brown C. Ward. |

At the age of 18 the Doctor entered the junior class at Union College, and he was soon distinguished for his close application to his studies and strict regard for integrity. After his collegiate course, he studied medicine, and attended medical lectures in the medical department of the University of New York, during the palmy days of Mitchell and Hosack, and like these eminent teachers, he cultivated a taste for patient, cautious and bold investigation, which afterwards made him so distinguished and successful in the medical profession.

He commenced the practice of medicine at the residence of his father, and he soon possessed the confidence of the people and secured a large practice. He afterwards moved to the village of Goshen, and soon became a prominent man among his medical brethren, and, though young, he was nevertheless called upon to perform all the difficult and grave surgical operations occurring in the village, and also in the surrounding country. He was a good surgeon, but he was still more celebrated as a physician. By his skill and honorable bearing, he early secured the confidence of his medical brethren, and he was frequently called in consultation with the aged and experienced physicians of his day. He was remarkably successful in the treatment of fevers, carefully studying their pathology at the bedside, and also by post-mortem examinations, and in his views he was greatly in advance of the profession of his day. He prepared with great labor a work on fevers, but never published it. His pamphlet on Dysentery, and his Geological Reports, are his only published works, and these are sufficient to establish his reputation as a profound thinker and a clear and powerful writer.

At the bedside he was cheerful, affectionate and soothing, and always dignified. In his intercourse with his medical brethren he was always honorable, and in harmony with the code of medical ethics.

In the midst of his career of usefulness as a physician, he turned his attention to the study of botany, mineralogy and geology, and soon became one of the most noted men of his day in these sciences. His great delight in these studies led him, at the age of 37, to relinquish the practice of medicine and devote himself wholly to these sciences, and had he lived a few years longer, he would have published a large work on these subjects. The Doctor was also fond of archæological lore, and he was the first to attempt a genealogical history of the descendants of our old progenitor, Barnabas, of 1640. The old Horton roll of names and lineage which he got up some 60 years ago, was kindly furnished me by his son, Dr. William Horton, of Craigville, N. Y., and has rendered me valuable assistance in compiling the "Chronicles."

Dr. Horton was always rigidly moral, and never sacrificed principle to expediency. He had early been taught to respect the teachings of the Bible, and towards the close of his life he was led, with a child-like faith, to believe the doctrine of salvation by grace, and to publicly give himself to the Saviour, wondering and regretting that he had so long remained ignorant of the beauty, simplicity and sublimity of the Gospel scheme of salvation. Thus he died, in hope of a glorious immortality.

“Elizabeth Masters was born in Minnisink, 21 March, 1757, then a wilderness with but few inhabitants. When she was an infant the settlement was attacked by the Indians. The mother, with her child in her arms, fled, and made her way to a place of safety, just before being taken by the Indians. Her mother’s sister, Mary Walling, was seized by them; and killed and scalped. Her grandmother, Susan Walling, in making her escape through the swamps, sank in the mire and mud. The Indians passed within a few feet of her, but did not discover her. She was found by her friends after the Indians left, and extricated almost dead, having remained in the mud almost one whole day.”—Letter of Henry Albert Horton, 1874.

6. James, born 1828.
7. Julius, born 1834.

Darius Horton died 1843. Hannah Olmstead Horton died 1871; she is buried in Lake View Cemetery, Seattle, Washington.

II. WILLIAM, son of Jonathan Horton and Abigail Horton (Dea. William, William, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born 1775, Southold, L. I.; married MARY BOOTH, daughter of Wheelock Booth.

Children:

1. Capt. Jonathan, born 1808.
2. Mary C., born 1810; married Halsey Haynes.
3. William Volney, born 1812.
4. Philander Judson, died 1845.
5. Nancy; married Foster Sayre; died 1839.

William Horton served in the war of 1812. He was a strong pillar and deacon in the First Church at Southold.

Mary Booth Horton died 1866, aged 83.

III. JOSHUA, son of "Good" Jonathan Horton and Abigail Horton, born 1786; married BETHIA TERRY; 2. HANNAH W. BOISSEAU TERRY, widow of Moses Terry, Southold, L. I.

Children by 1st wife:

1. Jonathan Terry, born 1814. Supposed to have died at sea.
2. Sarah Ann, born 1817; married Edward W. Haynes; died 1870.
3. Charles O., born 1820. Living in Brooklyn, N. Y.

By 2nd wife:

4. Franklin N., died in infancy.
5. Bethia Terry, died 1845 at 8 years of age.

Joshua Horton and Bethia Terry were of the Universalist Church. He was a soldier in the war of 1812.

VII. DANIEL MOORE, son of Thomas Horton and Hannah Moore (Thomas, James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born about 1794; married Anna Kimble about 1816, Goshen, N. Y.

Children:

- | | |
|------------|----------------------|
| 1. Rachel. | 5. Isaac. |
| 2. Darius. | 6. William Kimble. |
| 3. Seneca. | 7. Thomas Goldsmith. |
| 4. Mary. | |

He, with his family, moved from New York to Tioga Co., Pa., in 1830, where he purchased 600 acres of timber land and started to develop it into farms. Soon thereafter and while serving on a jury in an uncompleted court house he contracted a cold which developed into lung fever from which he died. They resided near Wellsboro.

IV. BETHIA, daughter of Thomas Horton and Hannah Moore (Thomas, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Goshen, Orange Co., N. Y., 25 Sept., 1789; married 1. BENJAMIN C. McCLURE in 1811; married 2. WILLIAM DALES.

Children, all by her first husband, and probably all born in Hector, N. Y.:

1. John, born 17 July, 1811; died 10 April, 1862.
2. Oliver Perry, born 17 Nov., 1813.
3. Daniel, born 17 Sept., 1815; died 6 Feb., 1868.
4. Thomas Horton, born 16 Oct., 1817.
5. Almena Cully, born 18 Sept., 1822; died 19 Aug., 1827.

Under date of Feb. 22d, 1873, "Aunt" Bethia writes:
 "My Dear Friend and Cousin, Dr. Geo. F. Horton:

"Yours of the 5th came to hand on the 10th inst. I was away from home when it came, or I should have replied sooner. I thought I would write today, and let you hear once more from your old cousin, now nearly 83 years old. . . .

"My father's name was Thomas Horton. My mother's maiden name was Hannah Moore. My grandfather's name was also Thomas Horton. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and he and his brother-in-law, Nathan Moore, were taken prisoners when the British captured Fort Montgomery, and they were imprisoned in a vessel in New York Harbor, called 'a prison ship'. I never heard any other name for it. In that prison, by hard treatment and starvation, they were reduced so low that when set at liberty they both died before they got home. There were several other prisoners on that prison ship who lost their lives by the same cruel treatment.

"My father had ten children—4 sons and 6 daughters—all lived to be heads of families. I have often heard my father speak of a certain cup with the name of a bank on it, where a large sum of money was left by his father. When that cup was taken to the bank they could draw money. He said the cup was lost and how much money with it he did not know."

Seventh Generation.—Jonathan

I. JOSEPH HAZZARD, son of David Horton and Mary Case ("Good" Jonathan, Dea. William, William, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Southold, 25 Jan., 1796; married 28 Nov., 1816, by Rev. Jonathan Huntting, to MEHITABEL HORTON, daughter of Jonathan Horton and Mary Goldsmith, and born in Southold, 17 June, 1796.

Children, all born in Southold:

1. Orinda McGee, born 20 Feb., 1818.
2. Jonathan Azariah, born 7 April, 1821.
3. David Philander, born 31 Aug., 1827.
4. Martha Day, born 10 Oct., 1836; married Jonathan Horton Boisseau.

Mr. J. H. Horton is well preserved—still active upon his farm—very industrious, and always temperate. He and his family are esteemed members of the Presbyterian Church. She died 1878.

BENJAMIN, son of William Horton and Elizabeth Masters (Micah, William, William, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Minnisink, 5 March, 1809; married 27 Aug., 1832, to MEHITABEL REEVES, born Jan. 12, 1803.

Children, probably born in Minnisink, Orange Co., N. Y.:

1. Susan, born 13 May, 1823; died 24 June, 1825.
2. William, born 20 Feb., 1825; married 16 Nov., 1844, to Emeline S. Clark.
3. Charles W., born 9 May, 1827; married 13 Jan., 1869, to Elizabeth E. Post, of Wawaganda, N. Y.
4. Howell Reeve, born 24 Sept., 1829; married Julia Knapp.
5. Henry Albert, born 29 Aug., 1832; married Fanny Owens.
6. Mary Elizabeth, born 27 Oct., 1835; married Floyd Halstead; 2. Isaac Andrews.

VI. JUSTUS ELBERT, son of Justus Horton and Nancy Conklin (Justus, Barnabas Burnette, Barnabas, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born on Shelter Island, Long Island, 8 July, 1816; married at Southampton, L. I., 9 Dec., 1840, by the Rev. Hugh N. Wilson, to SOPHIA HALSEY, daughter of Joshua Halsey and Experience Payne, and born in Southampton, 27 May, 1809.

Children:

1. Nancy Halsey, born in East Hampton, L. I., 29 April, 1842; died 21 July, 1845.
2. Charles Henry, born in East Hampton, L. I., 28 Feb., 1844; died 2 Aug., 1857.
3. Ann Eliza, born at Greenport, L. I., 22 May, 1846.
4. Schuyler Bogart, born at Greenport, L. I., March, 1849.

- Justus E. Horton resides at Greenport. He is an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Greenport—is a quiet, unassuming and pious man. He and his son are undertakers, and dealers in all kinds of household furniture, spring beds, mattresses, &c., Main Street, Greenport, L. I.

I. JOHN FRANKS, son of Hector Youngs Horton and Dency Tuthill (Capt. James, Capt. Barnabas, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Southold, 15 Dec.; married in Southold, 19 Nov., 1836, by the Rev. Abraham Luce, to PHEBE MARIA REEVES, daughter of Dea. Nathaniel Reeves and Nancy Rogers, and born in Southold, 16 Nov., 1814.

Children:

1. Nancy Rogers. 2. Sophia Reeves. Both died in infancy.

Mr. J. F. Horton and his wife are pious people—members of the Presbyterian Church of Mattituck, and he is one of the ruling elders of the church.

II. CAPT. JAMES EDWIN, son of Hector Youngs Horton and Dency Tuthill, born in Southold, 15 Jan., 1816; married in Matti-tuck, 10 May, 1848, by Rev. Abraham Luce, to JERUSHA WORTH, daughter of James Worth and Nancy Tooker, and born in Mattituck, 7 Jan., 1820.

Children, born in Southold:

1. Theodore Worth, born 7 Oct., 1849.
2. Edwin Willis, born 20 Jan., 1854.

Capt. Horton commenced a sea-faring life when about 19 years old, with Capt. Nathaniel Case, in the ship Triad. With a crew of about 25 men, they made a voyage of about nine months in the South Atlantic Ocean, in latitude 35 to 40°, and longitude 10 to 20°. The voyage was prosperous and the business paid well. He afterwards made a voyage on the Indian Ocean and South Sea. He followed the business for 13 years, and during that time, he circumnavigated the earth four times. It is a remarkable fact that, notwithstanding all the hazard and danger of a sea-faring life, they never lost a man by accident or sickness. They were all temperate men, and this had much to do with their immunity from danger, sickness and death. The Captain quaintly remarks that a half gallon demi-john of liquor was not used by the whole crew, as a beverage, during any one of their voyages. During the time he followed the sea he visited the Sandwich Islands, the Society Isles, and also New Zealand. On the island of Owyhee he saw the place where Capt. Cook was killed by the natives.

The last voyage was in 1846-47 and 48, and during this voyage the Captain had command of the ship. He took but two gallons of spirits with him on that voyage, and part of that he brought back with him.

The Captain is beautifully situated at Peconic, L. I.—has a beautiful farm, which he knows how to keep in good order, and his house, among the best in the township of Southold, is admirably kept by his amiable and accomplished lady, and nearly every room in it is richly ornamented with frames and cases of rare, costly and beautiful seashells, most tastefully arranged, and all done by the delicate hands of Mrs. Horton herself. Great skill and persevering effort were required to accomplish so much.

I. MARY ELIZABETH, daughter of Osborn Horton and Sally Philips (Col. Benjamin, Capt. Barnabas, Dea, James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born at West Hampton, L. I., 17 March, 1813; married 1. 13 Aug., 1833, by Rev. Dr. Carroll, of Brooklyn, N. Y., to SAMUEL DRAPER, son of Pliny Draper, and born in Pompey, N. Y., 26 Oct., 1808—had one son, viz.: Geo. Horton Draper, born 23 March, 1835. Samuel Draper died in New Orleans, in Aug., 1839. She married 2. in Brooklyn, 25 July, 1849, by the Rev. M. Jacobus, to JOHN LEWIS, son of Benjamin Lewis and Cynthia Merritt, and born in Canterbury, Conn., 25 April, 1800. They have:

Osborn Horton Lewis, born in Greenport, L. I., 21 June, 1851.

Mr. John Lewis resides in Brooklyn; he was a merchant, but retired from business about eight years ago. He is a prominent member of Plymouth Church.

II. THEODORE KING, son of Osborn Horton and Sally Philips, born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 12 Aug., 1819; married in Brooklyn, 3 Feb., 1847, by Rev. Dr. Stone, to MARTHA ALETTA SMITH, daughter of Isaac N. Smith and Clarissa Talmadge, and born in Ballston, N. Y., 14 Nov., 1823.

Children, all born in Brooklyn:

1. Franklin Munn, born 15 March, 1848.
2. Philip Hallock, born 14 Feb., 1850.
3. Talmadge Baker, born 25 Jan., 1852.
4. Benjamin Theodore, born 26 May, 1856.
5. Grace, born 8 Nov., 1860.
6. Howard, born 7 Oct., 1864.

Mr. T. K. Horton is a first-class merchant in the city of Brooklyn, and is doing a large business. He visited Europe a few years ago, and when in England he went to Mousely, the birthplace of the old puritan, Barnabas. But he found no one there who knew anything of the ancestry of Barnabas.

Mr. Horton is distinguished for his business capacity, industry, strict integrity and honorable dealing with his fellow men. He is highly esteemed as a citizen and Christian gentleman, and is a liberal supporter of the Gospel.

III. BENJAMIN DE WITT, son of Osborn Horton and Sally Philips, born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 8 Nov., 1823; married 15 August, 1859, by Rev. Dr. Thrall, to AMANDA F. WELCH, daughter of William Welch, of Rockland, Me. Mrs. Horton died 12 Feb., 1871, leaving two daughters:

Florence Isabell and Elizabeth, who survived their mother but a few days, the former dying the 15th, and the latter the 22d of Feb., 1871. All died of malignant scarlatina, leaving the deeply afflicted father and one son, viz., Frederick Osborn, born 4 July, 1860.

Mr. Horton married 2. in Brooklyn, 20 June, 1872, by Rec. Dr. Dillen, to LYDIA A. HOLBROOK, daughter of Capt. Samuel Holbrook, of Portland, Maine (a gentleman who weighs only about 300 lbs.), and Catherine Rogers, of Liverpool, England, and born in Rockland, Me., 8 Feb., 1851. Mr. Horton was formerly a partner in the dry goods business of the old-established firm of Horton & Sons, of Brooklyn. He retired from business some years ago, and now lives in princely style, with his amiable and accomplished young wife in Brooklyn, 223 Clermont Avenue. She is a member of the Episcopal Church.

II. MARY ELIZABETH, daughter of Thomas Jefferson Horton and Eliza Davids (Col. Benjamin, Capt. Barnabas, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Southold, 11 Jan., 1832; married in Southold, 26 June, 1856, by the Rev. Mr. Whitaker, to STUART TUTHILL TERRY, son of Daniel Tuthill Terry and Eunice Case, and born in Southold, 20 July, 1831. They reside in Southold near Hallock's Landing. They are both live members of the Presbyterian Church of Southold, and he is one of the ruling elders, and they are both wielding a strong influence for Christianity, and command the respect and esteem of the community. They own a good farm beautifully situated. Mr. Terry is a farmer, doing much of his farm work himself, but still he finds time for study and reading, and for some years past he has been engaged in looking up, and collating and compiling the genealogy of the descendants of Richard Terry I. He has the work in a good state of forwardness, and much of it ready for the press. They have no children.

In a recent letter, he says, "I can truly say that I am a descendant of Barnabas Horton, the Puritan, although I do not bear his name. I descend from him thus:

"I. Stuart T. Terry; D. T. Terry; Esther Tuthill Terry; Christopher Tuthill; Henry Tuthill, who married Bethia Horton, granddaughter of Barnabas I., being the 8th Generation.

"II. Stuart T. Terry; D. T. Terry; Thomas Terry; Lydia Tuthill, daughter of Mehitabel Bradley Horton, who married Deacon Daniel Tuthill, and was a daughter of Capt. Jonathan Horton, son of Barnabas I., 7th Generation.

"III. Stuart T. Terry; D. T. Terry; Eunice (Case) Terry; Israel Case, Israel Case, Samuel Case, who married Zeruiah Horton, daughter of Joshua Horton, son of Barnabas I., 7th Generation."

V. HENRY DAVIDS, son of Thomas Jefferson Horton and Eliza Davids, born in Southold, 23 Jan., 1845; married in New York City, 28 Dec., 1868, by Rev. J. C. Annan, to MIRIAM REEVES OSBORN, daughter of Thomas Osborn and Miriam Reeves, and born in Southold, about 1847. They reside in Southold, and have—

Children:

1. Thomas Osborn, born 2 June, 1870.
2. Philip Henry, born 1879, Peconic, N. Y.

I. MEHALA, daughter of Barnabas Horton and Anna Hawkins (Col. Benjamin, Capt. Barnabas, Dea. James, Jonathan. Barnabas I.), born at Mt. Hope, Orange Co., N. Y., 7 April, 1809; married NATHANIEL CONKLIN; reside in Middletown, N. Y., and have:

1. Charles. 2. De Witt. 3. Robert. 4. Alice. All born in Middletown.

X. FRANK, son of Barnabas Horton by his 2 wife, Sally Penny, born at Mount Hope, 28 Sept., 1828; married in Brooklyn, N. Y., 21 Sept., 1854, by Rev. Mr. Lewis, Rector of Trinity Church, Brooklyn, SARAH JANE REYNOLDS, daughter of John A. Dayton and Adelia Trowbridge, and born in New York City, 21 June, 1835.

Children, born in Brooklyn:

1. Franklin Reynolds, born 17 August, 1856.
- 2 and 3. (Twins), Edwin and Ella, born 27 Oct., 1854.

Frank has a jewelry store in New York. His residence is in Brooklyn. He is an out-spoken, intelligent man, apparently in good circumstances.

XII. GILBERT, son of Barnabas Horton and Sally Penny, born at Mt. Hope, 22 March, 1833; married in New York City, 8 March, 1855, ELIZABETH PARDEE PERKINS, born in Ridgefield, Conn., 19 May, 1834.

Children:

1. Mary Perkins, born in New York, 7 March, 1856.
2. William Robinson, born in New York, 19 July, 1860.
3. Jessie Pardee, born in New York, 12 August, 1862.
4. Gilbert La Fayette, born in Elizabeth, N. J., 9 July, 1864.

They moved to St. Paul, Minn., where his wife and children now reside, and where he died 10 Jan., 1873. He was in the mercantile business.

XIII. CAROLINE, daughter of Barnabas Horton and Sally Penny, born at Mt. Hope, 10 Nov., 1837; married in New York City, 14 Sept., 1858, by Rev. R. G. Dixon, to HENRY ALFRED BRADFORD, of New Jersey, son of Judge D. Bradford and Ann Brightwell, and born in England in 1830. He died in New Jersey, 7 April, 1866.

Children:

1. and 2. David and Carrie, twins, born 6 July, 1859, in New Jersey; David lived to be thirteen months old; Carrie died twelve hours after her birth.
3. David, born 23 Sept., 1860.
4. Lizzie, born 30 July, 1862, both in New Jersey.

Mrs. Bradford, with her children, now resides in Brooklyn. She is an intelligent and pious lady, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and attending faithfully to the proper training and education of her children.

5. Charles Francis, born 2 Sept., 1845.
6. Horton Erastus, born 25 Nov., 1848.
7. San E., born 29 Sept., 1852.
8. Manley Clayton, born 25 Sept., 1858.

Mrs. Francisco now resides in San Diego, Cal. Her son, Charles Francis, married Mary Evelyn Harvey, a niece of Gov. Harvey, of Wisconsin.

III. ALONZO ERASTUS, son of Erastus Horton and Tryphena Burleigh, born at Union, Ct., 24 Oct., 1813; married in Jefferson, Wis., 22 Dec., 1841, by Charles Rockwell, Esq., to SALLY MILLINGTON WRIGHT, eldest daughter of William Cobb Wright and Sylvia Shelden, and born in Russia, Herkimer Co., N. Y., 11 May, 1822. She died in Jefferson, Wis., 29 Dec., 1846, leaving no issue. He married 2. at Keyport, N. J., 29 July, 1861, by N. J. Beedle, Esq., to SARAH WILSON BABE, daughter of Joseph Babe and Margaret Wilson, and born at Sing Sing, N. Y., 3 Sept., 1824. They have no children.

We are indebted to Mr. J. A. Shepherd, of San Diego, for the following interesting sketch of the life of Mr. A. E. Horton:

ALONZO E. HORTON

To a person acquainted with this gentleman our introduction would sound unfamiliar. "Here is A. E. Horton, of San Diego," is all that he would allow to be said before he would be acquainted with a room-full of strangers. His motto is "action", and he has practiced it long and faithfully. He would leave ceremony in the lurch to talk business, and never think apology necessary; and we can think of no better rule to follow in writing what we know of him.

His parents commenced their westward march in 1815, from Union, Ct., when Alonzo was two years old. Their home for the next four years was in Stockbridge, Madison Co., N. Y. Then a residence of two years in New Haven, Oswego County, where the first school lessons were taken under the direction of Miss Patty Woodward. When he was eleven years old the family reached the shore of Lake Ontario, in the town of Scriba, and moved into their new log-house.

Then followed a year of muscular as well as mental discipline to the lad Alonzo. His father was suddenly bereft of sight by a severe inflammatory attack upon his eyes. School was two miles away, and to and fro our student made his morning and evening tramps in pursuit of knowledge. But he was the eldest boy of the household, and to him after study came toil. His evenings were spent in basket-making, which assisted largely in providing for the wants of the family. Thus for about a year he bravely essayed to lift the burden from his father's shoulders. From that time until he was half through his twenty-first year, he was first assistant wood-chopper on the home-lot, where they filled Oswego orders for hewed timber.

He commenced business for himself by purchasing the remaining six months of his minority, agreeing to pay $50 to his father for that purpose. In eight months from that time he had been a grocery clerk at $12 a month; a lake sailor before the mast; and the last half of the time owner and captain of the "Wild Goose", a small vessel he had purchased, and put into the wheat trade between Oswego and Canada. His marine speculation proved quite a profitable one for those days; he sold out and closed business, paid all his obligations, and had $300 in his pocket. During the winter of 1834-'35 he learned the trade of a cooper, and his specialty for a time was flour-barrels. Then the city of Oswego elected him constable, by the largest majority given to any man on the Whig ticket. The young officer was too kind-hearted to make his office pay, and he lost all he made in trade by failing to enforce payment from poor debtors according to law. Out of office he invested $7 in a contract for land, and in a month made $336 on the venture. Young Horton had another strong point, which was often brought into play in the inevitable wrestling-matches incident to town-meetings of long ago. His 130 pounds was a most animated and unmanageable load for his largest companions to handle, and at "square hold" he was the acknowledged champion of the township. Yet he was pronounced a consumptive by Dr. Van Schaick, with the advice "Go West—it may do you good; but I think it probable you will not live more than six months." He took the doctor's prescription, and went West.

He landed in Milwaukee, in May, 1836, and soon after was one of a party of six on the trail for the Rock River country. There were no roads, and the best inn to be found was to turn in their blankets under an oak tree. But the mosquitoes promptly presented bills for their lodgings. After thirty nights camping, they reached the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Janes, the parents of the now lively city of Janesville. Theirs was the only house, and that about 10x16 feet in size, but immense in hospitality. After partaking of the latter, the party (among whom were the names of Churchill, Odell, Ogden and Jewett) continued on until reaching the foot of Koskonong Lake, where each one made a quarter-section claim, built a cabin, and went back to Milwaukee. One of those claims, at least, was left for another preemptor, with the cabin thrown in, for Horton was soon too busy to think farther about it. Others waited, with hands in pockets, for the approaching land sales; he took up the shovel and worked on the new streets. Money was worth too much to be wasted by idleness. A working-man always gains more profitable knowledge than a loafer. His capital was labor and observation, and out of these were to be wrought a fortune.

Of the two hotels then in the new city, he had selected the Bellevue for his lodgings. Two bits a night paid for his share of a room, and his own blankets were bed and bedding. His room-mates were sometimes as many as sixteen; and his rule was "early to bed". Two nephews of the Receiver at the Land-Office came in one evening full of an important secret which they must talk over. The young fellow who worked on the road was the only one retired, besides themselves, and his hearty snoring satisfied them that he was beyond hearing. Their authority was official, so no danger of mistakes. The bills of the Michigan State Bank and Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank would be taken at par at the land sales, and consequently would be as good as gold, and worth the premium of at least 10 per cent. They would quietly gather it in for the occasion. The next day our sleeper was not shoveling on the street. He was learning the whereabouts of holders of certain styles of Michigan currency, and was soon doing a brisk exchange business with his New York Safety Fund Savings, amounting to $300. At night he was in his room, happy in the prospective addition to his funds; but there were two other persons there who thought they had little success in securing the coveted currency. It was unaccountable, for were they not the only individuals to whom the secret had been imparted?

The sales of Government land commenced the following day, and Horton was present with his receivable funds. He bought no land, but his money was in immediate and continuous demand. Many times during the sale he retired to replenish his bank stock by exchanging bank notes with numerous parties according to previous arrangement. The enterprise was a financial success. Here his quick perception did him good service, for he was marked as a prize by a thieving gang. One of them formed his acquaintance on the evening of a profitable day, and tried to learn his intended movements. Yes, he would soon go to his lodging-place; but that night he concluded it would be best for him to remain where he was, and he did so. But another young man, about his age, and similarly dressed, was waylaid on the very route Horton was expected to travel, caught, gagged and carried off to a safe place for robbery. In the dark they had captured the wrong man, as his empty pockets and the cut of his coat proved on careful examination.

Thinking the country a safer place, he went out three miles, to where his uncle, Dwight Foster, was superintending one of the first saw-mills built in Wisconsin. While there another attempt was made to entrap him. One, Robinson, came from town to inform him that a man named Johnson would take a named sum for some land which he had talked of buying. He must be sharp if the trade was secured, and should take his money with him for that reason. Horton promptly decided to take more, and quietly deposited a loaded pistol in each pocket of his hunter's coat. His caller carried a suspicious-looking hickory cudgel, altogether too cumbersome for a cane, and explained that he had been tracking a wild animal, which he hoped they could identify by the marks. In a low, marshy place, a little off their road, its tracks were most clearly made. Descending to the spot indicated, he urged Horton to follow him, and determine what sort of creature had crossed there. Instead of complying Horton presented a pistol, told his man if he found no tracks there as described, he would shoot him without further notice. The villain was outwitted, and preferred returning to town a short distance in advance of the ready weapons of his captor. It was ascertained that Johnson knew nothing of the fellow's errand, and that the only foot-prints about the miry trap in which Robinson had hoped to catch his game, were made by himself. He was next heard of, a few years afterwards, in the Iowa penitentiary, committed for horse stealing.

Returning to the East Mr. Horton passed the time until 1840, in various places and employments, the last being at St. Mary's with the American Fur Co. His first western home was purchased in the town of Oakland, Wis., that year, to which locality his father and family followed not long after. In a few months more he had established himself matrimonially and happily. Three years engaged in miscellaneous trade, land figuring as the principal item, he became a cattle dealer. He bought his beef in Illinois, did the largest part of the driving, and averaged two trips in five weeks. He furnished his customers so satisfactorily in his own and adjoining counties, that in one year his original capital of $150 was increased to $4,000. In St. Louis he saw profits in land-warrants, and bought sufficient to locate 1,500 acres of land. Out of this investment grew the village of Hortonville, in Outagamie Co., Wis. His first town was buried in the woods, and he went to work with eight men to cut a four-mile road to his proposed mill site. By the time he had lots to sell, he was sawing lumber with which to improve them. The prices and payment for material was of small account with the proprietor. Houses must be built, whether settlers had money or not. In a year from the completion of the mill, 150 people were living in Hortonville, and at the end of two years sold out the remaining property, being $7,188 better for his enterprise.

In 1851, Mr. Horton went to California for the first time. Mining stock was his first business experience, and it cost him \$1,000. It was his last transaction in that line also. Spent a few months at mining in El Dorado and Placer Counties, and then opened a store at Pilot Hill. There also he devised and constructed a ditch $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles in length, purposing to supply the miners with water as well as other commodities. At the end of the year he had sold out his water works and other interests for \$6,500, of which sum he had used the larger portion in his improvements. Next he was trading in gold-dust on account of Adams Express Co., realizing usually \$30 a day in commissions. A day or two before the failure of his employers, in 1853, a friend suggested to him, that his money remaining in their office at ———, might be safer in his own pocket. It was "a word to the wise," and before noon the next day he had ridden 30 miles, and much to the dissatisfaction of the agent, drawn his money from the safe of the company. His next care was for his friends hard at work in the mining camps and elsewhere. To all whom he could reach he gave the hint, and thousands of dollars were secured, by his prompt efforts, to those who had earned the money by the hardest of toil. The following day the express offices were closed, and payments suspended. He was in capital standing in the mining districts where he had operated, and resumed the business with himself for banker. He bought at the mines and sold in the towns, often with a profit of \$4.50 per ounce. He was a man of dust, and with his native adroitness, managed to carry valuable deposits of the precious article upon his person without a single mishap. Sometimes his outer garments would scarcely secure him other than the slightest attentions. His landlords were afraid their bills would be unpaid, except his fares were collected in advance. He arrived one evening at one of the rough taverns of those times, with treasure enough about him to incite the gamblers about him to worse crimes for its possession. His good clothes were covered with very dirty overalls and woolen shirt. In calculating Yankee phrase, he interrogated the proprietor as to his accommodations for man and beast, and the reasonableness of his charges. Card-playing ceased for a time in the general astonishment, then the party shouted with laughter at the green chap from Connecticut. They bantered him to play off a Yankee trick. He showed them how to eat the mush and milk, which he had stipulated for as his supper, and with a yawn of indifference to the jests made at his expense, he signified his desire to sleep. The door of his room was without lock or bolt, but the landlord laughingly assured his guest, that he would be the last man anybody would think of robbing. He awoke next morning from an undisturbed sleep, and at breakfast-time was up and dressed. He passed over a small package of dust in settlement, which was accepted and pronounced all right. Word was sent to the stable, his horse could now be brought out—his bill was paid.

"Mister, want to buy some more o' that stuff?"

"Yes", replying with a surprised look.

"How much?"

"Suppose I can buy all you have to sell."

"Will you treat this 'ere crowd if you can't?"

"Yes, I will, and yeou, too."

Diminutive sacks of dust were handed to the wondering host, and the coin counted out in return. By the time $2500 had exchanged hands, the landlord's $20 pieces were exhausted, and our Yankee had played the "trick" with a $250 pile still in reserve. The laugh came in then louder than the night before; and as the glasses were being filled the buyer of gold-dust remarked, irreligiously, that he would have robbed the fellow himself if he had known how he was playing him.

The business was as suitable as profitable to the man, and so well did he manage it, that his profits for the last quarter of 1854 were $1000 per month. Another success was in a novel undertaking for those golden days. He went prospecting for ice fields, and finding a favorable situation 25 miles above Georgetown, in El Dorado County, put up 312 tons of the cool mountain product. A few months afterwards the speculation returned him eight thousand dollars.

In March, 1856, among the passengers on board the steamship Cortez, for Panama, was Mr. Horton. Soon after their arrival at the isthmus, the memorable rising of the natives took place. The mob would have had easy work in carrying out the plan of outrage and plunder, but for the prompt and courageous action of our friend and a few of his companions. Among nearly 200 people from the steamer, who were dining at the hotel where the attack was made, there were but three with firearms. The announcement that the rioters were coming, caused a stampede from the table to the upper rooms. On bursting into the house, the leading ruffians were halted at the starway by Capt. Horton and his aids, and as the attempt to ascend was made, a few effective shots drove the assailants into the street. Immediately the reign of terror and bloodshed began.

"Please, sir, save my father!" was an appeal from a little boy, as he pointed to where a swarthy assassin stood taking aim at a defenseless man. The American's revolver was leveled and fired just in time to render the other's shot harmless by his own fall. Others were protected by the same faithful hand and stern purpose as they retreated towards the only place of safety—the American steamer. Arriving at the water, the crowd rushed on to a small steam-tug, and but for the quick thought and the bold action of the leader, would have been overtaken by the pursuing mob. He took command, gave his orders to fasten to a lighter near at hand, transferred his passengers to the larger craft, and signalled the engineer to start for the Cortez. Fortunately, he was obeyed without question, and a more successful trip was never made by the Wild Goose and her commander on Lake Ontario! His money loss was some $10,000, but he could count untold gain in the saving of lives, and to this day he refers to his participation in those fearful scenes with satisfaction not to be calculated in coin.

On their arrival in New York, Mr. Horton was named by his fellow-passengers as the person to proceed to Washington, to make a statement of the occurrences at Panama, in response to a call from the authorities to that effect. From that time until his marriage in 1861, he made several journeys between Washington and Wisconsin, as a witness in the riot case and a claimant for damage. His testimony was important in deciding the demand for reparation made by the United States upon the Government of New Grenada. His own claim was most strenuously and successfully opposed by the Spanish commissioner. He had done too much injury to his people to have his losses repaid. All other claims were not so objectionable; and as a compromise in the final settlement, the man who deserved a General's commission for courage and strategic skill, and liberal pay for the personal risks taken in his defense of American citizens, was stricken from the list of creditors.

Starting again for the Pacific coast soon after the civil war was began at Sumpter, he included a trip to British Columbia in his travels. At Lewiston, on the Columbia River, he began to think of the outfit needed for the journey. His effects inventoried one gold pencil, a single-barreled pistol, and $15 cash. To his brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Wright, who was one of his traveling companions, and much better provided with equipments, he intimated that he must do a little trading before he could proceed. In half a day he had exchanged his jewelry and pistol for a pair of horses; sold one of them again at a clean profit of $50; paid $15 for a third; and early in the afternoon returned to camp with two good animals, fine revolver, saddles, blankets, and about $60 in money. Trading was his special success—speculation invariably a failure. For a distance of 1400 miles through the northern wilderness, that Lewiston revolver brought down most of the game upon which the company feasted by the way. In the Salmon River country, trees and the feathery snow furnished most comfortable bedding. They sold their surplus provisions to a British customs officer on the route, at a profit of 66 per cent. At Lytton, they replenished their stock, and loaded five of their horses with saleable goods. They found a market at Williams' Creek for flour at $1.00 per pound, and for bacon at $1.25.

Arriving at the Cariboo mining district, the party bought the "Darkey's Claim." It was a rich prospect, and they worked the lead until snow closed the operations, taking an ounce of gold from a bucket of dirt. At this time the claim would have sold for thousands of dollars. After wintering at Victoria they returned to make their fortunes, securing a force of workmen at $10 a day. After working four feet further their riches "jumped" and vanished beyond recovery. Not a hundred feet off three miners were taking out 75 ounces per day, and others doing equally well. But the "Darkey" had "run out," and the owners accepted $200 for their lost treasure. Mining has had no attraction for him to this day.

When Mr. Horton reached San Francisco again, his financial condition would have caused a "panic" in any other man. In capital he was "broke," but in nothing else. Then as now, there were the strength and elasticity of steel in the man's spirit and nerves. He first tried a stall in the market; but the dollar a day realized caused him to retire from business in a short time. Buying and selling a ranch in Rio Visto concluded his real-estate operations in that part of the State. He was a dealer in second-hand furniture in San Francisco, when he first heard San Diego discussed as one of the great cities of the future. The value of its harbor and climate was the topic of the evening at a private literary gathering where he was a frequent listener. What he had heard so impressed itself in his thoughts that he could not sleep that night, until he had jumped out of bed, and satisfied his inquisitiveness by a careful study of the map of California. The situation seemed revealed as a prize especially for him. He determined to secure it, and—slept.

Here was the opportunity long sought and never despaired of. In three days the stock was disposed of, and the store closed. The proceeds were small—perhaps less than $500. No one among his friends could be induced to join him in his visionary enterprise. Alone, on the 6th of April, 1867, Mr. Horton reached San Diego. It exceeded his expectations, and obstacles in the way of purchase were quickly swept aside by his indomitable energy. The few people there were having such a quiet time that they had become indifferent to the charm of office. The first work was to get an election called for Trustees, those officers only being empowered to sell lands belonging to the city. Candidates were provided and elected. The desired property was legally advertised and sold, and on the 11th day of May following, a deed of some 750 acres was made. Thirty-six cents an acre, and but one bidder! Mr. Horton was the happy purchaser, and little did he care that his investment was looked upon by most of the 150 people then in San Diego as a wild expenditure of money.

The work of advertising the new city was immediately commenced. The tin case in which he carried the first map of "Horton's Addition to San Diego," through the streets of San Francisco, is carefully treasured in his office, and could not be bought for its weight in gold. Horton was everywhere, and irresistible in glowing dreams of the future of his city. His labors were untiring from the time he measured off blocks and lots with a tape-line, and laid out the streets for his workmen to clear from cactus and sage-brush, until the winter of 1869-'70, when his sales averaged $15,000 a month. From $3,000 in 1867, his receipts increased to nearly $85,000 in 1869. His money built up the place as fast as received, and it is safe to state, that $300,000 have been used by him for that purpose.

This is but an imperfect sketch of Mr. Horton's business career in San Diego. He has richly earned the sobriquet of 'Father of the City,' and the respect and best wishes of his fellow-citizens. His faith and works have been the life of the place, when crops failed for want of rain, railroad hopes were delayed, or croakers insisted on publishing its death as a certainty. Long may Horton live, and great the prosperity he may witness in the pet child he has so bravely matured—HIS OWN SAN DIEGO!

Mr. Horton is a man of liberal views, and has always been an ardent and practical advocate of political and religious freedom. To the poor, both black and white, he has been a faithful friend. To-day, an honest man in homespun receives as cordial a grasp of his hand, as the man in broadcloth and fine linen. That he has the sympathy and respect of the masses of his fellow-citizens, was manifested in the most gratifying manner in the vote given him in his county for State Senator, in the contest in 1871. His opponent was the Democratic chief of the county, that had never before failed to give a large Democratic majority. San Diego honored the Republican Horton with a majority of 50 and he only failed in election by the adjoining county (forming the balance of the district) voting as usual, largely Democratic. Socially he is a warm-hearted, affable gentleman, true to his friends, and watchful of those who play him false. Temperate in his habits, and always active in mind and body, his health is as robust, and his personal appearance as young as most men at 50 years. Last and best tribute to his character is the kind care for his parents in their helpless old age, and that love for his MOTHER, which to her was the dearest and last earthly tie broken in her departure to the better HOME.

NOTES, 1928

The subsequent Story of Alonzo E. Horton is a fitting conclusion to a wonderful life. Among the older residents of San Diego a rise of interest and a flood of reminiscences is let loose at mention of his name. His optimism, generosity, foresight, straight-forwardness, and initiative are themes of which they never seem to tire.

There was wharfage needed for the proposed city. He built it. A line of steamships was another obvious need. He went to San Francisco and soon it was an accomplished fact.

A railroad was another pressing necessity. His enterprise, money, and influence soon got it. A hotel must accompany the progress of the city. He built it. Hundreds of thousands of dollars went into it. He then went east for his old father and mother, established them in its finest suite, cared for them until they died, and then laid them to rest.

But the time of a set-back came, from what cause is not told, but which seems to be a matter of course in the history of cities.

He had seen every ambition for his beloved city gratified, but he kept on buying and exploiting and expanding. Age coming on, and difficulties of liquidation, and financial depression growing, his affairs became involved and he could no longer carry on. He was too late to benefit by the rebound of values.

He died at ninety-five (1908). It is recorded that he was cheerful, his spirit unbowed. His city voted him an adequate pension in his latter days. He lies buried among his loved ones in San Diego's loveliest cemetery.

He married his third wife in 1885—Mrs. Lydia M. Knapp, the widow of a Naval sea captain who is remembered as a very beautiful and cultured young woman who advanced in years with grace and beauty fitting a woman of her attainments and charm. She was active in all movements for civic betterment and took foremost place in founding library, hospital and other civic enterprises. She died at 82 years of age in 1926. She is survived by two sons of her first husband.

"Father Horton," as he was lovingly called in his latter days, is venerated and will be remembered as long as San Diego stands. A lifelike marble bust of him is in the Scientific Library. Paintings, plaques, panels, city streets and Plaza memorialize him; best of all, he lives in the hearts of the people. He left no posterity.

Few cities can lay claim to such tremendous rise in values as San Diego has experienced since the A. E. Horton purchase of 960 acres for $265 in 1867. The purchase includes all the business section and a great part of the choice residential tract. The value is increased to 130 million dollars and "still going up." In 1917 San Diego was chosen as the site of the U. S. Army cantonment, for the U. S. Marine Base, Army Aviation School, U. S. Operating Submarine Base, U. S. Naval Hospital, thereby making the greatest military rendezvous in the West. There are Army forts, cemeteries, stores, warehouses, men's and officers' homes. The Point Loma Naval Training Station is the largest and best equipped in the West.

The city lies in the farthestmost Southwest, close to the Mexican line. Its strategic importance to the United States goes far to the completion of our stability as a nation.

Military highways, steamship lines and railroads connect it with the Coast cities and the hinterland. It is a dream city of beauty, beloved of artists, musicians, and cultural interests.

The wisdom of a Connecticut Yankee is recalled day after day as the world marvels at the perfection of commercial fitness for business, for military advantage and for cultural institutions.

VII. LUCY JANE, daughter of Erastus Horton and Tryphena Burleigh, born at Scriba, N. Y., 7 April, 1835; married at Hebron, Jefferson Co., Wis., about 1857, WILLIAM W. BOWERS, Esq., born at Whitesboro', N. Y., 20 Oct., 1834. They reside in San Diego, Cal.

Children, all born in San Diego:

1. Grace, born 6 Dec., 1869.
2. Vine, born 17 July, 1873.

Mr. Bowers moved from Whitesboro' to Oakland, Wis., 30 Nov., 1851, and thence to San Diego, 30 Sept., 1869. He is engaged in the bee business, which, it is said, pays remarkably well.

VI. WILLIAM MORGAN, son of Gurdon Horton and Lucy Davidson (Dea. Ezra, Rev. Ezra, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.) born at Stockbridge, Madison Co., N. Y., 6 July, 1829. Children :

1. Florence Effie, born in Albany, 4 April, 1860.
2. Frances Charlena, born in Albany, 13 Nov., 1863.
3. John Charles, born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 16 May, 1867.

IX. OLIVE, daughter of Ezra Horton and Lucy Shepherd, born in Union, 27 June, 1836; married 10 April, 1860, JOSEPH R. LANGDON, of Woodstock Valley, Ct., born in Yorkshire, Eng., in 1834; died 29 July, 1872.

Children :

1. Essie E., born 21 Feb., 1867; died 26 Aug., 1872.
2. Lucy Evelyn, born 13 April, 1870.

I. SOPHRONIA, daughter of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee (Dea. Ezra, Rev. Ezra. Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born at Ashford, Ct., 5 Jan., 1826; married 17 May, 1849, JOHN J. CARVER, of Stockbridge, N. Y. No children :

II. ALMIRA AMANDA, daughter of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee, born in Ashford, Ct., 20 Jan., 1828; married 18 Oct., 1849, H. A. COOLIDGE. She died in Feb., 1875.

Children :

1. Edward Horton, born 13 July, 1850, in Cazenovia, N. Y.; died in 1854.
2. Mary Frances, born 31 May, 1858, in Litchfield, Ill.
3. Kate, born 27 Nov., 1860, in Litchfield, Ill.

III. EMELINE, daughter of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee, born in Ashford, Ct., 22 Sept., 1829; married in Stockbridge, Madison Co., N. Y., 8 March, 1854, to the REV. GILES BUTLER CLEVELAND, born 12 Aug., 1825, in Durham, Greene County, N. Y.

They have one son, viz. :

Arthur Horton Cleveland, born in the city of Philadelphia, 10 Feb., 1865.

Mrs. Cleveland graduated from the Ladies' Department of Oberlin College (Ohio), in 1853, and from the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, in 1855. She was elected to the Chair of Anatomy in that College, in 1857, which she held until 1862, when she was transferred to the Chair of Obstetrics. This she still occupies, and is also a member of the Board of Corporators.

In 1860, at the solicitation of a number of philanthropic ladies of Philadelphia, who had in view the establishment of a Hospital for Women and Children, Professor Cleveland went abroad for medical study, and to make herself acquainted with the arrangements and management of hospitals. She entered the School of Obstetrics in connection with the Maternite of Paris, and after receiving the diploma of that institution, found ready access to the wards and lecture-rooms of other hospitals, and was allowed free inspection of their administrative departments.

On her return, she was chosen Resident Physician of the then chartered Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia, which position she continued to fill for seven years. She has been one of the Managers of the Hospital from its organization, and a member of the Consulting Board since her retirement from the office of Resident Physician.

Professor Cleveland has made a number of important surgical operations, and is the first woman, so far as known, who ever performed ovariectomy. In her second case, a tumor, weighing fifty pounds, was successfully removed, the patient making a good recovery.

She died 1878.

IV. MARY ANN, daughter of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee, born in Ashford, Ct., 1 Feb., 1831; married 16 May, 1854, the REV. RICHARD HOLTON CLARK, born in Carolina Centre, Tompkins Co., N. Y., about 1828.

Children:

1. Mary Frances, born in Stockbridge, N. Y., 20 May, 1856.
2. Emma, born in Nelson, N. Y., 5 Aug., 1858.
3. Charles Richard, Cuyler, N. Y., born 17 Nov., 1862.

V. CYNTHIA MALVINA, daughter of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee, born in Stockbridge, N. Y., 22 Feb., 1833; married 27 Aug., 1857, JUSTUS WILLIAMS, of Ft. Atkinson, Wis., born at Cazenovia, about 1830.

Children:

1. Edith Virginia, born at Jefferson, Wis., 25 June, 1859.
2. Herbert Leslie, born at Ft. Atkinson, Wis., 28 April, 1868.

VI. CHAUNCEY CHAFFEE, son of Chauncey Horton and Amanda Chaffee, born in Stockbridge, N. Y., 24 March, 1835; married 18 Jan., 1859, ELIZABETH HURLBUTT, born about 1837.

Children, all born in Stockbridge, where he resided:

1. Eddie, born in 1860; died young.
2. Anna P., born 20 Oct., 1863.
3. Nellie, born in March, 1865; died in 1869.
4. Harry, born 1868; died in 1868.

I. STODDARD ELLSWORTH, son of Eli Horton and Katherine E. Ellsworth (Dea. Ezra, Rev. Ezra, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born at Stafford, Ct., 31 March, 1833; died 24 Jan., 1873, at his residence, Windsor Locks, Ct. He was a man of excellent character, and talented as a machinist; married 14 Nov., 1865, FANNY E. CHASE, daughter of John Chase and Emma Greenleaf, and born 16 March, 1816, at Lyme, N. H.:

Children, all born at Windsor Locks:

1. Myra Elsie, born 16 April, 1866.
2. Katie Elvise, born 30 Nov., 1867.
3. Sydney Ellsworth, born 28 Oct., 1869.
4. Alice Chase, born 18 May, 1872.

III. KATIE ELSIE, daughter of Eli Horton and Katherine E. Ellsworth, born at Stafford, Ct., 6 Jan., 1837; married 14 Dec., 1870, EZRA B. BAILEY, born at Franklin, Ct., about 1835. They reside at Windsor Locks and have one son, viz.:

Phillips Horton, born 24 Aug., 1872.

REV. WILLIAM HORTON THOMPSON, son of William Thompson and Catherine Ingals, and grandson of the Rev. Calvin Ingals and Mary Horton (Rev. Ezra, Dea. Ezra, Dea. James, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born at West Stafford, Ct., 7 July, 1818. He fitted for college at Morison Academy, Mass., in 1840; under the care of Rev. Charles Hammond. Entered Amherst College, and remained there three years. In 1844 he entered the Theological Seminary at Columbia, S. C., whence he graduated in 1847. Settled first in the ministry at Atlanta, Ga. In 1849, he had charge of a mission church in Augusta, Ga. He was settled in Chattanooga in 1851, and in Bolivar, West Tennessee, for twelve years. In 1865, he was settled in Columbus, Kentucky, and in July, 1873, he moved to Lexington, Miss., where he is now engaged in the ministry.

He married 11 May, 1852, MARY JANE SAFFORD, daughter of Rev. Henry Safford, of Greenboro, Georgia, and Eliza Burr, daughter of Dr. William Burr, of Philadelphia, who was a nephew of President Burr, of Princeton College, N. J. The Safford family is large, and includes many persons of distinction. The Hon. A. B. Safford, of Cairo, has written the history of the family, and says he has written to every penitentiary in the United States, and not a Safford can be found on their records.

Children:

1. William Henry, born in Bolivar, Tenn., 14 Dec., 1855.
2. Mary Eliza, born in Bolivar, Tenn., 11 Jan., 1857.
3. Catherine Alethea, born in Bolivar, Tenn., 20 Jan., 1860.

DEXTER HORTON

As an outstanding member of the Horton family whose part in the national life, as pioneer patriot, city builder and founder of a great financial institution, a brief note of his life will give interest and value to these pages.

Of superior breed, courage and intelligence doing credit to his forebears, seasoned by hardship from his earliest youth, he achieved a large place in the institutions of the Northwest.

In 1852, with his wife and little daughter, Rebecca, he was of the early vanguard of covered wagon pioneers, traveling with a party of five families, eight men, six women and as many children and sixty horses. They encountered many hardships, with Indians, etc., and the cholera breaking out that year, many newly-made graves marked the route of the wagon trains. The family lived at Salem, Ore., the first winter. The climate was invigorating. The Oregon Country was divided and the territorial organization of Washington took place that year, the country lying north of the Columbia River being included in its borders. They made their way to Seattle, working as camp cook sometimes, chopping piles, working in harvest fields, or anything that offered.

In 1853, purchasing some lots at Seattle, this couple applied themselves with diligence, industry, close application, self-denial, and in less than a year Dexter Horton was in business for himself, and from that time his name stood for all that was sound and enterprising in the commercial life of the young city. There were no banks in the Territory and no need for any existed at that time.

He was a good citizen, it is recorded, improved his holdings and waited not for the incoming population to settle beside him and make him wealthy. He was a man of strong views, generous, kindly, quick to acknowledge his error, if wrong. He gained in reputation for honesty and integrity in the commonwealth.

Loggers and lumbermen coming to town trusted their money to Dexter Horton for safe keeping. It was in sacks hidden behind packages and in the bottom of coffee barrels. As this stock of money grew, he installed a safe to better care for it. Sometimes years would elapse before the owner would call for it. The evolution of the condition was natural. Horton's Store was overrun with money. In 1870 he decided that there was nothing left for him to do but open a bank. A Territorial Charter was obtained; a one-story building housed it, and it began to develop into the great institution it is today.

And the universal confidence reposed in it is a greater asset than the columns of figures that reflect its financial standing.

Dexter Horton was a religious man in every sense of the word. He practiced what he preached. He tried in his own way to make the world better for his having lived in it.

He was charitable to a fault.

He died as he had lived, leading prayer meeting in his own house.

VII. JULIUS, son of Darius Horton and Hannah Olmstead, born, 1834, at Catherine, Schuyler Co., N. Y.; married ANNIE E. BIGELOW, 1864, in De Kalb Co., Ill.

1. George M., born 1865.
2. Dora E., born 1866.
3. Mabel Maude, born 1874; married Frank Edlund.
4. Howard Dexter, born 1880.

Julius Horton, with his father, removed to De Kalb Co., Ill., 1840. He reclaimed and established a fine farm, Julius assisting and helping care for his mother after the death of his father, which left small time for schooling. In 1869, closing a small country store which he had conducted for five years, he, with his wife and two children, set out for Seattle, Wn. They crossed the country to San Francisco by rail and thence by sailing vessel. Twenty-one days were consumed by the voyage. He purchased a half interest in 160 acres on the Duwamish River.

With the demand for property in 1880 he began selling his land in acre tracts and in 1890 filed the first townsite, which he named Georgetown, now a prosperous part of Seattle. In the meantime Mr. Horton had been engaged in various pursuits in Seattle and in farming operations very successfully.

Politically Republican, he was elected by that party to the office of tax assessor for eight years; was postmaster at Georgetown, also stockholder and director of the Puget Sound Savings Bank.

DAVID PHILANDER, son of Joseph Hazzard Horton and Mehitabel Horton (David, "Good" Jonathan, Dea. William, William, Jonathan, Barnabas I.), born in Southold, 31 Aug., 1827; married 3 Nov., 1857, by the Rev. B. Pillsbury, to CAROLINE RUSHMORE, of Hempstead, Queens Co., L. I., daughter of Benjamin Rushmore and Elizabeth Clowes, and born in Hempstead, 16 March, 1829:

Children, all born in Brooklyn, N. Y.:

1. Carolyn Rushmore, born 1 March, 1863.
2. Mary Goldsmith, born 9 Dec., 1865.
3. George Ellis, born 12 August, 1868.

Prof. D. P. Horton became a resident of Brooklyn in 1849, as a student in music, both vocal and instrumental. In December, 1856, he was employed to give instruction in music in the Public Schools of the city, and also to large classes of private pupils. Soon after this, he commenced leading the music in the Churches, and in this employment he has been engaged ever since, devoting his time during the week to giving instruction in the Public Schools, and leading the music in one or more Churches every Sabbath.

He possesses fine social as well as musical qualities, and he and his companion are both live members of the Presbyterian Church, and their influence for good is largely felt in the Church and congregation, and also wherever they are known. They have also given very valuable assistance in looking up the history of the Horton family—putting into my hands family records which Prof. Horton had been gathering up for some years past—and it has given me much pleasure to make their house my home, and enjoy their generous hospitality whenever I have had occasion to visit their beautiful city.

David P. Horton, though a man of many activities and interests, did his most effective and far-reaching work in the city of Brooklyn, N. Y.

To that city he went as a young man, after very thorough preparation for his life work with the best music masters then obtainable.

Soon he found his working hours well filled, with private pupils, singing classes, and a little later employment as teacher of music in the public schools, with study always during a possible spare hour.

Later he was able to devote some time to composition, and wrote and published many very beautiful and carefully harmonized productions.

Music was his greatest interest, and he heard it in every sound, from insect chirps and the song of birds to the roar of winds and the thunder of the heavens, the lap of waves on the sand, the harmonies in the tree tops. About 1877, he made the acquaintance of Rear Admiral Steven B. Luce, at that time Captain of the U. S. Training Ship Minnesota.

Captain Luce, believing in the value of historical navy songs as a help in training the minds and memories of the young sailor lads under his command, was making a collection of such songs, which he hoped to publish for use in the sailors' classes.

In Mr. Horton, he immediately recognized an understanding and enthusiastic collaborator and at the Captain's request, Mr. Horton was enlisted in the navy as a music master, serving two evenings each week.

Together, after several years of careful research and much thoughtful effort, the "Naval Songs No. 1" was published in 1889.

This and many other collections, beside those of his own composition, occupied such leisure hours as came to him. In church work he was at different times choirmaster of the "Brick Presbyterian" Church (Rev. Dr. Van Dyke), Classon Ave. (Dr. J. T. Duryea), Simpson M. E. and numerous other prominent Brooklyn churches.

He always believed and taught the power of music, as an aid in influencing character, as well as a great help in memorizing important facts (through song).

Little children were his special interest and delight, and many a talented child from the primary grade (oftentimes from an obscure home of hard working parents) has been personally taught, directed and encouraged by him, to a position of self-support, and thus another musician given to the world.

Those little children, grey haired men and women now, and scattered all over the country, remember with gratitude and pleasure, "Professor Horton, my old music teacher, whom I loved next to my father."

THOMAS HORTON

THE HISTORY AND SOME LINES OF THE POSTERITY OF THOMAS HORTON, IMMIGRANT, AND ONE OF THE FOUNDERS OF SPRINGFIELD, MASS.,
1636.

Thomas Horton, once thought to be a brother of Barnabas Horton, who settled in the eastern end of Long Island, 1640, was born in England, 1602.

From Burkes Landed Gentry, vol. 1, p. 345, (1) William, of Barkisland or Bark Island Hall, who purchased in the 15th year of the reign of Charles I. the estate of Howroyde, was born 1576; (2), his brother, Joseph, born 1578.

Thomas Horton was the son of Joseph, born 1602.

Thomas Horton, who had married in England, Mary Eddy, came to America in the ship Mary and John, 1632-33.

They sojourned at Windsor, Connecticut, two or three years, where their first son, Jeremiah, was born. They were educated people, the report says. Their signatures are still to be seen in the "Pyncheon Papers" that have to do with the land purchase from the Indians.

Thomas Horton was one of the founders of Springfield, Mass., was witness and signer of the Indian Deed, was town officer and proprietor. His lands are minutely described in History of Springfield, Mass., by Mason Green, p. 45: A map is shown, minor matters of record in the same show that Thomas Horton was party to a trivial suit at law with one Mirick. Another entry shows that his levy for ministerial support was £1. He died 1641, before he had time to make much history.

From "Pioneers of Massachusetts 1636-1736" by Pope, p. 231, there is a line or two:

"Robert Ashley, proprietor of Springfield, Mass., town officer and keeper of an ordinary (tavern), made marriage contract with Widow Mary Horton, Aug. 7, 1641, who was possessed of much property and guardian of the children of Thomas Horton."

It is explained that the women in those times were not safe without male protection and also that they were fewer in number than the men and therefore in much demand. There is record of further allotment of land to Widow Mary Horton.

Thomas Horton left three sons: Jeremiah, born 1636; Thomas, born 1638; John, born 1640.

There were other children of Mary Horton Ashley. The children of Thomas Horton are likely to have been scattered as they grew up and were found in other localities—Braintree, Milton, Rehoboth, Charleston, Dorchester and Templeton show records of Hortons in church and historical documents. One of them of a later generation is recorded as the heaviest taxpayer and man of affairs in his community.

The Arms claimed by this House are given below, and were obtained from the Heraldic College, London, Eng., by us in 1928.

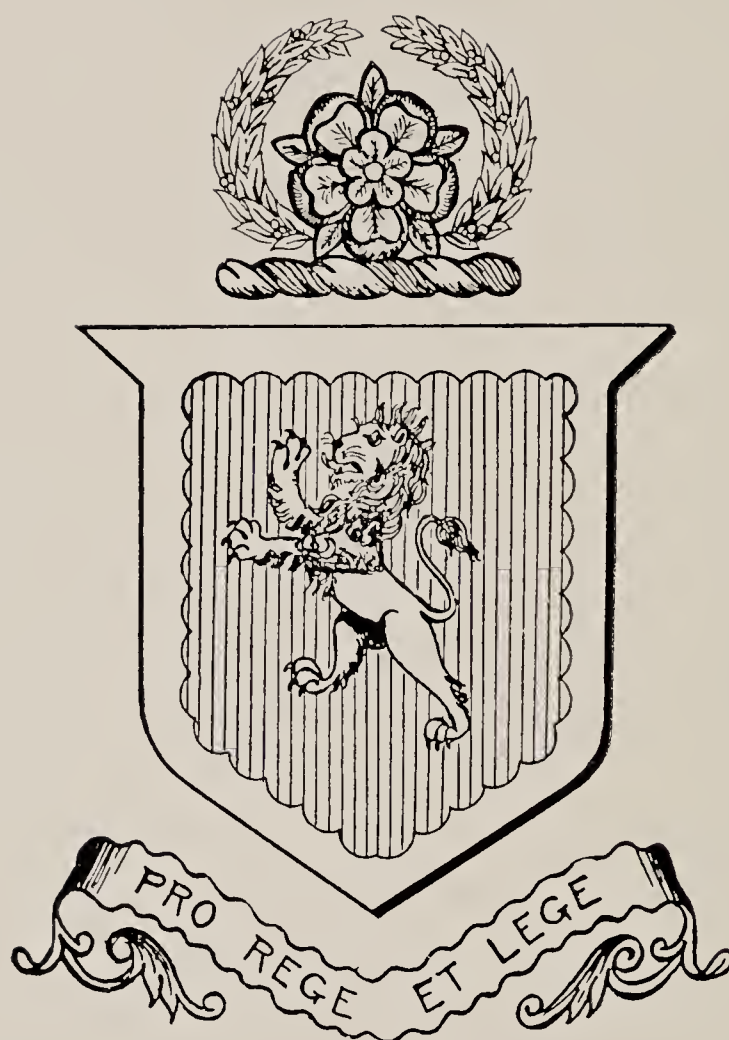

This Arms design was granted and confirmed, 1725, to Anne, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Horton of Barkisland in the west riding of County York, and to her descendants and the other descendants of her great grandfather, William, of Barkisland, as follows: Gules, a lion rampant, within a bordeure engrailed argent, charged on the shoulder with a boarhead, coupé, azure, and crest, a rose, gules, seeded barbed, and surrounded with two laurel branches, proper. The grant goes on to recite that Anne descended from the family of Horton of Horton, in the parish of Bradford, who were seated there in the times of Eadward I. (early English king, A. D. 890), and that the arms appear to have been in Barkisland Hall, Howroyde House and Sowerby, all in the parish of Halifax.—From report of Heraldic College, London, England, 1928.

As a matter of history, Anne Horton, the heiress (above) married the Duke of Cumberland. The Cumberland river and mountains were named for the Duke of Cumberland in 1766.

In 1909 there was about to be published at Bloomfield, N. J., a record of Thomas Horton, the immigrant to Springfield, Mass., 1636, and the posterity of the same.

It was compiled by Marcus Nelson Horton, one of the descendants of Thomas. It seems that he died before it was finished. It is believed that the data gathered and arranged by him is yet in existence. Every effort has been made, without success, to bring it to light. Future historians of Thomas Horton may yet accomplish it.

Material is being collected and added to the records of a branch of the family of Thomas Horton by Mr. Guy B. Horton, Montpelier, Vt. The line briefly is: Guy, Brent, Andrew, Alva, Aaron,

Horton

YORKSHIRE

Herton

Gules (Red), a lion, rampant, within a bordure. Engrailed. Argent (silver), charged on the shoulder with a bear's head coupé azure (blue) and Crest, a rose, gules (red), seeded and barbed; and surrounded with two laurel branches, proper (natural) (green) (coupé means cut off squarely).

Joseph, David, Thomas I., but is not perfected as yet. Mr. Horton says that family tradition centers the early life of this line at Templeton, Mass.

THOMAS HORTON

From "Descendants of Thomas Horton"

The account of this branch of the descendants of Thomas Horton, the Springfield, Mass., founder and proprietor (1636), is taken from an attractive and creditable volume compiled and published by Austin Jay Horton, one of his descendants, who lived at Hamburg, N. Y., and is since deceased.

The book was published in 1912. It contains 125 pages and many excellent portraits, showing a vigorous, handsome and outstanding type of people. They have an association and hold periodical reunions. The first reunion was held in 1909 in grounds once owned and occupied as a home by Thomas Horton, the progenitor of the line, in 1773, at New Lebanon, Columbia County, N. Y.

As a valuable and interesting addition to the account of the Hortons in America we give the entire lineage, reluctantly shortening somewhat of the biography on account of space.

Mr. Austin Jay Horton says that he has not been able to establish positively a direct line of descent to Barnabas Horton I. He personally examined the records, "Vital Statistics of Rehoboth, Mass.," where his ancestor, Thomas Horton, came from.

With the information he furnishes in his preface we are able, with the records and documents in our hands, to trace his line with reasonable certainty to Thomas Horton I., the Springfield founder and proprietor, 1636.

The record of the line of the Thomas on which Mr. A. J. Horton bases his claim to the ancestry of Barnabas I., is entirely set aside by corrections given in the addenda of the second edition of Dr. Geo. F. Horton's work, which is shown in a corrected lineage in this volume. (The second edition was published 1878.)

FIRST GENERATION—THOMAS

THOMAS HORTON, son of Joseph Horton (in England), born 1602; married Mary Eddy and emigrated to America 1632-33. Settled at Springfield, Mass, 1636.

| 1. HIX. | 5. JUDITH. |
| 2. JACOB. | 6. NATHAN. |
| 3. ANNA. | 7. THOMAS. |
| 4. DAVID. | 8. HANNAH. |

Thomas Horton married, 2nd, Esther Haskell.

Hannah Hix Horton died, as recorded in the handwriting of Thomas Horton, "on January the 15th, 1804, on Saturday nite, about 3 hours after midnight, and winged her way to eternal glory in the mentions above, where in a few more roling suns I hope to meet her, never to part again."

In 1773 Thomas Horton with his wife, Hannah, and two small children, Hix and Jacob, moved from Reheboth, Mass., to New Lebanon, Columbia County, N. Y., and purchased some land, built a home and made there their home.

Not long after he responded to his country's call to arms for service in the Revolutionary War. He enlisted in Co. 8, 17th Regiment, Albany Co. Militia, serving first as private and then as sergeant.

Afterwards returning to his home he, in time, acquired much land and other property, as shown by his will, a copy of which in quaint phrasing but with convincing correctness of equity and justice between his children and his surviving wife, is given in the genealogy.

He died at New Lebanon, N. Y., 1825; his widow, Esther Haskell Horton survived him 15 years.

V—JUDETH

SIXTH GENERATION

JUDETH, daughter of Thomas Horton and Hannah Hix, born in town of New Lebanon, Columbia Co., N. Y., Nov. 17, 1777; married Elisha Wood.

No record of the date of their marriage can be found, neither can the dates of birth of all their children be obtained.

Sept. 26, 1825, they signed a deed giving their address as town of Locke, Cayuga Co., N. Y. Where dates are not given I have arranged the order of their births as best I could. It is highly probable that Anna was the firstborn. From some of the branches I have obtained names but found it impossible to get dates; from others I can get nothing. Wherever dates are given they are as reported to me, and probably correct.

—A. J. H.

- Hannah Linsey married 2nd, ——— Curtis.

LETTERS WHICH APPEARED IN THE 1876 WORK

Malone, N. Y., 16 August, 1871

GEO. F. HORTON, M. D.:

My Dear Friend: Your very kind and interesting letter of the 18th inst. came duly to hand some days since. I have often heard it said that the Hortons of this country sprung from two brothers, who emigrated from England at an early day, and that one of them settled in Massachusetts, and the other on Long Island. My ancestor, Stephen Horton, I think, was a descendant of Thomas Horton, who settled in Springfield, Mass., perhaps a son of Thomas. My brother, John Horton, many years since obtained from Dr. Horton, of Hartford, Ct., the genealogy that I send you. There was many years since a Dr. Horton, who resided at Springfield, whom my eldest sister visited, and who was a relative of ours. He had a son who was also a doctor in New York City, and also engaged in the grocery and provision business. I think he is dead. I am satisfied that Barnabas Horton was a brother of Thomas.

Stephen Horton settled in West Springfield, Mass. He had two sons, Benjamin and Stephen. Benjamin, born in 1720, died at Brandon, Vermont, 13 Jan., 1803. He left two sons, Gideon and Moses, also a daughter, who married a Mr. Underwood.

Gideon Horton was born in 1744, in West Springfield, Mass.; married Sarah Douglass, great aunt to the Hon. Stephen A. Douglass. He died at Brandon, Vt., 16 Dec., 1801. His sons were Hiram, Gideon, Jr., and John. Hiram, born 5 March, 1764; at West Springfield; married Sarah Drury, 16 June, 1785, at Pittsford, Vt.; moved to Malone, Franklin Co., N. Y., in 1808. He was one of the leading men of the county, holding the office of county treasurer, and first judge of the courts for several years. He died 5 Oct., 1824.

He owned a large quantity of land, also mill property and several mercantile stores. He belonged to the Presbyterian Church, and was active and consistent in its duties. He had three sons and seven daughters. Sons were: Harry, John, and Hiram, Jr. (myself), all born in Brandon, Vt. Harry, born 22 July, 1796; died in Constable, N. Y., 22 August, 1840. He was a farmer, a merchant and a manufacturer of flour and lumber. He belonged to the Congregational Church. He had two children, Hiram Safford Horton (married and settled in Wisconsin, and has a large family), and Delia A. Horton, who married Howard E. King, Esq., merchant at Malone. John, son of Hiram, Sr., born 22 Dec., 1797; died at Madrid, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., 14 Oct., 1859, without issue. He was also a member of the Congregational Church, and followed farming, milling and lumbering. Hiram, Jr., born 22 April, 1799; resides in Malone, N. Y.; married 20 Jan., 1822, Adaline Mead. Has three children, all born at Malone, N. Y. I. William L. Horton, born 28 Oct., 1822; died 19 Sept., 1861. He was a lawyer; left two children: George F. and Anna M. Horton. II. Adeline Mead Horton, born 21 Jan., 1834; married in October, 1864, Myron

G. Horton, grandson of Dr. John Horton, who was the son of Gideon Horton, Sr., being her 3d cousin. They reside at Malone, N. Y., and have two children. III. Frederick, born 22 August, 1838, and died 13 April, 1867, childless. I have now named the male members of my branch of the family, and for the family of Gideon Horton, Jr., I refer you to Dr. Charles W. Horton, of Brattleborough, Vt., one of his sons, and for the family of Dr. John Horton, I refer you to his son, Dr. Geo. Horton, Winauskie Falls, Vt. The Hortons seem to have been given largely to the medical profession. When your work is accomplished, I shall be glad to have you send me one copy.

I am, your truly,

HIRAM HORTON.

Mr. Horton, the writer of the foregoing letter, was a highly respected member and Elder of the Presbyterian Church of Malone. He died 31 August, 1873. He was a dealer in flour, lumber, and dry goods, real estate, and merchandising of various kinds. Mrs. Myron G. Horton, informing me of his death, remarks that she is now (1874) the only one of his children living.

Barrington, R. I., March 27, 1871.

DR. GEO. F. HORTON:

Dear Sir: Your letter of inquiry lies before me, supplying more information than I shall be able to give you. Ours is a Boston family, where my father and grandfather both resided. We were six brothers and four sisters, all of whom lived to their maturity, but of whom only five now survive. The eldest of these was Rev. Jotham Horton, of whom you inquire, who died in Boston, in February, 1853. His son, Rev. Jotham Horton, died, a martyr to freedom, by the mob spirit in New Orleans, some years ago. Our father's name was Jotham, who was a ship-smith, and did the iron work of the historic frigate Constitution. (This was his grandfather, Jotham Horton. B. H. W.)

Our family being large, my parents allowed me to go into the country (Worcester County), at the early age of seven. I was educated a papermaker previous to entering upon a course of liberal education. Thus separated from home, I had less knowledge of our ancestry than might otherwise have been the case. Supposing that my surviving brother at Mobile has better information regarding our ancestry than I have, I take the liberty of forwarding your letter to him, requesting him to supply any intelligence he may have at hand. He having been long a resident there, and loyal to the Union, is an ex-Mayor of the city, appointed by General Pope, and is at present, happily for him, judge of probate for the county. His address is, "Hon. Gustavus Horton, Mobile, Alabama." From him you will probably hear soon. Wishing you much success in your laudable investigations, and quite willing to recognize any of our cousins in the Keystone State.

I am, yours, etc.,

F. HORTON.

The Rev. Francis Horton, writer of the foregoing letter, was one of the excellent of the earth. He was a scholar and quite a poet, and an able and much loved minister of the Word. He died in 1873.

Note.—Contributed by L. S. Horton, M. D., to the addenda (83 pages) to Dr. Geo. H., 1878.

MANLEY PADELFORD HORTON (lineage not yet fully developed), born in Rehoboth, Mass., 1811; married, 1833, Vesta Slocumb, only daughter of Bethuel Slocumb and Mary Adams, and born in Bellingham, Mass., 1812; she died 1838. Mr. Horton resides in Providence, R. I.

Lewis Slocumb Horton, son of the above, was born in Woonsocket, R. I., 1837; married in New York City by E. H. Chapin, D. D., 1863, to Maggie McNab, born in Detroit, Mich., 1840; died 1879.

Children, born in New York City:

1. Dexter Barnard, born 1868.
2. Lewis Frederick, born 1870.

Mr. Lewis Horton is a physician, and the "Diarist" of the New York Medico Historical Society says, "Reads much, writes readily, and is much esteemed, both as a physician and a good citizen."

Horton.

LEVI HORTON

Levi Horton, probably of the sixth generation in America, whose forbears came in the early exodus of Puritans about 1632-36, settled in and about what is now New York City.

They were no doubt close relatives of both Barnabas and Thomas, emigrating at about the same time.

There is reason to believe that Jeremy Horton instead of Jeremiah may have been the progenitor of the Levi Horton line. The traditions of the family point to seafaring forbears.

There has not been found a trace of a Jeremiah Horton referred to in Dr. Horton's pages.

Their Arms are identifying of such relationship. It will be noticed that this design is composed of the crests of those of Barnabas and Thomas. The crest is the same as that granted to Colonel Thomas Horton in 1649 or is very similar thereto.

Three bars in red, gold and purple, fill the lower part of the shield below the panels. The Heraldic description is wanting the replica of the arms being in color. It has been in the possession of the family many generations. It is described as being framed in mahogany nearly black with age, thick glassed and heavy board backing, the parchment-like paper yellow with age—the whole bearing convincing appearance of great antiquity.

Sensing, no doubt the coming crisis of the revolution and being loyal to the king, as many others were, Levi Horton logically withdrew to more settled English territory and established his family at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, a few years before the War of the Revolution. The early records of this branch of Hortons was destroyed in a disastrous fire.

There is a record of a deed to land given by Levi Horton "to my son William," 1798. In 1803 there was a similar deed to the same and signed also by Mercy Lewis Horton, wife of Levi.

Levi Horton was a sea captain and vessel owner engaged in the coasting trade.

SEVENTH GENERATION

I. WILLIAM, son of Levi Horton and Mercy Lewis, born in Yarmouth, N. S., about 1777; married ———.

Children:

JOHN BARNARD, born 1801.

William Horton was a sea captain.

EIGHTH GENERATION

I. JOHN BARNARD, son of William Horton and wife, (Levi), born 1801 at Yarmouth, N. S.; married Ann E. Valpy, born 1799, daughter of Captain John Valpy of Yarmouth, N. S.

Children:

I. ELIZA BUTLER, born 1827; married Warren Hathaway, 1852; no descendants. She died, 1915, at Calais, Maine.

II. THOMAS WILSON, born 1830 at Yarmouth, N. S.

III. CALVIN VALPY, born 1832; married Annie McAllister. Had three children: (1) William Warren, who died at 18 years; (2) Carrie, who died at 9 years; (3) Gertrude, married, 1st, Hon. Ansel L. Lumbert; married, 2nd, Geo. Parke of Tarrytown, N. Y. No descendants.

4. HARRIET HELENA, born 1908.
5. MARIAN GERTRUDE, born 1916.

Ralph Thomas Horton was twice elected mayor of Calais, Maine, and is now postmaster by appointment. He is also engaged in the coal business as state agent for a Nova Scotia coal mine. They are devoted members of the Congregational Church.

The record of this branch states that there is no insane, no cripples, no dependents, no inherent disease, no tendency to alcoholism.

We have letters from other branches of Hortons in Canada who cannot at present establish their lineage. They write of localities once thickly peopled with the race and of cemeteries overgrown and forgotten with mostly Horton graves.

JONATHAN A. HORTON (Descendant of Barnabas Horton I.)

The importance of accurately kept family data is stressed in the many partial records that come into our hands.

A notable one is that by Jonathan A. Horton, probably of the Jonathan line whose connecting record was broken in the Revolutionary period and is typical of many others.

Jonathan A. Horton, born on Long Island, 1768, some twenty or more years later, wandered with his young wife "into the wilds of Pennsylvania" and there (Susquehanna County), established his family.

His wife died leaving young sons, David and Hathaway.

Jonathan A. Horton then married Polly Fairbrother, an English girl and with much hardship reared a family of ten children, who were:

- | | |
|-------------------|---------------|
| 1. Joshua Albert. | 6. Elizabeth. |
| 2. George W. | 7. Rachel. |
| 3. Samuel M. | 8. Mary. |
| 4. Hiram. | 9. Phebe. |
| 5. Elisha. | 10. Jane. |

Their descendents are numberless and many are found in far and near parts of the United States. They have the characteristics of the Horton ancestry whose traditions they cherish. Their part in the national life has been and is a worthy one.

They have an association of members of the family centered at Montrose, Pa., where they hold periodical reunions.

Jonathan A. Horton died 1929.

The children of Joshua Albert, first son of Jonathan A. Horton and Polly Fairbrother, who married Laura Aurelia Platt, were:

1. Thomas J., who married Nellie Thompson.
2. Olivet, who married Delmar Knapp.
3. Hattie Franc, who married Dr. W. A. S. Murphy.
4. Delmer, who married Jessie Boyce.
5. Elizabeth, who married Dr. Darry.
6. Calvin Dix, who married Grace Gallup.

The children of Hattie Franc Horton and Dr. W. A. S. Murphy were:

1. Ardella E., married Lawrence A. Darey.
2. Allen Platt.
3. Walter Paul; married Jessie Guernsey.
4. Pearl, born 1874.

Pearl Murphy married William H. Kleinke of Decora, Iowa.

Their children are:

1. Viola Lenore, born 1897.
2. Gladys Hope, born 1900.

Viola Lenore Kleinke married Bertram M. Rivenbaugh, graduated from College as Civil Engineer. Is commissioner of Parks and Playgrounds in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The children of George W. Horton, second son of Jonathan A. Horton and Polly Fairbrother, who married Elizabeth Byrne, are:

1. Martha E.
2. Elisha; and others.

Martha E. married W. W. Washburn. They live at Santa Monica, Calif.

The children of Samuel M., third son of Jonathan A. Horton and Polly Fairbrother, who married Sarah Glidden, who was born of Revolutionary ancestors, were:

1. William H., born 1841; who died in prison in the Civil War.
2. Susan L., born 1841; married James Shaw; 2nd, Charles Leet.
3. Archie S., born 1843; married Martha Pickering.
4. Calvin Leet, born 1845; married Elizabeth Shaw.
5. Olive M., born 1847; married Daniel Bolles.
6. Samuel, born 1849; married Annie Hollis.
7. Sarah O., born 1851.

Alphabetical Index

As a genealogy is largely composed of names it is obvious that it would go far to doubling the size of the volume to index all of them. An effort to give representation to the families has been made.

Note that in tracing a lineage after the name is found in the index, look backward through the generations for ancestors and forward for descendants.

Dash (—) following Christian name indicates surname Horton.
